Apathy?—or just too scared to be good samaritan?

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Two college students learned this lesson from a social experiment: Don't look for a good samaritan when you're the victim of a crime.

Judith Nielsen and Ron Patrick, both journalism students at San Francisco State University, said Thursday that victims of kidnaping, rape and brutality can expect little or no help and hardly any sympathy from their fellow citizens.

Miss Nielsen and Patrick posed as victims of crime in different sections of the city last week.

One experiment involved Miss Nielsen who was tied to a pole on a street corner. She was scantily clad and had a gag. She tried to wriggle free from her bonds as pedestrians and cars passed her.

Sixty-seven cars passed her and none stopped, she said. And a taxi stopped several feet away, hesitated and then drove off.

An auto with two women in it stopped and asked, "Are you all right?" Another 33 cars passed before two policemen showed up. The two women who had stopped apparently called headquarters.

Bound and gagged in Union Square in the downtown section, Miss Nielsen's pleas were ignored by 65 persons within 16 minutes.

One businessman said later to an interviewer: "I thought maybe she was on a 'trip' or something. I didn't ask her if she needed help because she would have had a hard time answering through the gag."

Patrick sat bound and gagged on a park bench. In 15 minutes 42 men and women walked within five feet of him but none stopped.

One man said, "You see so many crazy things in San Francisco —I was afraid that whoever tied him up might be hiding in the bushes waiting to attack me if I helped."

The findings of their experiment were reported in The Phoenix, the journalism department's weekly newspaper.

The headline over the story read: "Damned Few Good Samaritans."

4 hurt, man arrested in 5-car crash

POMONA — Five cars collided Thursday night on the San Bernardino Freeway near Kellogg Drive, sending four persons to a hospital and a fifth person to jail.

Johnny Robert Kromer, 27, of Torrance, was booked at the Pomona jail on suspicion of felony drunk driving and driving with a suspended license.

The collision resulted when Kromer, driving at a high rate of speed, swerved to miss a slower-moving vehicle and lost control of his auto, said highway patrolmen.

Kromer's auto came to a stop crossways in the two fast lanes, where it was struck by two oncoming cars. These were traveling side-by-side. These automobiles, in turn, collided with two other vehicles.

The other drivers involved are Paul Corbin, 33, 957 W. D St., Ontario; Ralph Creamer, 43, 26 Mt. Baldy Rd., Mt. Baldy; Herbert Roubidoux, 50, 2156 Anne Place, Pomona, and Alvin Morse, 29, of Omaha, Neb.

Those injured were Corbin, Roubidoux and Creamer, and Creamer's wife, Gail, 28. All were treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and released.

Laird to leave after Ford 'in'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After 21 years, Melvin R. Laird is leaving government service, confident that Vice President-designate Gerald R. Ford can do a better job than he can as President Nixon's liaison with Congress.

Laird, Secretary of Defense during the first Nixon administration, Thursday confirmed reports he will leave government for an unspecified non-government job once Ford is confirmed by Congress, which is expected to happen next week.

The former nine-term Wisconsin representative spent much of his time attempting to smooth administration relations with Congress since taking over as Nixon's chief domestic adviser after John D. Ehrlichman's Watergate-induced resignation last spring.

Laird, 51, although privately in disagreement with White House handling of some Watergate problems, has tried to stay out of the controversy himself. His few public statements on the subject have been loyal to Nixon, although he once suggested that Nixon fire Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler.

Four southern states jarred by earthquake

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — A "minor to moderate" earthquake sent a window-rattling, dish-breaking jar through homes in four states early today but there were no reports of injury or major damage.

The tremor along the Southern Appalachians at 2:50 a.m. EST measured 4.75 on the Richter scale at the University of Mississippi's seismological laboratory.

"I consider it a minor to moderate earthquake," said the lab's director, Dr. Fred Followill at Oxford, Miss. Followill said the tentative center of the quake was under the University of Tennessee in Knoxville.

The professor said any Richter reading under 5.0 was not considered strong enough to do structural damage to buildings and houses.

"It would cause such minor damage as broken windows and dishes, cracked plaster," Followill said.

The National Weather Service in Atlanta said it received reports of the tremor from Eastern Tennessee, Western North Carolina, Western South Carolina and North Georgia.

"It shook pretty good around here," said a spokesman at the Knoxville weather bureau.

Mandatory curbs proposed

Night sports face ban in L.A.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Banning of night sports in this city because of the energy crisis has become a distinct possibility.

The general manager for the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power said the city should immediately impose mandatory curbs on electricity usage.

The warning served to compound a situation wherein Southern Californians already are feeling the crunch of a gasoline shortage.

Robert V. Phillips, DWP general manager and chief engineer, was asked by the Board of Water and Power commissioners for his recommendations on electrical energy.

"I would say a mandatory curtailment ordinance," he replied.

That indicated that the city has already passed through the the first two stages—conservation and voluntary cutbacks—of a five-stage plan to cope with the energy crisis.

DWP lawyers began drawing up "phase three" ordinances to ban billboard and sign lighting, limit the hours shops, offices and factories can remain open and ban nighttime sports and exhibitions.

The California Highway Patrol and the Automobile Club of Southern California both warned that most gasoline stations would be closed from Saturday night through Monday morning.

"The possibility of finding a 24-hour station on Sunday will probably be close to nonexistent," the auto club said.

A survey of 12 counties showed that about 78 per cent of the stations plan to close. Those few that do plan to open on Sunday will mostly close early in the afternoon or evening, the auto club said. Some stations that ordinarily remain open 24 hours a day plan to reopen Monday just after midnight, the auto club said, but others will remain closed until sunup.

The California Highway Patrol suggested that motorists avoid the 247-mile stretch of Interstate 5 between Tracy and Gorman. Interstate 5 is one of the main north-south highways in California, running from the Mexican border through San Diego, Los Angeles and Sacramento to the Oregon border. There will be eight stations open, at most, on that stretch Sunday, the highway patrol said, and motorists would be better off on state highway 99.

Ontario sites proposed

Area CHP office moving

CLAREMONT — Local highway patrolmen may soon have their home base in Ontario.

Eight possible sites for a new area office have been proposed in the vicinity of the San Bernardino Freeway and Mountain Avenue.

The site sizes range from 3½ to 4 acres. These are located close to a San Bernardino County complex, which includes Municipal and Superior courts.

The new facility will be combined to house both the California Highway Patrol and the Department of Motor Vehicles, said Capt. W. C. Jones, area highway patrol commander.

At present, the patrol office is located on Indian Hill Boulevard north of the San Bernardino Freeway in Claremont.

The building lease, however, has expired and the local force has outgrown the facility. The structure was built to house 60 officers. It now has 85 patrolmen.

The new area headquarters will be designed for a 100-man force, said Jones. "We are hoping to start construction by early April, with actual construction taking about 90 days."

In addition to the new office, the area boundaries will be extended east from Rochester Avenue to Etiwanda Avenue to include Alta Loma and Cucamonga.

Representatives from the state's General Services division, the Department of Motor Vehicles and the California Highway Patrol toured the proposed sites this week.

Later, they ranked the three top sites. These recommendations will be presented to other officials in Sacramento, where the final selection will be made.

The area office was moved to Claremont in 1963 from a building near Garey and McKinley avenues in Pomona.

Valley political lineup will feature new faces

By PAUL HILL
P-B Staff Writer

As expected, there will be some new faces in the Pomona Valley's political line-up next year because of the state's latest redistricting plan.

Of the nine state and congressional legislators who now represent portions of the valley, only one — state Sen. H. L. Richardson — is assured of maintaining his district.

Two others — Congressman Charles Wiggins, R-25th Dist., and Assemblyman William Lancaster, R-49th Dist. — can retain districts in the valley if they are successful in their bids for re-election.

(All assemblymen and congressmen must seek re-election next year, while only those senators in even-numbered districts have to do so. Senators in odd-numbered districts do not have to run again until 1976.)

The rest have been shoved completely out of the area by the reapportionment, and apparently have found homes in their new districts.

Of the seven legislative districts created by the plan, it appears that at least two, and possibly a third, will be without an incumbent.

The two such districts are the 64th and 65th Assembly districts, the latter containing the majority of the valley's population.

The 35th congressional district, which consists of the entire valley except for Diamond Bar, could also be without an incumbent legislator, but there are several "if's" to be considered.

The primary consideration rests with Wiggins and his decision where to run. The 35th district is just one of three areas where the West Covina Republican could seek re-election.

Apparently, he has reached that decision since he scheduled a press conference for late this afternoon to discuss his plans.

If Wiggins does not choose to run in the 35th district, then Richardson or Rep. Victor Veysey might become candidates.

Richardson, R-19th Dist., who also is considering trying for the U.S. Senate against Alan Cranston next year, said Thursday he is "interested" in the district, but his decision "depends an awful lot on what other people do."

Veysey is a man without a district, the result of the reapportionment's authors decision to ignore the factor of incumbency. His present 43rd district was divided among three new districts, all of which have incumbent congressmen.

Briefly, here is how the political line-up may shape up (showing valley cities in each district):

ASSEMBLY

62nd District: Assemblyman Lancas-

3 brothers held in slaying of 4 S. Dakota boys

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (UP) — Three brothers were arrested on murder charges today in the Nov. 17 shotgun slayings of four teen-aged boys while they were picnicking in a state park with a young girl.

Authorities said the brothers, all from the Sioux Falls area were arrested at 6 a.m. and each was charged with four counts of murder for the apparently motiveless killings at a former Indian burial ground in Gitchie Manitou State Park.

The unidentified 13-year-old girl who accompanied the youths on the picnic was spared by the killers and has been in protective custody since the slayings. It was believed that questioning of her led authorities to the suspects.

The brothers were identified as Allan Fryer, 29 of rural Hartford, S.D.; David Lyle Fryer 24, and James Ray Fryer, 21, both of Sioux Falls.

Announcement of the arrests came in a statement read by Iowa assistant Attorney General Ike Skinner. Skinner and other law officers attending a news conference declined to elaborate on details not contained in the statement.

The arrests capped a massive investigation by eight law enforcement agencies in South Dakota, as well as the Iowa Bureau of Criminal Investigation and the Lyon County sheriff's department. Civil defense auxiliary police here also took part in the investigation.

Arrest warrants were signed by Magistrate L. P. Baker in Rock Rapids, county seat of Lyon County.

It was at an abandoned farm northwest of here that officers got their first major break in the investigation.

A vehicle for which the officers had been searching was believed found at the farmstead.

The farm house was located Thursday based on a description provided by a 13-year-old girl, who was being held in protective custody by police as a witness to the murders of the four youths —Stewart Baade, 18, his brother, Dana, 14, Roger Essen, 17, and Michael Madrath, 15.

She told authorities she was with the four boys during a party at the park when three men approached and opened fire on the youths. The girl, who was not identified, said the men split up and left the park and that she was "taken" by one of the men who later dropped her off near her Sioux Falls area home.

Lyon County Sheriff Craig Vinson said a massive search had been conducted in Iowa and South Dakota Wednesday night for two farm houses believed to be within a 50 to 60 mile radius of the state park. He said the farm houses were "places where the girl was taken."

The four victims were killed by shotgun blasts, one of them in the head and the others in the body.

More letter bombs found in Tel Aviv

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Security officers today uncovered six more deadly letter bombs in Tel Aviv's central post office.

Police said the discovery of the bombs brought to 16 the number of booby-trapped letters that have arrived in Israel in the last three days. None of the bombs have exploded.

The latest packages were mailed from Italy and addressed to places in Jerusalem, Tel Aviv and Eilat, authorities said.

Rain forecast for Saturday

Tonight's cloudy skies will increase Saturday and rain will fall at periods throughout the day. The high temperature Saturday will be a cool 62 degrees.

Terrorized L.A. in grip of hoodlum 'gang crisis'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Police Department said Thursday the city and its surrounding areas are in the grip of a "gang crisis" because of the failure of the juvenile criminal justice system.

In a two-hour briefing for police commissioners, 10 officers told how gangs terrorized citizens and how police manpower was being drained to combat youthful hoodlums.

"Hardcore hoodlums" Police Capt. Steve Downing said, are being allowed to return to the streets by a lenient justice system.

"These hoodlums," he said, "have brought about infection of youths in the communities."

Police Chief Edward M. Davis said the juvenile court system lacks an adequate staff and that "there is an extremely low regard for the rehabilitation of juveniles in Los Angeles County."

He said there are three fulltime judges to handle juvenile cases in the area.

Davis also said the juvenile justice system has deteriorated over the years, but "nobody gives a good God damn."

The five-member board was told gang activity is at its height in the southwest section of the city, but that gang activity also extends throughout the city and surrounding areas, including the San Fernando Valley.

The officers gave the commissioners a review of Negro, Mexican-American, Chinese and Anglo or "Hells Angels" type gangs, the four most prominent in the area.

Downing said the No. 1 "gang crisis" was in the southwest and central sections of the city, where blacks are killing each other in gang-related activities.

Assistant Police Chief Darryl Gates said that in the predominantly black neighborhoods of south Los Angeles, new gangs are springing up to defend themselves against activities of the "Crips" gang.

The most violent crimes were reported to have occucrred in the south central portion of the city.

Police officers said two warring factions were leading the gang activity in Chinatown. They said a "turf war" is currently being waged between the Wah Ching and You Lee gangs.

The commissioners were told that Mexican-American gangs have remained constant and that Hells Angels and similar type gangs are more organized, efficient, business oriented and tied in with organized crime.

William Norris, police commission president, said the briefing Thursday was "a beginning," and that "we can begin to make informed judgements as to what the department should be doing to deal with gangs."

Nixon: 'mistakes' by his legal staff--changes due

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's lawyers, headed by J. Fred Buzhardt, have made "some mistakes" in handling the Watergate affair and the office is being reorganized, according to White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler.

Ziegler said Buzhardt would continue on the legal team but an Illinois judge, John J. Sullivan, a Democrat who is a longtime friend of the President, has joined the group.

Ziegler indicated the President was concerned about what he considered mistakes by Buzhardt's staff in courtroom tactics before U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica. "They've been working hard and we've made some mistakes in this situation," he said.

Buzhardt said he would not disagree with Ziegler's comment that he was overworked and added "I've never pretended that I was perfect."

John J. Sullivan was expected to take an increasingly dominant role in directing the President's courtroom campaign and Ziegler added that former Treasury under secretary H. Chapman Rose of Cleveland and Philadelphia attorney Kenneth W. Gemmill have volunteered to help strengthen the President's legal team.

Asked whether Buzhardt would remain in charge of the Watergate advisers, Ziegler replied, "Yes, Fred will continue to work on Watergate matters, will continue to play a key role on Watergate matters."

Asked specifically if Nixon was satisfied with Buzhardt's handling of the case, Ziegler replied:

"I don't want to express any public dissatisfaction in relation to the work of any individual. Fred Buzhardt has worked very hard and will continue to work on the President's staff."

New faces...

ter will be the incumbent, and must face re-election next year (Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas).

64th District: No incumbent (Walnut, Diamond Bar).

SENATE

32nd District: Incumbent will be the winner of special election Dec. 18 for present 20th Senate District (Pomona, Ontario, Montclair, Upland, Chino).

25th District: Richardson will be the incumbent, but will not have to run for re-election until 1976 (Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas).

CONGRESSIONAL

35th District: No incumbent unless Wiggins decides to run here (Pomona, Ontario, Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas, Montclair, Upland, Chino, Walnut).

33rd District: Apparently there is no incumbent (Diamond Bar).

Since the court waived the one-year residency requirement in ordering the reapportionment, it is conceivable that a person from outside a district could run as a candidate if he establishes residence within the district by Jan. 28. However, it is doubtful this would happen for the reason it could be a very unpopular move on the part of a candidate.

Among those legislators who will no longer have districts in the valley are Assemblymen Joseph Montoya, D-50th Dist., John Briggs, R-35th Dist., and John Quimby, D-72nd Dist.; James Whetmore, R-35th Dist., and Congressmen Jerry Pettis, R-33rd Dist., and George Brown, D-38th Dist. All have indicated they will seek re-election in new districts outside the Pomona Valley.

Briggs, for one, was upset with the reapportionment order, particularly the part concerning Senate re-elections. He had hoped to run against Whetmore in the new 35th Senate District, but Whetmore, like Richardson, does not have to worry about re-election for three more years.

Briggs will now choose between two Assembly districts in Orange County, an aide said Thursday.

Reaction to redistricting plan by civic officials throughout the valley was generally favorable.

"Basically, we will have one congressman, one assemblyman and one senator," said Pomona Mayor Ray Lepire in reference to the boundaries of the 35th Congressional, 32nd Senate and 65th Assembly districts. "It means better representation. These officials can look at this area and see that the problems relate to the whole area and not a particular part."

Commented Ontario Mayor Howard Snider on the compact 65th district, "It only takes 10 minutes to go from one end to the other, and that at only 50 miles an hour."

Task force

Job loss in energy crisis to get study

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor Secretary Peter J. Brennan has set up a special task force in his department to assess the potential job loss from the nation's energy shortage and to develop ways to help workers who are laid off, it was learned today.

Undersecretary of Labor Richard Schubert was scheduled to announce the task force at a news conference in Philadelphia later today (2:30 p.m. EST) during a visit to the regional Labor Department office there.

Schubert told UPI the task force hopes to find ways to provide adequate unemployment pay for workers who lose their jobs because of the fuel and energy shortage, to help them find or train for new jobs, and to encourage industry to find ways to reduce the need for laying off workers.

Chairman Herbert Stein of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers said Thursday the council expects unemployment to go as high as 6 per cent at times next year if the Arabs continue to ban shipments of oil to the United States. Joblessness now is 4.5 per cent of the work force.

Some private economists have predicted unemployment could rise as high as 8 per cent because of the energy shortage. Layoffs because of the fuel shortage have already started.

The House Wednesday approved and sent to the Senate a job training bill that included a program to help ease unemployment resulting from the fuel crisis.

Schubert said the Labor Department prefers amending the present unemployment insurance program to help workers who lose their jobs as a result of fuel shortages.

He suggested Congress delay action for 90 days to give the department time for further study.

First GM car with air bag rolls off the assembly line

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Motorists unhappy with the buckle-up or don't drive safety belts in 1974 cars now have a choice—air bags as a $225 option.

For that price, GM will add two air bags and all the electronic equipment needed to work them. It will leave off the ignition interlock, and warning buzzer and flashing lights that have irritated many drivers in recent model cars.

GM produced the first of the airbag-equipped cars Thursday and rolled it off an assembly line at its Oldsmobile Division Headquarters. The car—a Cinnamon-colored Toronado Brougham—was driven off the line by Dolly Cole, wife of GM President Edward N. Cole.

The safety item is one answer to the government order to automakers to come up with a completely passive restraint system to protect drivers by the time 1976-models cars are introduced in mid-1975. another is a safety belt system that pins the front-seat occupants in when the front doors are closed.

Speaking to newsmen after viewing the air cushion system, as GM refers to it, Cole said he didn't know how many of the 50,000 air bag-equipped cars that GM will produce in the 1974-model year will be sold. GM plans to produce 100,000 air bag-equipped cars in the 1975-model year.

"We just don't know how much a person is willing to pay to be able to get in a car and not have to do anything," he said.

Hearing set on proposed OIA runway

By L.T. ROGERS
Asst. City Editor

ONTARIO — Residents will have four sessions to express their views regarding an environmental impact study prepared for the proposed construction of a second main runway at Ontario International Airport.

Public hearings have been scheduled for Jan. 8 and 9, from 3 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m., both days. These will be held in Chaffey High School's Gardiner Spring Auditorium.

Clifton A. Moore, general manager of the Los Angeles Department of Airports, announced these hearing dates Thursday at an airport commission hearing conducted at the Ontario airport.

Judge Herman Cameron, an attorney and Los Angeles member of the Southern California Association of Governments airport hearing board, will preside.

The session will be devoted to accepting written and oral comments on the 600-page study, prepared for the department of airports by the Northrop Corp.'s environemntal systems department.

The hearings will cover a brief review of the report by the consultant and then be opened to interested parties. The comments presented will be included in the final impact report to be sent to the Federal Aviation Administration, an agency of the federal Department of Transportation.

The $90,000 study, released last June, makes the finding that the most positive step to reduce the airport's noise impact is to construct a second runway.

While this will result in a greater number of operations by 1985, the net result will be a decrease in both noise and air pollution by accommodating the heavier and quieter aircraft, it added.

The proposed project is to build a new 10,200-foot runway parallel to the present east-west runway, but with the threshold being shifted 2,200 feet to the east. The move will allow departing aircraft to be at a higher elevation when going over populated areas, thus reducing noise and air pollution levels.

The airport commission had authorized the Northrop study in May, 1971. Completion was delayed pending acceptance by the FAA of an airport sound evaluation system.

Testimony given at the hearings will be attached to the toal report and sent to FAA officials for their review, expalined William Schoenfeld, deputy general manager of the Los Angeles Department of Airports.

"If the FAA adopts it, this then becomes its report. We are providing them the information they need to make their own report. The FAA officials will make a determination on the project and if it will affect the environment."

Following FAA review, the study and testimony will be sent to the office of the secretary for the Department of Transportation, he added.

Should approval be given, there may be a two-year period before actual construction could begin, he said. Such a time period would be needed to prepare a design, complete negotiations and award the contracts.

Airport officials, however, are seeking to coordinate the new runway construction with the U. S. Corps of Engineers' expansion of the Cucamonga Creek channel which crosses the south area of the airport. The project is scheduled for 1976.

The airport commission had taken previous action regarding the proposed second runway when it allocated $3 million from unallocated funds for its construction. The total cost, however, is expected to be greater than that amount.

Commissioners noted the importance of the second runway during a helicopter ride over the existing main runway.

"We saw where it (the runway) needs capping," reported Stephen C. Bilheimer, commission chairman. "We want to settle this once and for all."

Kennedy boy goes home on crutches

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Edward M. Kennedy Jr., carrying a football autographed by the Washington Redskins football players, was released today from Georgetown University Hospital—13 days after amputation of his cancerous right leg.

The 12-year-old son of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., was operated on Nov. 17, four days after it was determined he was suffering from cancer of cartilege below the knee.

The youngster appeared in excellent spirits as he left the hospital, and without assistance got into the family car, with his father at the wheel. His mother, Joan Kennedy, was in the back seat.

Young Kennedy was on crutches although he was fitted with a temporary artificial leg two days after the operation. It is designed to help him learn how to walk and to maintain his balance.

A permanent artificial leg will be fitted after the leg stump fully heals.

Clifford Irving granted parole

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Clifford Irving will end the last sentence of his $765,000 literary swindle next Valentine's Day one year early.

The U.S. Parole Board Thursday approved his second request for early release and paroled him effective Feb. 14, 1974.

Irving, 42, was sentenced in June, 1972, to two years and six months for defrauding McGraw-Hill publishers with a fake biography of billionaire Howard Hughes. He began serving the sentence Aug. 28, 1973.

His wife, Edith, is currently serving a two-year sentence in a Swiss prison for her part in the hoax.

Long underwear is answer to crisis

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — "I'll show you how you can adapt to lower temperatures," Gov. Calvin Rampton told newsmen, hiking a pantleg of his suit.

A portion of the governor's new long-handled underwear was displayed at a news conference after Rampton ordered thermostats in the state capitol lowered to 68 degrees.

The gubernatorial display Wednesday came after several employes, including a few who brought their own heaters, complained it was too cold in the capitol under the new policy.

Olympics gymnast is new Peter Pan

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Cathy Rigby, America's No. 1 gymnast at the Munich Olymics, is going on tour as Peter Pan.

NBC Entertainment Corp. Thursday announced plans for a new musical production, with Miss Rigby as Peter Pan, to tour the United States, Canada and Mexico.

It will open at San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 3.

Although she was rated as a gold medal threat at last year's Olympic Games, injuries cost her any shot at a medal. She now is married to former pro football running back Tommy Mason.

Allende's widow arrives in Canada

OTTAWA (UPI) — Mrs. Hortensia B. de Allende, widow of the late Chilean president, held a tearful meeting with Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau Thursday then appealed to Canada to help Chileans wishing to come here.

When Mrs. Allende left the prime minister's office she was crying openly. She left Trudeau's office through an adjoining room while news photographers waited at the main entrance.

The widow of Salvador Allende, who died in the military coup which toppled his government Sept. 11, met briefly with newsmen Thursday night but commented only lightly on her meeting with Trudeau.

Mrs. Allende said also she hoped Canada would cease giving credits to the junta and refuse to trade with Chile to precipitate a fall of the junta, which she frequently referred to as "fascist."

Liz will leave hospital in week

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Elizabeth Taylor will be released from the hospital in about a week, UCLA Medical Center says.

"Miss Taylor is doing very well," her doctor reported Thursday. "She is a very cooperative patient." The 41-year-old movie star was operated on Wednesday to discover the source of abdominal pains. A cyst was removed from her right ovary and an "abnormal intestinal formation" was corrected.

Undersea search leader arrested

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Christopher Delucchi, who led an ambitious attempt to salvage valuables from the sunken liner Andrea Doria, was arrested by the FBI Thursday on charges that he obtained government material for his own use while he was a Navy Aquanaut.

Delucchi, 22, was charged with fraud and embezzlement for allegedly using Navy requisitions to obtain $1,300 worth of industrial pipe equipment.

Delucchi, now vice president of Saturation Systems Inc., led a team of former Navy aquanauts that tried last summer to salvage cash, jewels and other valuables from the Andrea Doria, which lies on the bottom of the Atlantic off the East Coast of the United States. They used a "saturation diving" system, living and working out of a sunken chamber nicknamed "mother" that was attached to the wreck. They said the attempt failed because there is too much debris blocking the passages inside the liner.

Conservative will seek senate seat

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — S.M. "Sam" Cavnar announced Thursday he is a candidate for the Senate seat that will be vacated by Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev.

Bible revealed several months ago that he will not seek re-election, ending 20 years in the Senate.

Cavnar, 48, a management consultant described himself as a conservative Republican. He was chairman of "Operation Bus Stop" in Michigan, and general chairman of Project Prayer, which works for the restoration of prayers in the public schools. Cavnar said he supports President Nixon, and is in favor of meeting the energy shortage with offshore oil drilling, the Alaska pipeline and the conversion of shale oil.

Driver makes citizen arrest on freeway

MONTCLAIR — The California Highway Patrol received a helping hand Thursday night from a motorist in the arrest of a suspected drunken driver.

Michael Howard Henderson, 19, of San Dimas had noticed a car in front of him weaving back and forth while traveling on the San Bernardino Freeway east from Garey Avenue, officers reported.

At Monte Vista Avenue in Montclair, Henderson motioned the other driver to pull over to the side of the freeway where he made a citizen's arrest, they added. He then detained the motorist until a highway patrol car arrived.

Officer W. R. Anderson was on freeway patrol duty when he saw the two cars parked and stopped to investigate. He administered a breath alcohol test, then transported the suspected driver to the San Bernardino County jail in Ontario.

Michael Paul Duane, 25, of Orlando, Fla., was booked there on suspicion of drunken driving.

Henderson's action drew praise from Capt. W. C. Jones, the California Highway Patrol's area commander. "By stopping the driver, this might have saved someone's life," he said. Jones said he will send a letter of commendation to Henderson.

3 arrested with illegal weapon

ONTARIO — West End sheriff's deputies arrested three men and confiscated a Thompson submachine gun, a Winchester 1873 model 44-40 caliber rifle and an antique Civil War breechloader here Thursday night.

Sheriff's detectives Joe Henry and Don Carpenter said they received information from an unidentified person Thursday afternoon that several men were seen taking a submachine gun from the trunk of a car near Mission Boulevard and Central Avenue. The detectives said they "staked out" the area for several hours and spotted the car and the three men. The car was stopped at a small market at Fremont Avenue and Mission Boulevard in Ontario.

Carpenter said a search of the vehicle revealed a nonoperable submachine gun and a clip in the trunk. The three men identified as Mike Angel Morales, 21, of Modesto, Jimmy Garcia, 26, and his brother Reynaldo E. Garcia, 20, of 10855 Central Ave., Ontario, were arrested at the scene on suspicion of possessing an illegal weapon. The three were booked in west end jail.

Carpenter said in a search of the Garcias' apartments at 10855 Central Ave. they found the Civil War breechloader, a Winchester "73" rifle, a foreign made .38 caliber revolver, an electric motor and three motorcyles, one partially stripped. Carpenter said the weapons and motorcylces are believed to have been stolen.

Carpenter said they also recovered a small jar of suspected marijuana seeds from the apartment.

Two hurt as auto flips on freeway

DIAMOND BAR — Two persons suffered minor injuries Wednesday night when their small car overturned on the Pomona Freeway and slid on its top into the center divider fence.

Carol Epperly, 24, of La Mirada, the driver, and Johnathan Delling, 18, of La Habra, a passenger, were treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and released.

The car was going west on the freeway and went out of control when the driver swerved to avoid a slower moving vehicle, said highway patrolmen.

The sedan rolled over and slid into a divider fence near Grand Avenue. The collision damaged 33 feet of fence and four posts.

2nd suspect in Ontario knifing held

ONTARIO — West End sheriff's detectives have arrested a second man in connection with the Sunday night stabbing of a Covina man outside of the El Carousel Tavern at 4711 Mission Blvd.

Detectives said Alfonso Guzman Vera, 22, of 743 W. Grand Ave., Pomona, turned himself in at the West End sheriff's substation Wednesday afternoon after he learned he was being sought for questioning in the stabbing of James Cepeda Corona, 20, of Covina Sunday night. Vera was questioned and then placed in the West End Jail on suspicion of attempted murder.

Early Sunday morning Carmelo Orelas Barba, 20, of 951 12th St., Pomona, was arrested by a sheriff's reserve officer on special duty at the tavern. The reserve officer found Corona stabbed several times outside the building. Barba was booked for investigation of attempted murder.

Corona, who suffered stab wounds of the heart lining, diaphram, stomach and leg, remained in Montclair Doctors Hospital this morning. His condition is listed as satisfactory.

Detectives said one other person is still being sought for questioning in connection with the incident.

OHS students blame administration

Drama teacher's exit protested

ONTARIO — Some 50 Ontario High School students staged a five-hour protest Thursday claiming the administration brought pressure on a drama teacher to resign because of an alledged objectionable play given on the campus two weeks ago.

However, both Principal Alfred Dakin and the instructor, Chuck Thompson, denied the allegations and said the decision to give up the drama position at the end of the semester was Thompson's own. He will continue to teach mass media and English classes.

Thompson said he decided not to teach the drama class because "everytime we have done plays something is objected to by the community and the administration gets upset." He admitted the latest incident was not the first time his productions had been criticized by parents who saw the plays, but had been happening the past two to three years.

The present controversy arose when Dakin said he received four phone calls from parents who claimed the play contained objectionable language and connotations. The play, entitled "Communication," depict a married couple who — apparently drifting apart — discover the value of a sincere talk.

Thompson wrote the play. Dakin did not see the play, and only Thursday had seen the script for the first time.

Claremont no earthshaker in spite of its faults

CLAREMONT — Three faults cross the city of Claremont, but none has had movement in the last 25,000 years, members of the City Council, Planning Commission, and Environmental Quality Board were informed Thursday night at a joint study session at Imperial Savings.

Dr. Allen W. Hatheway, senior engineer for FUGRO Inc., Long Beach, which has completed a $5,000 seismic safety study for the city, said that it has been almost 40 years since Claremont has had a quake epicenter of more than 4 on the Richter Scale.

The City Council accepted the report pending completion of corrections of the locations of the Indian Hill and San Jose Faults on a photograph in the report.

Jack Schoustra, president of FUGRO Inc., reported that Claremont is one of the first cities in the state to work on its seismic element but that Claremont is no better or worse off earthquake-wise than any other cities on the south side of the San Gabriel foothills.

He explained that the report was not a complete seismic-safety element, but only the geo-technical data.

Planning Director Sharon Hightower reported that the report would form the appendix of the element in the city's general plan.

Hatheway explained that the Sierra Madre-Cucamonga Fault runs along the foothills and separates Claraboya from the rest of the city, that the Indian Hill Fault runs east and west north of the old Claremont High School north of Foothill Boulevard, and that the San Jose Fault enters Claremont at the San Bernardino Freeway, runs northeastward to Indian Hill Boulevard and Arrow Highway to meet the Indian Hill Fault north of Foothill Boulevard in Montclair.

Referring to the groundwater flooding in various portions of Claremont in 1938, 1967 and 1969, Hatheway explained that the problem with groundwater is not related to earthquakes.

Hatheway said the last time the city had an epicenter of 4.5 was in 1934, and a measurement of 2.5 in January, 1970.

Hatheway recommended that he would operate on a 300-foot band on either side of a fault to ask a developer for an earthquake study if he wanted to build a hospital or school in the fault zone.

Schoustra explained that the amount of the investigation should depend on the sensability of the structure.

Roger Buchanan of the county engineer's office which was asked to make a study of non-residential buildings in Claremont that are quake hazards said that the Webb School gymnasium contains "every material for a high degree of hazard."

City Manager Keith Mulrooney kept Buchanan from naming any more buildings when he said he felt it would be premature to release the addresses of the buildings, because such publicity would cause concern among owners.

Vice-Mayor Bertye Smith commented that the meeting was probably the first of many on the seismic safety element.

Stan Kawa, executive director of the Pomona Valley Municipal Water District, headed up the second half of the program and explained the district's proposed $32 million capital improvement program.

He said that the district is probably looking toward a 1974 bond election to finance the program, but the response from the member cities would decide whether the election was held in the spring or fall.

He explained that all member cities will be invited to a meeting for an exchange of ideas. "There's a fair amount of ground to cover," he said.

He said that the water treatment plant probably will be west of the Pomona Valley Protective Association property. Cost of the plant and feeder lines west on Base Line Road to other cities is estimated at $13,117,000.

He said the district which serves strictly as a water wholesaleer expects to use 100 per cent Feather River water.

A 4,500-acre-foot reservoir in the Tonner Canyon area to serve Roland Heights, Diamond Bar and Walnut will cost about $18,783,000, Kawa expalined.

"We intend to integrate both plants as much as possible," he said.

Kawa explained that he did not feel the proposed project would be "growth-producing."

He said that the project is primarily a ground-level delivery of water. He explained that by 2000 the district expects an 80 per cent dependence on imported water.

He said that Claremont presently receives 76 per cent of its water from wells, and 23.9 per cent from imported water, but by 2005 the well water supply will drop to 59.2 per cent.

He said that the proposed treatment plant would take care of 10 to 15 years of expected demand, but that the distribution system would be developed fully.

He said he didn't know whether the financing program would be by general obligation or by revenue bonds.

Meditation research to be topic

CLAREMONT — Jack Forem, author of a new book, will discuss medical and psychological research on transcendental meditation at a public meeting tonight at 8 at Webb School.

He also will explain the worldwide movement teaching transcendental meditation, a practice brought to this country by Indian teacher and thinker Maharishi Mahesh Yogi.

Scientific research at more than 80 universities and research institutes, from UCLA and Harvard Medical School to the Stanford Research Institute, develops creative intelligence and sharpens perception, Forem said.

In his book, "Transcendental Meditation: Maharishi Mahesh Yogi and the Science of Creative Intelligence," Forem traces a decade of growth in the movement and reviews scientific research.

Dead in Japanese store fire mourned

TOKYO (UPI) — "My God, it looks like hell," a fire official said as he tramped today through the smoldering ruins of the Taiyo department store in Kumamoto.

In another part of town, robed Buddhist priests chanted prayers at the Higashi Honganji temple. Relatives inside sobbed by the coffins of 100 persons killed when fire blazed through the store Thursday during a pre-Christmas sale.

A team of fire officials began an intense search of the wreckage today in an attempt to determine the cause of the worst department store fire in Japanese history.

Most of the dead were women shoppers or sales personnel. Police said 65 of the victims were women, 32 were men and three bodies had been burned so badly their sex could not be determined.

At least 100 other Japanese shoppers and store workers were injured in the blaze itself —by fumes, lack of oxygen and the wild crush to exits at the first shout of "fire."

Hairdresser accompanies Reagan tour

SACRAMENTO, California (UPI) — At taxpayer expense, Nancy Reagan's hairdresser is accompanying Gov. Ronald Reagan and his wife on a 12-day tour of the Far East.

Julius Bentsson, a Los Angeles beautician, was invited to make the trip to style Mrs. Reagan's hair for the many appearances scheduled for the Reagan to promote U.S. exports. The governor is representing President Nixon.

"Whenever the governor and his wife have to make a number of public appearances, they take him (Bentsson) along," Clyde Walthall, Reagan's press secretary, said Wednesday. "It has the approval of the State Department."

The federal government will pay the expenses of the trip. Besides the beautician, four Reagan aides and an undisclosed number of security agents are accompanying the governor, who will return to the United States Dec. 5.

Radioactive pipe leak disclosed

RICHLAND, Wash. (UPI) — Solid radioactive waste clogged a pipe and caused a 7,000-gallon leak at the Hanford Atomic Reservation earlier this month, according to the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC).

An AEC spokesman said radioactive salts clogged the underground pipe, forcing the highly radioactive liquid waste to back up and spew out through a vertical pipe.

No one was exposed to radioactivity by the Nov. 14 leak, the spokesman said, and the contaminated soil was buried in cement containers on the sprawling atomic facility.

Both evaporators at Hanford, used to convert the liquid wastes to solid material, were closed down following the mishap.

"We're looking at the possibility of modification to the pipe," said AEC spokesman Tom Bauman. "Once this is started, we'll make some modifications and start the evaporators up again."

The program to convert liquid radioactive wastes to solids was begun after a series of leaks was discovered in aging storage tanks.

No proof yet of virus-cancer link

By AL ROSSITER JR.
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — There is increasing evidence that many forms of human cancer are caused by viruses and hope is growing that vaccines eventually will be developed to prevent some cancers, several scientists said today.

But researchers have not yet come up with conclusive proof linking human cancers with viruses and one scientist, Dr. Howard M. Temin, professor of cancer research at the University of Wisconsin, said he does not believe there is a direct connection between human cancers and viruses.

A specific virus must be found to cause a cancer before an anti-cancer vaccine can be developed. And even then, one researcher attending a national conference sponsored by the American Cancer Society and the National Cancer Institute predicted it will be five to 10 years at least before cancer vaccines can be safely used in man.

In another report, Dr. Brian E. Henderson, of the University of Southern California School of Medicine, said his studies have found no evidence supporting earlier reports that human breast cancer may be spread by viruses in mothers' milk.

Dr. Friedrich W. Dienhardt chairman of the department of microbiology at Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center in Chicago predicted in a paper prepared for the opening session that actual isolation of the first human cancer causing viruses should not be too far away.

"C-type viruses cause sarcomas (malignant tumors) and luekemias in many and probably all animal species and as it is unlikely that man differs in this respect we may expect to find similar agents in man" he said.

Dr. Werner Henle professor of virology at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine said a virus known as Epstein-Barr is a strong contender for the first proven human tumor virus because of its inferred association with Hodgkin's Disease leukemia and some other malignant diseases.

"There are now a whole slew of human viruses commonly seen by the population under natural conditions that we know have potential cancer properties in experimental systems" said Dr. Fred Rapp Chairman of the Department of microbiology at the Pennsylvania State University School of Medicine.

"These same viruses are causing cancers under natural conditions in animals. So one has to entertain the strong suspicion that they might be causing cancer under natural conditions in man" he said at a news conference before the start of the three-day meeting.

"I think probably within five years we will have some handle on whether some of these viruses do cause (human) cancer" Rapp said. But he said it may take 10 years or longer before safe cancer vaccines are available.

"Safety testing is going to be a very big headache and it's going to have to be done slowly with a lot of groundwork laid so we don't cause what amounts to a cancer epidemic" he said in an interview.

"You don't want to instill the disease in any child. So the safety precautions are going to be monumental. For that reason I don't think the vaccine is just around the corner even after we know the virus that is causing any given form of cancer."

Gas rationing would hit hardest in L.A.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gasoline rationing would be most painful for the many big U.S. cities which have grown completely oriented to the automobile and lack mass transportation systems, and among these, the hardest hit city would be Los Angeles.

Big cities that appear to be in the best shape to handle the increase in commuters rationing would bring include New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston and San Francisco.

But Los Angeles like many metropolitan centers has grown up with the private car. It has no subways no elevated trains no streetcars although it does have a bus system. There are no commuter trains to the suburbs. Instead there is a grid of 500 miles of 65 mile-an-hour freeways in the metropolitan area.

The Santa Monica freeway is the world's busiest street, handling more than 230,000 cars a day. It is not unusual for someone to drive 100 miles a day to and from work.

The Washington metropolitan area would not be much better off if gasoline rationing were ever ordered. For the past two years, for example, Jean Gunther, who lives in Bethesda, Md., has gotten up about 7 a.m., eaten breakfast and driven her car to the State Department in Washington.

With the energy crisis she may have to leave the auto home and walk a half mile to catch a bus at 7 a.m. It will add an hour or more to her day.

The bus is Jean Gunther's only practical option. Washington has plans underway for a subway system, which if the citizens are lucky, will be completed by 1980. There is nothing else except a taxi. It costs about $10 to go to Washington from her home by cab.

This is typical although not so extreme throughout much of the rest of the nation. Such places as Richmond, Va., and Atlanta also are almost totally dependent on the automobile.

Atlanta has approved plans for a subway system but as one cynical commuter commented, "God only knows when it will get started."

New York has the nation's largest subway system. The metropolitan area has the Long Island and Penn Central railroads to service the suburbs. Also, there are numerous bus lines in the area.

Chicago has a subway-elevated system which runs from the northern city limits beyond the two suburbs of Evanston and Wilmette. Like the New York subway system, it has been in serious financial straits for years. Chicago also has a number of bus systems.

Philadelphia has a fleet of 1,300 buses, 437 subway trains and 380 trolley cars.

The Boston area is served by the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority which has extensive subway and bus operations but which needs a special appropriation — now pending in the state legislature —to stay in operation.

First tests on Nixon tapes to be completed in January

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — A University of Utah computer scientist appointed to a committee that will attempt to authenticate President Nixon's Watergate tapes said he expects the group officially to begin its work within 10 days.

Dr. Thomas G. Stockham Jr., professor of electrical engineering, and five other experts were named to the committee last week by Federal Judge John J. Sirica, who took custody of the tapes Tuesday.

The verification team will report its findings directly to Sirica, said Dr. Stockham, who estimated that pilot tests on the presidential tapes would be completed during January.

These initial studies will involve physical and electrical measurements as well as several sophisticated analysis of certain recorded sounds, the Utah professor said

Dr. Stockham refused to speculate on the possible outcome of the tests. "It would be premature, I know the pubic will understand, to make any comment until scientific measurements are made in a fair and unbiased way," he said.

Family gym an idea for personal gift

By STEVE ELLINGSON

It appears that easy living and too little exercise have created "the soft society". Flabby muscles, bulging waistlines and poor skin tone are common among all age groups today . . . even teenagers. Here's how we propose to do something about it.

Today's project is a family gym, just perfect as a "do-it-yourself" Christmas gift. This device enables the entire family to start a bodybuilding program right at home without membership dues in gymnasiums or health clubs. It's inexpensive and can be set up in your backyard, basement or recreation room—very little space is required.

The framework for this device is made entirely of water pipe and fittings. All are listed in the pattern and can be purchased at your local plumbing shop . . . assembled in less than an hour. The board is made of plywood and fits on the framework in many other ways than the one shown in the picture. The only tool needed to assemble the gym is a pipe wrench.

Using 38 pictures, the pattern shows over 20 different exercises for developing and trimming down all parts of the body. Most of the exercises done in a large gymnasium can be done equally well on this one, low-cost, healthy-building unit . . . and they only take a few minutes each day.

To obtain the family gym pattern number 287, send $1.00 by currency, check or money order to:

'Men Only' garden club opens up for women

CLAREMONT — Another "Men's Only" institution is changing with the times as the Claremont Men's Garden Club announces it is going co-ed.

Until recently, the club was affiliated with the Men's Garden Clubs of America, and was, as the name inplies, strictly for men. The club is now called the Claremont Garden Club and is inviting women to join.

"It soon became apparent," according to a club statement, "that the home gardening was not done entirely by the men and that the ladies of the house was active, ardent, and enthusiastic tillers of the soil."

Sole requirement for membership in the club is an interest in the growing of plants. "A desire to share experiences and plant material with fellow members would also contribute to the success of this organization," notes the statement.

"Our purpose will be to promote the science and art of horticulture in general and home gardening in particular. The lessons learned from our practical experiences, our successes and failures, will broaden the knowledge of gardening of our members. Many of us have found that gardening in Southern California is not the same as it was 'back home' and costly and time-consuming mistakes can be averted by discussion at the meetings."

Meetings of the group are held at 7:30 p.m. the first Wednesday of every month at the Rancho Santa Ana Botanic Garden lecture hall, 1500 N. College Ave. For information, call 622-9451 in the evenings.

The December meeting will feature Fred Boutin speaking on "Plant Exploring in Mexico." Boutin is botanist at the Huntington Botanic Gardens in San Marino. All residents of the Pomona Valley are welcome.

Give Earth a Christmas gift with live tree

A popular idea for the family today is a living Christmas Tree. The role of trees, and the contributions they make towards a quality environment, helps account for the unprecendented popularity of living trees over "cut" Christmas trees.

Other than environmental considerations, a living Christmas tree quickly becomes a member of the family. It can be grown in a tub, moved in during the Holidays, then be featured outdoors on the patio, deck or porch, the rest of the year. Or, if the tree should get too big to move around, it can be planted in the garden and lighted for the Christmas season for the pleasure of the family—and the neighborhood.

In many California communities, officials have made it possible for residents to donate living Christmas trees to the city after December 25th. The trees are ultimately planted on schoolgrounds, in parks or other municipal areas. This concept got its start in Fremont, several years ago. In metropolitan areas such as Los Angeles and San Diego, groups are now encouraging residents to enjoy a living Christmas tree, then contribute and dedicate the tree to "community service."

As a result of residents' donations, trees have beautiful un-landscaped areas; fire-devastated mountain areas have been reforested and many community areas have been transfered from eyesores into sources of beauty and pride.

Nurseries offer a wide range of living Christmas trees. The selections include the best varieties for local conditions, and your nurseryman can provide information on how to care for your living Christmas tree indoors. And, if you wish to plant the tree in the landscape, after Christmas, he can outline simple planting instructions.

If you wish to donate a living Christmas tree, a suggestion would be to check with your local parks and recreation department to see if arrangements can be made. Remember, whether your living Christmas tree is a family affair, or you desire to dedicate it to "community service," it does enhance the appearance and quality of our environment. A living Christmas tree is a gift to Earth.

Gardener's Checklist

1. Plant daphne now for bloom in late January.
2. Cool-season vegetables can be planted now. These perennial vegetables such as artichokes, asparagus and rhubarb can be planted, also.
3. Select blooming camellias this month. You can extend the camellia season from fall to spring by buying different camellias when they come into bloom in nurseries.
4. Annuals such as pansies, violas, and calendulas should be set out to brighten the winter garden.
5. Remember that rains can't reach plants growing next to the house under wide overhangs. Don't let them dry out.

Not too late to put spring bulbs in ground

Even though December is here, this is an excellent time to plant spring-flowering bulbs. Most nurseries still have a good assortment of varieties—such favorites as tulips, hyacinths, daffodils and the like—and shipments of hybrid lilies are just arriving.

In most areas of the Golden State, the soil is still easy to work. The days are cooler and shorter, less watering and maintenance are required. For those who feel it is too late to plant, the conditions are favorable, and the varieties available to plant now should clearly reflect that it isn't late at all.

You may find nurseries short in some colors of the standard varieties of hyacinths and tulips, but by massing the colors you can achieve spectacular effects in the cool season garden. Many of the large, spectacular daffodils are still available. The colors include the popular yellow and golden shades, as well as white, creams, and bicolors. All daffodils aren't trumpet-types. Shop for the singles, doubles, Poet-types and other flower forms that will add a whole new dimension to the garden.

Don't overlook the color opportunities offered by the so-called baby bulbs. Crocus, snowflakes, sparaxis, Ixia, plus Dutch Iris, grape hyacinths and scilla are included in this large category. If you're not familiar with the floral beauty produced by these, now is an excellent time to become acquainted.

131 children learn growing has rewards

UPLAND — From March through the first of this month, Pomona Valley children participated in a contest that tried their youthful patience as much as their gardening skills in a vegetable growing contest at the Mt. Fuji Garden Center, 1555 W. Foothill Blvd.

Officials at the nursery last week announced the winners and on Dec. 8 at 1 p.m. will present trophies and medals to the budding gardeners. The ceremony will take place during a free demonstration on how to make dish gardens, terraria, and instant bonsai at the nursery.

Kids from 7 to 13 participated in the contest. They were given a choice of seeds, sunflower, zuccini squash, or pumpkin, when they registered. Each child was required to care for the plants at least 50 per cent of the time, and was judged on the size of the vegetables.

In zuccini, first place grower was Stephen Sargent, 9, 592 Juniper St., Upland. His squash was 21½ inches long by 14½ inches around. Victor Calagna, 9, 1949 Academy Court, Claremont, was second with a vegetable 17¾ inches long and 13½ inches around, while third place honors went to John Collins, 9, 4324 Alamitos, Montclair, with produce measuring 17¾ inches by 10¾ inches.

Darrell Mallory, 10, 940 W. 17th St., Upland, was the sole winner listed in the pumpkin category with produce 44¼ inches in girth.

Sunflower-grower Susie Calagna, 7, 1949 Academy Court, Claremont, grew a first-prize plant of 12 inches' diameter; Steve Lewis, 11, 1741 Vallejo, Upland, was second with an 11½-inch flower; and Mary Jane Lowe, 1364 W. 11th St., Upland, nailed third place with an 11-inch flower.

Mt. Fuji spokesmen said that 131 children completed "Due to the favorable participation, we will make this an annual event at Mt. Fuji Garden Center," the firm reports.

Organic gardeners slate moon planting program

POMONA — The public is invited to attend a meeting of the Pomona Valley Organic Garden Club Tuesday, Dec. 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the City Council Chambers, 505 S. Garey.

Aarimander Singh of the 3HO Foundation will detail the theory of "Moon Planting." He writes a garden column titled, "Moon Seed."

The moon phase rules of gardening call for planting garden crops at certain times, such as in "waxing" and "waning" periods. A number of gardeners follow the system, annually attributing their success to the theory.

City will apply for federal grant

Details of nutrition plan for old revealed

POMONA — If an application for a federal grant is approved, this city will participate for one year in the national Nutrition Program for the Elderly and open in city hall a new office on senior citizens' affairs.

According to a final application approved by the City Council, total cost of the program from Feb. 1, 1974, to Jan. 31, 1975, would be $233,000, with federal funds paying for most of the costs. The city's hard cash contribtuion would be $5,700.

The proposal calls for the serving of hot meals at six city locations five days a week to eligible participants 60 and over and their spouses, regardless of age.

Asst. City Administrator Joseph Korpsak said the meals would provide the participants with at least one-third of their recommended dietary requirements as specified by the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Academy of Sciences, National Research Council.

The application cites 1970 census figures showing that there are about 1,500 senior citizens at the poverty level living in Pomona.

Part of the project involves the opening of an office that would disseminate information on programs for the elderly.

"As this proposed nutrition-meals project is not intended to be a hand-out or charity endeavor, participants shall have the opportunity to make a 50 cents or less voluntary contribution for each meal," said Korpsak.

"Collection of these contributions will be conveyed in a sealed, non-see-through envelope which when turned in will contain either coin, food stamps, or nothing at all," Korpsak expalined.

He said the contract for the preparation, delivery and serving of the project meals would be awarded on a competitive bid basis.

Once the project gets started, Korpsak continued, its success would be evaluated and reviewed on an on-going basis by a Senior Citizen Project Council to be appointed by the City Council.

Staffing for the project would include one director, one senior stenographer-clerk, six half-time community workers, two to five social services coordinators plus volunteers.

"Preference for personnel to be hired for this project will be given to persons aged 60 or over and any persons so employed who are on Social Security will not be paid more than $2,400, if they desire, in order that their allowable income will not affect their Social Security benefits," said Korpsak.

The application is being filed under the provisions of the Older Americans Act.

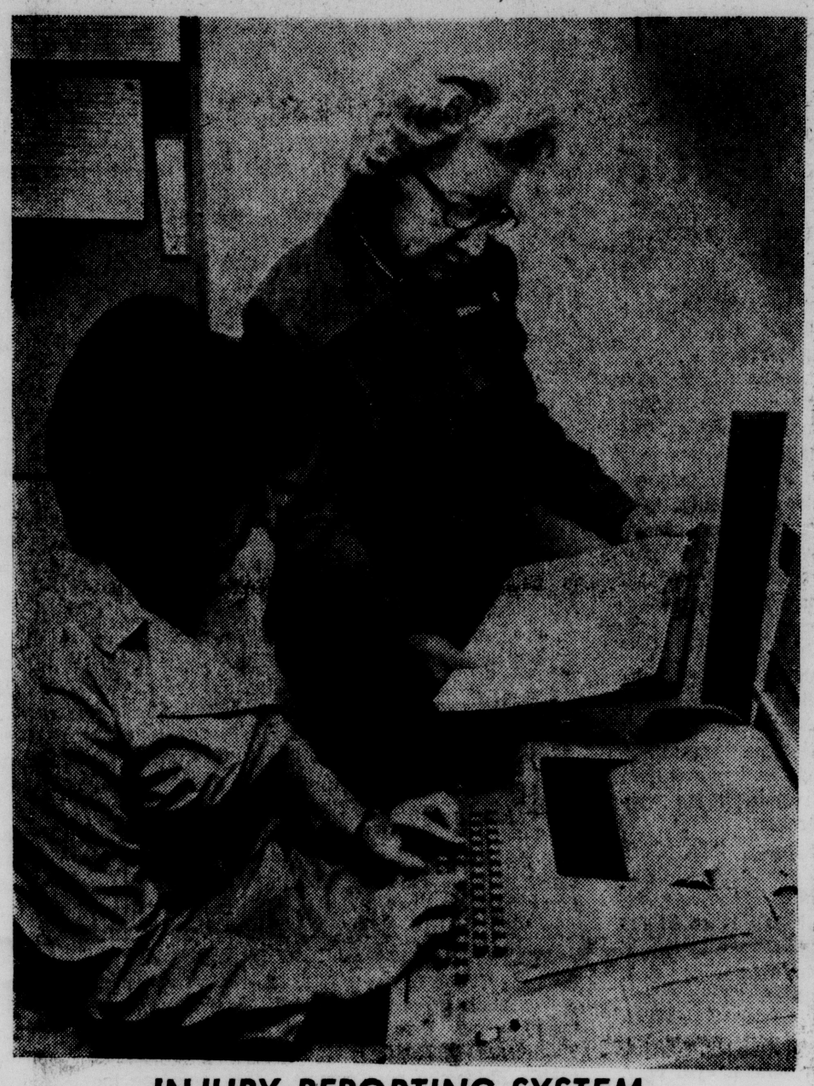
Aim is to spot hazardous products quickly

PVCH linked to U.S. injury-data network



INJURY REPORTING SYSTEM

Mrs. Mary Morrison, left, and Mrs. Dorothy Jamison report product-related injuries from their teletype station in Pomona Valley Community Hospital's emergency department. PVCH participates in the National Electronic Injury Surveillance System, a reporting network aimed at product safety.

POMONA — A child is hurt playing with a poorly constructed toy. A man suffers an injury because of a faulty ladder. A housewife cuts herself using a defective household utensil.

Such accidents occur frequently to persons of all ages.

In an effort to reduce these accidental injuries, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission has established the National Electronic Injury Surveillance System (NEISS). Hidden hazards are its targets.

Among the 100 hospitals across the country using the national injury reporting network is the Pomona Valley Community Hospital. It is the only hospital in the area participating in the network.

PVCH was selected to take part in the network because it treats a large volume of emergency patients, close to 40,000 a year.

Every night, Mary Morrison, head clerk of the emergency department, reports all product-related injuries treated at the hospital that day using code and sending the information over teletype.

Between midnight and 3 a.m. at hours of low telephone traffic, a computer in Washington calls the terminal to collect the data and sort it for presentation to NEISS the following morning.

Cases are analyzed and if a trend is established pointing to the safety of a specific product a field investigation is launched. It can result in a product being modified or banned.

"What's hurting people — that's what we want to find out," Mrs. Morrison said. "The monitoring system is designed to keep track of what's on the market and identify products that are causing either a lot of injuries or particularly severe ones."

More specifically, here's how the system works:

A housewife cuts three fingers on an electric mixer. She is driven to the emergency department. The injury proves minimal and she is allowed to return home after treatment.

But when her injury is reported that night, it happens to match up with another woman in another city using the same brand food mixer who incurred a severe finger laceration in which a tendon was cut.

Within 24 hours the manufacturer is contacted, the mixer is examined and it is determined that the location of the on-off switch, immediately beneath the operator's thumb, made accidental startup easy when the housewife wasn't prepared for it.

If the design of the product is not at fault, it may be necessary to start an educational campaign for consumers.

Injury accidents involving only automobiles are not included in the reporting. But minibikes, motor scooters and bicycles loom large in the injury picture. Industrial accidents are not reported.

But all other product-related injuries are reported including the youngster who cuts himself on a pop bottle. At Pomona Valley, about half of all emergencies involve products, according to Mrs. Morrison.

The NEISS analyses are also provided to the manufacturers and serve as an incentive to the industry for improving product safety. The information is also used to demonstrate the need for federal regulation. Such national reporting of babies getting their heads stuck in between the bars of a crib has led to new safety standards for cribs.

As evidence of the program's value, Mrs. Morrison cites this example:

NEISS was receiving a number of reports of finger lacerations on the left hand involving a certain make of electric hedge clippers. Upon investigation, it was discovered that the clippers, which were especially light weight for easier handling, were in fact too light weight.

The overzealous gardener was able to hold them with one hand while holding back the hedge with the other. Thus the laceration of the left fingers. When this was discovered, the Product Safety Commission approached the manufacturer who now has redesigned the clippers so that it takes both hands to use them.

Ann Davis to appear in yule parade

POMONA — Ann B. Davis, the actress who plays Alice on the TV show "The Brady Bunch," will appear as a star celebrity in the 21st annual Pomona Christmas parade Dec. 8.

The parade will begin at 6 p.m. and proceed east along Holt Avenue from Hamilton Boulevard to Palomares Street.

It is coordinated by the Pomona Jaycees under the supervision of parade chairman Sam Russo. Russo has promised a short parade, high in quality and entertainment value.

Miss Davis, popular with children, began her acting career at the age of 5 when she and her twin sister earned money doing a puppet show.

She got her big break when she was cast as the secretary Shultzy on the old "Bob Cummings Show." Now, as Alice, she is in her fifth season with "The Brady Bunch."

Miss Davis has appeared on Broadway, in numerous movies and since 1958 has not missed one season of summer stock.

She likes swimming, gardening and repairing things "outside my house." She lives in a ranch house in San Fernando Valley.

Miss Davis is superstitious and so she avoids horoscopes.

Her cooking on "The Brady Bunch" is a put-on. "I can read a cookbook as well as the next person, but for some reason, strange things always seem to happen between the recipe and the finished product," she said.

City to train Cal Poly road maintenance crew

POMONA — Up to four Cal Poly employes will receive training in street and road maintenance under the direction of city street department personnel according to an agreement unanimously approved by the City Council.

Councilman Charles W. Bader said he would like to see similar programs started with other colleges in the area.

University employes will work in the city street department to receive practical experience in street and road paving and patching.

The program will permit the university employes to learn street repair work and at the same time assist the city in its street and road repair program.

The university "proposed to undertake a plan to provide for their own street and parking lot maintenance and, in order to provide for a good program, has asked the city to assist in the training of individuals they have hired for this particular program," explained Public Works Director Ronald Kranzer.

Panel on aging to mull nutrition plan

POMONA — The Pomona Valley Commission on Aging will hold a public meeting Monday at 9:30 a.m. at 300 Pomona Mall West.

Nelson Lortie will speak in the nutrition program being sponsored by the city.

PVC to spend $1 million on farm market addition

POMONA — A 100,000-square-foot farmer's market with specialty foods, produce and arts and crafts in a split-level setting is being planned at Pomona Valley Center (PVC).

The market will be situated near the center of the mall in an already enclosed structure.

The $1 million remodeling project will see extensive use of woods and landscaping and will include sit-down and take-out eating places.

Work on the market is scheduled to begin next spring, according to Craig Nelson, manager and leasing agent for the 50-acre center situated south of Holt Avenue and east of East End Avenue.

In addition, Nelson said, the center is to be renamed.

"Within a few months we will be inviting the community to participate in the selection of a new name," he said.

Pictures of the market remodeling project will be posted. Viewers will be asked to submit names for the center which will incorporate the total facility, he said.

Names suggested will be judged by members of the Pomona Valley Center's Merchant's Association. The winning name will be announced next year.

Christmas season 1974 is the target date for completion of the farmer's market. Nelson calls it Phase 1 of the total redevelopment planned for the center.

Phase 2 calls for the complete enclosure of the mall, a project announced by center officials last March.

Phase 2 is being designed by architects Burke, Kober and Nicolais of Los Angeles. Plans for the market are being developed by Bodrell, Joer'Dan Smith and Associates, Inc., Los Angeles, designer of South Coast Village in Costa Mesa.

Nelson said that as the market is completed and new merchants move in they will be required to have nonelectrical signs not only to conserve energy but also to upgrade the appearance of the center.

"Right now we're 16 per cent leased on the project," said Nelson.

Pomona Valley Center Associates, a group of businessmen from Salt Lake City, Utah, purchased PVC from John S. Griffith Co., Irvine, a year ago. Griffith had owned it since it opened in 1955.

"We have changed 10 per cent of our tenants in the past year and brought in several new merchants," said Nelson. "When remodeling is complete we will have space for 130 merchants.

"We plan to continue to make changes, to upgrade the center. We want to create a blend of conventional and nonconventional shopping facilities which will be unique and different."

Meat market staying open so patrons have no beef

I was very sorry to learn on Nov. 10 that the meat market I have been patronizing more than eight years will be forced to go out of business after the first of the year.

The reason is that the health department has made 22 demands to be met within 90 days. Most of the demands entail structural changes which would be impossible to complete in that length of time.

The market has consistently offered high quality and excellent service to many long time and well satisfied customers.

Perhaps Action Line can investigate this bureaucratic action. —Mrs. G. C., Pomona.

We wrote to and talked with Kenneth Siemens, director of environmental services of the Los Angeles County Health Department.

He said things weren't as bad as you represented them, that most of the requirements were operational rather than structural.

The meat market operator can do most of the things he is being asked to do in compliance with the new Retail Food Marketing Law, according to Siemens.

Unfortunately, the structural demands are presenting a problem because the market operator doesn't own the building. The environmental services director says the 90-day limit is flexible if there is enough evidence of planning for the corrections.

He said the market certainly was popular. Even a secretary in his office took him to task for this application of the new law.

A few days later, the market operator said he felt the problem resulted from trying to apply new construction standards to an old building.

The most difficult requirement to meet has been changed, he said, and he will be able to stay in business.

My wife has filed a Medicare claim through an insurance company.

Although the medical clinic where she was treated has repeatedly sent the company complete billings and her medical history, the company insists it cannot find any record of this correspondence. The company insists that she re-submit all the voluminous data, involving still more work for the doctor's busy staff.

We were married a year ago. It may be the name change that is confusing the comapny.

I have paid by checks to date the sum of $261 for medical services alone with still more bills in the offing.

This account dates from Jan. 23 despite the fact that we both have Medicare deductions taken from our small pensions each month. Please help us. — F. S., Pomona.

We wrote to the insurance company. You have received a check for $145, the amount Medicare approved for payment.

We have dogs in our area that bark all night. One starts and pretty soon we have a whole neighborhood of barking dogs.

Don't their owners hear them at all? People a block away can.

Is there anything that can be done about this? I don't want to call the police. —Mrs. G. B., Claremont.

Get in touch with the Humane Society of Pomona Valley, Inc., and a unit will contact the owners of the dogs.

The best procedure is to go to the office and make a written complaint. Your name will be kept quiet and so will the dogs, we hope.

Cranston aide sees value in Pomona visit

POMONA — A U.S. senator's aide said today he believed his visit here earlier in the week would prove to be beneficial to both city government and citizens.

Such visits are "always worthwhile", said Gerald Yoachum, aide to Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif.

Yoachum met Monday morning with Mayor Ray. J. Lepire and City Administrator Jerrold Gonce and in the afternoon held open house for citizens in the City Council Chambers.

Yoachum said he talked with about 13 citizens at the open house about various problems with federal agencies.

He said most of the problems brought up dealt with Social Security and Veterans Administration programs.

City attorneys' pictures sought for collection

POMONA — A collection of photographic portraits of all men who served as city attorney since the city's incorporation in 1888 is being put together by the city attorney's office for public display.

Public assistance is being sought in locating some photographs needed to make the collection complete.

Photographs needed are those of Thomas E. Guerin (1931), Walter Guerin (1939 and 1943), Turner M. Garr (1939), Charles R. Stead (1932 and 1939), and Leonard Shelton (1946).

Persons able to provide helpful information may telephone the city attorney's office at 620-2071.

PVCH blood plan serves as model

Amid all the talk about shortages we are reminded of the national shortage of blood for lifesaving transfusions. It's a problem in many communities in Southern California. Blood from voluntary donors meets only 70 per cent of the need in Los Angeles and Orange counties.

The balance comes from commercial blood. But many donors who sell their blood are often residents of skid row or are unhealthy. The State Senate Health Committee recently was told that blood from paid donors is many times more likely to carry hepatitis than blood from volunteers.

But while headlines proclaim "Southland Hospital Desperate for Blood," this community continues to benefit from a unique program at Pomona Valley Community Hospital which meets the need with blood exclusively from voluntary sources.

In medical and Red Cross circles, the so-called Pomona Plan refers to the blood replenishment program which PVCH pioneered almost 15 years ago. That hospital continues to use 100 per cent Red Cross blood obtained from voluntary donors.

The blood replenishment program operated by the Women's Auxiliary was the pilot program for the county and it has since been adopted in many comparable communities . The plan involves auxiliary volunteers, patients and their families in a program to replace all blood used in transfusions at the hospital.

Officials of the hospital and its auxiliary recently were cited by the Red Cross for 103 per cent replacement of blood used during the past fiscal year. And Pomona Valley has the longest record in the county for 100 per cent replacement.

It is welcome news that this effort in our community has been sustained and has served as a model for others.

A little less oil goes a long way

Most of us by this time have begun to realize the width of the energy crisis — the extent of shortages and threatened shortages of gasoline and diesel fuel for transportation, of heating oil and gas and of the petroleum products that literally lubricate the massive machinery of the national economy.

What many of us don't yet appreciate is the depth of the energy crisis — the second-level and third-level effects, which ultimately translate into whether or not thousands of people are going to have jobs in the future.

For instance, among the first to feel cutbacks in petroleum supplies are the petrochemical producers, who make up a third of the U.S. chemical industry.

A recent study by the Arthur B. Little research organization projected that a 15 per cent reduction in petrochemical output would result in the loss of as many as 1.6 million American jobs and a loss in domestic production value in excess of $65 billion.

An immediate ripple effect would be seen in the plastics industry, which makes up a quarter of the petrochemical industry.

Though plastics account for less than one-and-a-half per cent of total domestic oil and gas usage, the Arthur D. Little study shows that a 15 per cent cutback in petrochemical feedstocks, such as propane gas, reaching plastics producers alone would result in layoffs of more than 560,000 workers and a domestic production value loss of about $23 billion.

The ripple effect would continue through other industries which utilize plastics — building and construction, packaging, automotive and transportation, electrical and electronics, furniture, housewares and appliances, to name just some of them.

Throwing wolves to the dogs

The San Joaquin County chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW) reports that feminists in Stockton have resurrected the Roman goddess Diana in the form of an award presented to members of the community "who have made significant contributions to the quest for women's equality."

Why Diana? Because, the California feminists say, the Roman goddess of the hunt stood for many of the same principles as feminists today. Woe be it to any man who threatened harm to any of the maidens under her protection, or looked upon the goddess as nothing but a "sex object."

Myth buffs will recall what Diana did to one young man who foolishly attempted to submit her to — as they (not the Romans) used to call — "a fate worse than death." She turned him into a stag, whereupon he was torn to pieces by his own hunting dogs.

That was the first stag show, and if any of you male chauvinist pigs think that's funny, it just indicates how much you have to learn.

Maritime head passes hat for Nixon

WASHINGTON — Confidential Senate Watergate documents show that salty-tongued Federal Maritime Chairwoman Helen Bentley collected at least $20,000 in donations for the Nixon campaign from the shipping industry she is supposed to regulate.

The documents describe Mrs. Bentley's dealings with the veteran shipper, Captain Leo Berger, a partner in Avon steamships of Lake Success, Long Island. Both were interviewed by committee investigators in recent weeks.

A summary of Ms. Bentley's brief interview with committee sleuth William Mayton reports: "He asked her a few times in many different ways if she ever solicited money for the 1972 campaign and she always responded negatively."

When Berger was cross-examined, however, he confessed that he and his partner, Peter Constas, gave "$20,000 in cash to Ms. Bentley which she gave to Stans." Former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans, was President Nixon's chief fund raiser and is now under criminal indictment in the campaign contributions case of financier Robert Vesco.

The summary quotes Ms. Bentley as telling the Senate Watergate staff that "the Avon Shipping Company had no business before her" when she passed the campaign hat. "They gave her the money because they knew that she was a Republican," and they wanted the money, according to the summary of her testimony, "to go to the GOP."

The truth is that Avon, like most shipping companies, did have business before the Federal Maritime Commission. Such firms must get certification from the commission, under Ms. Bentley, that they have the financial means to pay for cleaning up any oil spills.

We reached Ms. Bentley, who explained yeastily that she had told the committee staff about the certification question herself and could not understand why it was left out of the summary of her interview.

At Avon, Captain Berger defended the chairwoman, saying there had been no solicitation. His campaign contribution, he said, "was voluntary." Then he added brusquely: "I said everything I'm going to say before the committee. Goodnight."

Despite the gruff sea captain's modesty about his contributions, our investigation backs up the Watergate committee's finding. The records of secret cash contributions to the Nixon campaign show a "Captain Leo Berger" and "Peter Constas," both listed at Avon's Lake Success address, each gave $10,000.

FOOTHOTE: In September 1970, we reported how Ms. Bentley was asked by then Vice President Spiro Agnew to pass the hat in shipping circles for an Agnew crony running for governor of Maryland. Dutifully, she contacted about 10 "top echleon shipping executives," she admitted.

INTELLIGENCE DIGEST: Despite official denials, U.S. intelligence agencies have established that the Soviets have delivered nuclear warheads to Egypt. Apparently, the warheads haven't been turned over to the Egyptians but are kept under the control of a special Soviet nuclear unit. . .Intelligence reports warn that the Kremlin has been pressuring the Arab nations to nationalize western oil holdings. The reports suggest that the Soviets may hope to start tapping the Arab oil fields for themselves, because their own oil fields in rugged Siberia are becoming increasingly difficult to develop . . . Diplomatic reports indicate that the NATO allies may be closing ranks after their initial shock over the Arab oil embargo. At first, the NATO partners began scrambling for themselves for vital oil supplies. But allied leaders, apparently, have suddenly been jolted into recognizing the danger of dividing the West. Quiet new moves have been made to restore more consultation and cooperation.

One untelligence report tells of an exchange between the cease-fire negotiators, Israel's Maj. Gen. Ahron Yariv and Egypt's Lt. Gen. Mohamed Gamasi. Yariv asked whether they should turn the negotiations over to civilians. Gamasi readily agreed. "Tomorrow," he said, "let us return in civilian clothes". . . A State Department telegram, intended for official eyes only, reveals how the United States has been aiding the nation that has cut off our oil. The United States has established a military logistical support system for Saudi Arabia.

PAUL HARVEY

The gallant self-employed

The 5 per cent of American workers who are not working are prominently mentioned and appropriately mourned every month. But what about the unemployed who dare to hire themselves—go to work for themselves—at immense risk to themselves?

What about the deliberately daring "self-employed?" The Meridian (Miss.) Star did a county-wide nose-count recently and discovered that 1,788 residents of that county have created their own jobs.

Many gave up jobs in which they had a good income and a reasonable degree of security and "fringe benefits" and took what they'd saved and what they could borrow and plunged in over their heads in the ice-water sea of commerce and industry.

Because of inadequate financing or insufficient know-how, many failed. Nationally, Dun and Bradstreet says 10,000 to 15,000 fold every year.

Yet enough don't so that 7.7 per cent of all America's workers are self-employed. Lauderdale County, Miss. — with 7.9 per cent self-employed—is a microcosm of that larger world of storekeepers, barbers, farmers, gas station operators, gift shop proprietors and the like.

The self-employed are gallant men and women who dare to do it themselves. Each year, despite known difficulties and unknown pitfalls, thousands more strike out on their own.

Half-a-million new businesses are born every year. And, though the hazards are so great that the odds are against any new business lasting more than three years, each new generation produces more than enough entrepreneurs who are willing and some who are able.

And the some who survive contribute to the goods, services and jobs from which we more timid weekly workers benefit. The Harveys have participated in the pioneer beginnings of a new community in Arizona.

As all moderate climates do, that one attracts a wide spectrum of outsiders electing to build a business somewhere beautiful and a generous number of restless retirees seeking to start over. Most figure any small retail shop will sustain them. But three candleshops in one block won't.

On that frontier only one in ten businesses survives five years yet the "ones" which do are now a nucleus for an increasingly stable economy and orderly growth.

Suffocating government paperwork has forced many small businesses into the arms of a conglomerate and the independent proprietor's independence is no more.

If this latter factor should eventually foreclose on the small shop owners as it has foreclosed on the operators of small farms, we may then become a nation of industrial dinosaurs. Dinosaurs are more "efficient"—but they are people-eaters.

Solar energy

Let's forget nuclear energy as a source of energy. It is potentially frightfully dangerous and one explosion or accident with it might make it unlawful to use.

Let's concentrate, instead, on using solar power to produce steam to produce energy. Several states are already experimenting with solar energy.

I believe Minnesota or Michigan, and Arizona or New Mexico are experimenting actively with these projects, and I believe that the day of oil for heating and running our cars is rapidly coming to a close.

So let's forget our love affair with fossil fuels, and instead pour our resources into developing solar energy. I foresee the day when there will be no internal combusion engines on the road, but electric cars only with stations along the freeways which will allow the long distance traveler a place to recharge his battery. If this is accomplished I hope to see the milky way return to our California skies and to be visible to the naked eye. —Anna Grace Seyler, La Verne.

Keep oil flowing

Regarding the shortage of gas, and the oil boycott. I believe it could be solved at once, if we could think of our own needs first for a change and not make the American people freeze this winter and not use gas for our cars, give up our heat and light, just because Israel wants to keep the land taken from the Arabs in two wars.

We didn't let Hitler or Japan or North Vietnam get away with it. Only Russia has been able to hold and occupy stolen land. Why can Israel do what we condemn in other nations? I believe that Israel should be guaranteed protection of the land given her for a nation, but not any ideas for a takeover to expand her territory, like Japan and Hitler did.

I was glad to see a Jewish homeland and support them, but not when I have to give up our necessities and comfort, just for needless pressure for more land. If we call for a just peace and really mean it, I am sure we will have no oil boycott and the peace of the future will be more secure if there is no smoldering hate by the Arabs over occupied land.

I say keep the oil flowing to America until we can find our own supply adequate. Otherwise, we will lose more than Israel. — H.P. St. Charles, Pomona.

Gossip for today

There's nothing like a feeling of superiority to make life really seem worth while. And so I have the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety to thank for making it possible for me to weather that dark hour of despair when a Motor Vehicle Department examiner insisted I take a second written examination before being eligible for a driver's license.

It was then that an Insurance Institute report made me realize that all was not lost and that possibly I was still not beyond redemption. In fact it convinced me I might even consider myself a superior being. —The report stated that racing car drivers have more accidents and get more speeding tickets than ordinary mortals.

INSIDE REPORT

Ebb tide at the White House

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — The sharp decline in morale and confidence during the week at the White House can be traced to the remarkable press briefing conducted by assistant press secretary Gerald Warren on Monday and what lay behind it.

Knowing that White House reporters would swoop down with hardeyed questions about the obliterated 18-minute presidential conversation on Watergate, Warren spent that morning in extreme agitation. What in the world, Warren asked his fellow aides, could he possibly tell the press?

But by the time the newsmen gathered to ask questions, all indecision by Warren had disappeared. Asked to comment on the missing 18 minutes, Warren brushed it off with the comment that "it would be unwise for me to discuss it from here because it will be thoroughly developed in open court." He later launched an inexplicable attack on special prosecutor Leon Jaworski for allegedly leaking information to the press.

Political insiders at the White House regarded these answers as agonizingly ill-advised. They also knew immediately that, though these strange comments came from the mouth of Gerry Warren, they were the words of press secretary Ron Ziegler.

"Gerry doesn't say boo without getting the sign from Ron," one senior aide told us. What makes this so ominous is the obvious source of Ziegler's inspiration: only Ziegler and chief of staff Alexander Haig have continuous and intimate access to President Nixon.

White House gloom

There is, then, a double-barrelled charge of gloom at the White House this week. The chilling news of the obliterated 18 minutes has badly undercut Mr. Nixon's "Operation Candor," the newest attempt to restore his credibility and revive the spirits of his supporters. According to one top Nixon lieutenant famed for remorseless optimism, the incident negated at least two-thirds of "Operation Candor."

Equally ominous, the Warren performance helped confirm that Mr. Nixon still runs the domestic and political operations of the U.S. government through two men. "You couldn't do that effectively, even if they were Jesus Christ and Moses," an angry aide told us. Ziegler and Haig are considerably less.

Despite all the post-Watergate propaganda about a new and open White House, many aides believe access to the President is even more constricted—by Mr. Nixon's own choice—than in the universally damned days of H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman. Some aides who were able to see Mr. Nixon by asking Haldeman now complain they only see the President when he calls them in.

The fact that an isolated Mr. Nixon relies on Ziegler as one of his two confidants is particularly unnerving to lieutenants, who have minimum high regard for Ziegler's political acumen. Ziegler is not one to rescue the President from his own prejudices, so his instructions to Warren for the daily briefing undoubtedly reflect Mr. Nixon's own views far too accurately.

Intemperate reaction

A case in point is the intemperate White House reaction to the controversial reporting of the presidential "slapping" incident at Disney World. Cooler heads on the White House staff would have insisted that Mr. Nixon let the bizarre matter die a quiet, unmourned death. But Ziegler passed the full measure of the President's fury to the outer world — to no advantage.

On Monday morning, those same cooler heads would have urged the President to instruct Warren to express presidential regret over the missing 18 minutes and the actions of his secretary, Rose Mary Woods, since he certainly will have to take a stand sooner or later. They also would have advised against an attack on Jaworski, unfair in essence anyway, that predictably angered the special prosecutor but gained nothing for the White House. Unlike Ziegler, these cooler heads had no presidential access.

Haig is vastly more admired than Ziegler by his White House colleagues for intelligence, experience and integrity. But he also is seen as politically untutored — and hence politically inept. "The trouble is," one Nixon lieutenant said, "Al doesn't know it."

Certainly, Haig must shoulder much of the blame for the debasing White House attacks on former Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson and his role in the firing of Archibald Cox. Other aides believe Haig, overburdened by Mr. Nixon's reliance on him, has unwisely allocated far too much time defending himself in the Cox-Richardson drama when he would have done better to forget the entire business.

Striving to maintain their loyalty to Mr. Nixon, his aides tend to blame Ziegler and, to a much lesser extent, Haig for political incompetence as the source of the President's endless crises. However, the harsher truth is less devious. The overburdening of a few trusted aides, self-isolation and consistently poor political judgment are the ineradicable trademarks of Richard M. Nixon. Instead of moderating these characteristics Watergate seems to have deepened them.

Public hearing coming up

Plan to shape Walnut future ready

By LANGE WINCKLER
P-B Staff Writer

WALNUT — Citizens will have a word on the future of their city next Wednesday in a public hearing on the general plan's proposed Environmental Resources Management Element (ERME).

Planning commissioners, meeting at 7:30 p.m. in city hall, will wait for public comments before taking final action on the massive document. Once they approve the ERME, as expected, it proceeds to council review for action prior to a Jan. 1 state deadline.

Four combined sections of the city's general plan are covered in the 138 pages of text, maps and tables comprising the ERME. Under its umbrella are programs designed to acquire hundreds of acres of land for parks and open space, outlines of policies which will dictate the size, location and appearance of future streets, housing developments, commercial activities, and recreation areas.

Included in the program's considerations are future needs of teen-agers, students in the Walnut Valley Unified School District, homeowners, builders, equestrians, hikers, bicyclists, county, state, and federal interests—a cross-section of every group or type of person in the community.

ERME lists data, suggested policies and action programs for its four parts—conservation, recreation, scenic highways, and open space portions of the general plan.

Although policies are the goal of ERME, its meat is contained in action programs. City officials have the right to let events remain at the status quo or implement the policies with legal regulations set up to mandate a course of action and other steps taken to acquire lands the city will need.

Charles Stapleton, a consultant with Lampman and Associates, developed the ERME draft under contract with the city. He offered sugestions to make the policies effective, including:

—Special zoning to protect designated open space areas or places of natural beuty.

—Use of the residential planned development ordinance (RPD) which has suffered constant citizen opposition in the past. Stapleton suggested the RPD zone would be most effective in areas with certain slope and soil characteristics, or with special attractive qualities, that should be kept as undeveloped open space.

—A special hillside development ordinance to regulate types of structures, grading activity, etc., on hillsides.

—A subdivision ordinance affecting types of subdivisions possible in the city.

—A grading ordinance to complement the hillside ordinance.

—Six methods to acquire property, six other methods to work out cooperative arrangements with private interests to acquire or control land uses, three state programs for obtaining open space, and four federal programs for the purchase of park lands.

—A method for new residents buying homes in the city to contribute to the purchase of 347 acres of land between 1974 and 2024, through a fee system that would raise $2,780,100. The acreage estimated was severely qualified, however, and could either rise or fall according to city actions and economic situations.

—Setting of standards of design for riding and hiking trails, and for appearances of streets, street fixtures, fences, walls, and so forth.

—Special treatment of water basins, and of "natural amenities."

Once the public is offered an opportunity to respond to the ERME draft, planners are expected to take their final action. No firm date has been yet determined for City Council action on the proposal.

Conflict of interest case goes unresolved

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — Rowland school board, unable to get a clear ruling from county counsel's office on a conflict-of-interest charge made against board president Phil Anderson, will seek an opinion from the state attorney general.

The board will channel its request through Assemblyman Joseph B. Montoya, D-50th Dist., who will be asked to contact Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger.

A "rather quick response" is expected, Anderson said.

The conflict of interest charge deals with Anderson's having sold insurance policies to district employes. He waived his rights to an executive session and asked for complete disclosure at Tuesday's public hearing on the matter.

Anderson read a statement, declaring himself to be a licensed California insurance agent. He said the charge challenges not only his freedom to earn a living but the rights of every holder of public office.

The opinion of county counsel was presented by Sanford Smith and, according to Anderson, Smith did not make a clear ruling or answer questions Anderson had asked.

"I publicly welcome the decision that the matter go to the state attorney general," said Anderson. "In fact, I urge that the county counsel's opinion and my remarks and questions be submitted to his office as rapidly as possible."

Anderson said he had been asked by the county counsel's office to refrain from writing policies on district employes and to divest himself of policies now held on district employes.

"How can I possibly comply?" he asked. He said he had five district employes insured, the superintendent, another administrator, two teachers and an office worker. "My total yearly compensation, including the administrators, is approximately $224.87 from these policies," he said.

Anderson said he had "mixed emotions" over what Smith had said at the meeting.

"For one thing, his opinion stated I can be subjected to imprisonment, penalties, fines, employment contracts voided and removal from office should a lawsuit establish that a conflict of interest does exist. Or it says I can resign. The conclusion, ridiculous as it is and without court precedent, has made me consider resignation very seriously.

"But I don't walk away or run from a fight. I will not resign."

Y appealing to residents to help in all-year paper drive

DIAMOND BAR — The Diamond Bar-Walnut YMCA is asking area residents to save old newspapers for its year-end paper drive.

Residents are asked to deliver their papers to the Y at 400 S. Brea Canyon Road in 12-to 18-inch stacks. The Y will provide twine for tying bundles.

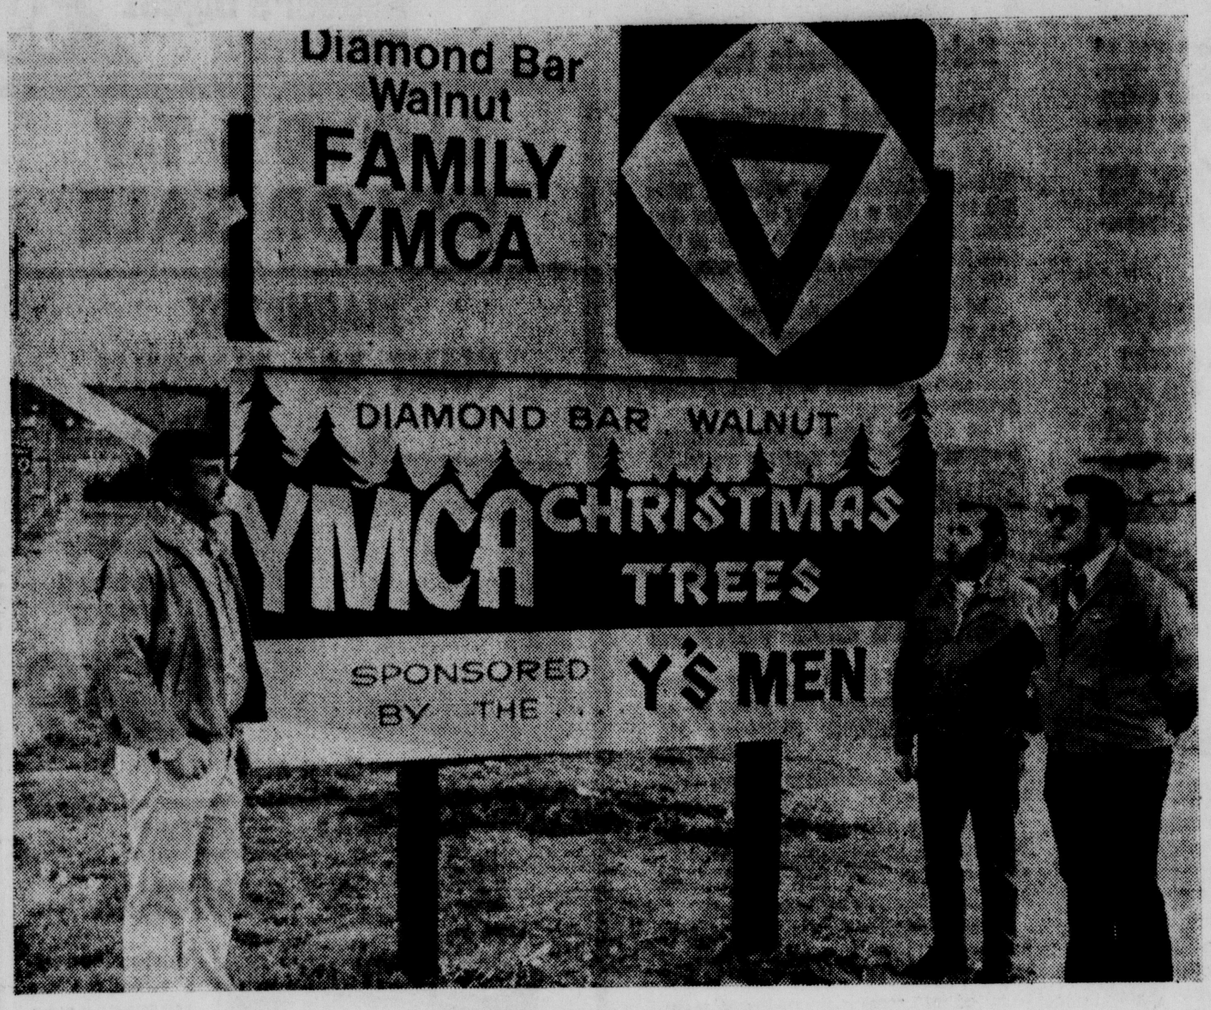
On Saturday, the YMCA boys basketball tournaments will begin at Lorbeer Junior High School and Walnut High School.

Members of the Y's Crooked Valley Nation of Indian Guides will hold their second annual father and son bowling tournament Sunday at Pom Lanes in Pomona.

On Dec. 9, the Crooked Valley Nation will hold boat races and a family picnic at the Whittier Narrows Recreation Area in Whittier.

YMCA staff members have scheduled a number of Christmas activities. These include a Christmas Adventure Club Dec. 20-22 for boys and girls 6 to 12 and a Christmas mountain snow camp Dec. 26-28 for children 8 to 14, with college-age leaders.

The Y's Men Club will open their Christmas tree lot Dec. 7, behind Mr. Up Restaurant, across the street from the Straw Hat Pizza Restaurant.



TREE LOT READIED

Carl Motschall, left, chairman of the Diamond Bar-Walnut YMCA Christmas tree project, discusses this year's sales plans with Bob Cardwell, center, who is project treasurer, and Joe Luce, first vice president of the YMCA. Annually the tree lot is operated by the Y's Men Club. It is situated at 23505 Palomino Drive, behind Mr. Up Restaurant, and is scheduled to open at 5:30 p.m. on Friday, Dec. 7. Until Christmas hours will be weekdays from noon to 10 p.m. and weekends from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Trees may be ordered by phone by calling 595-1825. Proceeds from tree sales will be used to fund Diamond Bar-Walnut YMCA teen programs. Commercial trees with flocking and stands are available.

Laughter, Wentworth running again

RICHARD LAUGHTER

WILLIAM WENTWORTH

WALNUT — Mayor Richard Laughter and Councilman William Wentworth have announced they will seek re-election next year, both to their second four-year terms.

According to new state law, municipal elections will be held the first Tuesday after the first Monday in March — which in 1974 is March 5, a month earlier than past city elections were held.

All candidates for office must file nomination papers with City Clerk and Manager Andy Lazzaretto between Dec. 6 and 28.

In announcing their candidacies neither Laughter nor Wentworth was aware of any other candidates for the council posts. Three other positions will be up for re-election in March of 1976.

Laughter and Wentworth each agreed that continuity on the City Council is important to the City of Walnut. Wentworth noted that the council turned over entirely during his term in office, saying he felt that some actions facing the council in the past two years were hampered by a lack of more experienced councilmen.

During his term, said Laughter, the city has had five mayors and "five or six" new councilmen on the five-member body. "It has been a trying experience," he related. "This council has now been together for two years, and we are just now beginning to work together as an effective body for the city."

Wentworth said he did not want to look over his shoulder, however, because "more important than what has happened in the past is what is coming in the future." He cited the city's Environmental Resources Management Element (ERME) as a principal project.

Both men said measures needed to put ERME into effect are as important, or more important, than the policy alone. Its widest impact will involve acquisition or control of lands for open space and park areas, which both men agreed will be costly and difficult.

A central part of the ERME park program is the Winnett Ranch, an 80-acre spread in central Walnut under consideration as a park. City officials have been reviewing the possibility of a $700,000 — or more — bond election to purchase and upgrade the property.

Both Laughter and Wentworth expressed caution about the plan, saying they feel the city must be careful in approaching voters for the funds. Wentworth, in remarking "there are several ways to buy the place," said, "I wouldn't want to commit the city to that large an expense without going to a vote on it."

Both men also responded to queries about future housing in the city and commercial development. They indicated housing may slow down or change in character as a result of the fuel shortage, while future commercial development — industrial and shopping — must conform to city plans and needs.

Wentworth, mayor from late 1971 through early this year, served for two years on the Planning Commission before his election to the council in 1970. Not long after he was elected, a successful drive to take a residential planned development ordinance from the books brought his resignation "for personal reasons." However, leaders of that drive convinced him to stay on, he said, and since then "I think I've had a good record."

He and his wife, June, reside at 20305 Barnard St. They have three children.

Laughter, a city resident for six years, is owner-operator of the Walnut Liquorette. He has been mayor since mid-1973. He and his wife Margaret and their three sons reside at 20555 Shadow Mountain Road.

Duchess asks confiscation of periodical

PARIS (UPI)—The Duchess of Windsor asked a court today to confiscate the French-language edition December issue of The Ladies Home Journal containing excerpts of a book about her alleged romantic affairs, court officials said.

Francois Alfonsi, legal counsel for the Baltimore-born duchess, said the book, "The Woman He Loved," by Ralph G. Martin, constituted an invasion of privacy.

The book says that an Argentine diplomat, Felipe A. Espil, was the duchess" greatest love and not her second husband, the Duke of Windsor who gave up the British crown as Edward VIII to marry her.

Judge Michel Olivier, who heard the plea, is empowered to prevent temporarily sales of the magazine's December issue, due to begin in a few days, pending full hearing.

In her only public reaction so far to excerpts of the book which have appeared in the U.S. edition of the magazine, the former Wallis Warfield Simpson said, "If some readers are naive enough to believe what is printed about me, I can only feel sorry for them."

A brief word about...

Calif. traffic toll lowest in 10 years

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The highway death toll in California for the Thanksgiving weekend was the lowest on record, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Forty-five persons died in accidents between 6 p.m. last Wednesday and midnight Sunday, the patrol reported.

A spokesman said this was the lowest total since the Highway Patrol began keeping records on holiday accidents 10 years ago.

The reduced death toll was apparently the result of much heavier enforcement against drunk driving, according to a spokesman.

The spokesman said there was no evidence that reduced speed or shortages of gasoline caused by the energy crisis affected holiday traffic generally.

"Some areas reported lighter than usual traffic, but many areas reported heavier than usual traffic," a spokesman said.

Typical food basket cost declines again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With retail beef prices dropping for the first time in 13 months, the cost of a typical food "market basket" registered its second straight monthly decline in October, according to the Agriculture Department.

The report, however, also showed the 0.5 per cent October decline could have been 2.4 per cent if middlemen had passed through to consumers last month's full price drop in raw farm products.

20-30% over 55 have signs of emphysema

RENO (UPI) — Lung examinations of pre-surgery patients at Washoe Medical Center show that between 20 and 30 per cent of those age 55 or over have early signs of emphysema.

Dr. Anton Sohn, clinical pathologist at the hospital, said the program began in August as a four month pilot study designed to detect hidden lung diseases.

Arabs, Israel given bids to peace talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and Russia are inviting the Arabs and Israel to a peace conference in Geneva beginning Dec. 18.

A State Department spokesman said the first bids went out Tuesday. It was understood that those invited include Israel, Egypt, Syria and Jordan. The question of whether the Palestinians will be permitted to attend appears to have been left undecided.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said a week ago that the question of inviting representatives of the Palestinian refugees could be put off until the conference had an opportunity to decide.

School heads huddle over fuel shortages

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State Schools Superintendent Wilson C. Riles has scheduled a meeting of school officials from throughout the state to discuss what districts can do to conserve fuel during the winter.

The meeting, tentatively set for Friday morning in Sacramento, will center on how districts can insure fuel priorities from both state and federal governments.

Win Griffin, Riles' news secretary, Wednesday said the meeting would be open to discussions on both fuel for bus transportation and heating.

Death forces climb team to end venture

KATMANDU (UPI) — A seven-member British expedition has given up an attempt to conquer 25,064-foot Mt. Dhaulagiri IV after one of its members was killed, the Nepalese foreign ministry said today.

A message from the team said Alan Dewison, 26, of Bellingham, slipped on snow and fell 1,500 feet to his death Nov. 19, a ministry statement said.

Team leader Tony Johnson, Dewison, and another member of the expedition were returning to Camp 8 at 20,500 feet when the accident happened, and team members decided the following day to give up the attempt.

Pionner 10 among Jupiter moons

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (UPI) — The giant planet Jupiter is a place where lovers would have plenty to watch. Twelve moons glide about in the black, two on wobbling courses.

The Pioneer 10 spacecraft, which crossed the planet's bow shock line Monday, now speeds between the orbits of the inner and outer moons headed for a rendezvous with Jupiter next Monday.

Why the four outermost moons go backwards, nobody knows.

One guess is that they are not moons at all. In that case they could be huge asteroids or comet nuclei captured by the powerful gravity of the planet.

Maybe it is for the same reason that two wobbling so-called moons never follow exactly the same orbits on a successive revolutions.

Moving at 25,000 miles an hour, Pioneer crossed the orbit of Hades, the farthest out moon, on Nov. 8. It took until Nov. 22 and seven million miles to pass all the outer moons.

Ahead lie the inner moons, to be reached Sunday and Monday. They will be subjects of investigation as intense as the 65 pounds of equipment on Pioneer permit.

Four of them are known as the Galillean moons because they were spotted by Galileo in 1610. The fifth is tiny Amalthea, whose diameter is only 100 miles, and which swings around at a distance of 66,000 miles.

Pioneer's target, called the periapsis, is a point 81,000 miles above Jupiter's cloud tops, well outside Amalthea's orbit.

As Pioneer flies by Jupiter, it may discover why areas of the planet are hotter when in the shadows of its moons. Three moons eclipse the sun from Jupiter on every revolution.

The space agency calculated Tuesday that Pioneer has passed Jupiter's bow shock wave. This is the edge of a region in which the solar wind bounces back from Jupiter's magnetic field.

For scientists, the site of the bow shock is important because it indicates the strength of the magnetic field—and its enormously potent radiation—still in Pioneer's path.

Bruin juggernaut opens

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Minus two starters from a year ago but with Bill Walton back for his senior year, UCLA's basketball juggernaut launches its season tonight against the Arkansas Razorbacks.

Walton and his talented teammates are expected to breeze in their opener at Pauley Pavilion but it could be a different story Saturday night when Maryland of the tough Atlantic Coast Conference plays here. The Terps are No. 5 in the preseason rankings.

LOCAL - NATIONAL Sports

"We know very little about Arkansas," said UCLA Coach John Wooden, "but we do know that Maryland is rated very high in all the preseason polls."

Gone from last season's 30-0 team are Larry Farmer and Larry Hollyfield but Wooden isn't going to miss them that much. Not with the 6-11 Walton, college basketball's player-of-the-year as a sophomore and junior, back.

Also returning is 6-7 senior forward Keith Wilkes, a starter for two seasons. Joining Walton and Wilkes on the Bruins' front line is 6 7 ½ junior Dave Meyers.

Tommy Curtis will be Wooden's "point" guard while either senior Greg Lee or junior Pete Trgovich are scheduled to open at the other backcourt spot.

In Arkansas, UCLA will be facing a team which finished tied for second in the Southwest Conference with a 9-5 record a year ago. The Razorbacks were 16-10 overall last season.

Coached by Lefty Driesell, Maryland is led by 6-11 Tom McMillen and 6-9 Len Elmore, both All-America candidates. They paced the Terps to a 23-7 record last season.

"We can't be intimidated by anybody," said Driesell. "We're going to try to beat their press and we're going to run with them, not slow it down.

"Most teams key on Bill Walton but we won't do that."

For Wooden, tonight will be the start of his 26th season at UCLA. His Bruins have won 75 straight games and seven consecutive NCAA titles.

Four other members of the Pacific Eight also commence firing with Stanford, the team expected to fight it out with USC for second behind the Bruins, hosting Nevada Reno.

California plays touring New South Wales and Oregon is at home to the University of the Americas. Washington battles Montana State.

The highly-rated San Francisco Dons of the West Coast Athletic Conference meet San Diego U. tonight but call on Stanford next Monday in an early test for both teams.

Pacific is at Pepperdine, Santa Clara at Hayward and San Jose State meets Montana.

The first holiday tourney is in full swing at Redlands where first round play Thursday saw Azusa batter Pacific Christian 98-65, host Redlands belt Los Angeles Baptist 81-55, Cal Baptist dispatch Southern Cal College 91-66 and Claremont outscore Biola 65-56.

Army hoping to repay Navy for '48 upset

By United Press International

Alabama can clinch the national championship, Oklahoma can finish an undefeated season and Georgia can earn a bowl bid but the team that can really do something special Saturday is Army, which would like to repay a 25-year-old debt.

The Cadets, facing the first winless season in their history, go into the traditional finale against Navy as more than two touchdown underdogs but sometime before the kickoff you can be sure Tom Cahill will remind them about a little piece of history.

The last team to go into an Army-Navy game without a win was the Middies in 1948, a year that Army ironically brought a perfect record into the season-ender. The game ended in a 21-21 tie, a monumental upset for Navy.

Now it's Army that would like to do a little upsetting of its own to salvage something from a miserable season, although the Cadets haven't really even been close in most of their nine defeats.

"For 15 years I've heard the Navy game is a whole new season for us," says Coach Tom Cahill of Army, who has a 5-2 record against Navy. "Well, now I'll get a chance to test the validity of that statement."

George Welsh of the Middies is coaching in his first game against Army but he has a little experience in the series, having quarterbacked the Navy teams in three games against Army — two of them defeats —from 1953 to 1955.

Both teams have been through brutal schedules that include two of the nation's top three undefeated and untied teams, Penn State and Notre Dame. Army also lost to Tennessee and Navy to Michigan.

The service battle at Philadelphia begins a TV doubleheader that winds up with Alabama-Auburn at Birmingham, the No. 1-ranked Crimson Tide trying to nail down their first national championship since 1964.

Alabama is undefeated and four touchdown favorites, a situation similar to last year when the Tide blew a 16-3 lead and lost to Auburn 17-16 as two blocked punts resulted in touchdowns in the closing minutes of the game.

Oklahoma, ranked No. 2 and not going anywhere because it's on probation, is a prohibitive choice over Oklahoma State, No. 4 Notre Dame is a heavy favorite over Miami in a night game at the Orange Bowl, and No. 8 LSU is favored over Tulane in a night game at New Orleans.

The rest of the nation's top 10 teams have finished their seasons.

Rowland faces tough Neff

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

LA MIRADA — Six days, 19 hours and some odd minutes ago head football coach Gary Rawls of Rowland High continued a new (hopefully) tradition, dedicated to the proposition that the Raiders are a winning team.

Last Friday night, the Raiders showed that all teams are created equal — the game ended in a 12-12 tie — fortunately, Rowland edged El Dorado, 13-12, thanks to the California Tie-Breaker System and the passing of quarterback Flavio Garcia in the first round of the CIF playoffs.

Tonight, the Raiders will gather on a new battlefield — La Mirada High (13520 Adelfa Dr., La Mirada) — to strive for victory against the No. 2 ranked CIF 2-A team — Neff High School, at 8 p.m.

The Trojans, who under head coach Stan Thomas, posted an 8-0-1 record seventh in the past nine years, with during the regular season en route to a Suburban League championship, their being a 0-0 tie with 3-A power La Mirada the only blemish on a perfect season.

To advance to the 2-A quarterfinals, Neff slipped past El Segundo, 14-13, while Rowland was edging El Dorado. The winner of tonight's game will meet the winner of the Riverside North-Indio contest next week in the semifinals.

Both Rowland and Neff try to utilize a balanced offense with most of the points scored via the pass. The Raiders are averaging 12 points per game defensively while the Trojans have allowed just 59 points on the season.

Neff is blessed with one of the best passing combinations on he CIF in quarterback Rick Costello and receiver Vince Torres. Both were All-CIF selections last year.

Costello has completed 96 of 169 passes for 1,571 yards and 20 touchdowns on the season. He didn't throw a TD pass in the win over El Segundo.

Torres' 1973 stats weren't available but he caught 56 passes for 915 yards and scored 16 touchdowns last year. Torres missed the game last week because of an injury but is expected to play tonight.

To add balance to the offensive attack, tailback Dave Kesting has rushed for 893 yards on 136 carries for a 6.6 yard average and scored eight times.

Rowland's offense looks equally impressive. Garcia has thrown 206 passes completing 93, for 1622 yards and 10 TD's. His favorite target, Gary Schwalbe, has gathered in 29 aerials for 607 yards and four TD's.

The Raider ground game is led by tailback Dave Pearce who has netted 814 yards and scored 11 times. Fullback Al Emeterio has contributed 605 yards and four scores.

With two highly-potent offenses, the game could be decided by the defenses.

Neff utilizes the Okie defense (5-2) with a rover. But the Trojans' strength lies in their pursuit led by tackle Willy James, 6-2, 205 pounds and linebacker Curt Oppedahl. Their line is quick and patient and known for being around the ball.

Rowland's defense is led by All-Montview League end Mitch Culp, all-league linebacker Greg Vaughn and Schwalbe from the secondary.

Lakers hosting Kings tonight

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) -- After a four-day layoff, the Pacific Division-leading Los Angeles Lakers resume their NBA schedule tonight against the Kansas City-Omaha Kings.

The Lakers have won seven of their last eight games and have a 15-7 record for the season but Laker Coach Bill Sharman is worried.

"We really haven't met many tough teams," Sharman said.

He pointed out that the Lakers haven't played Boston or Golden State this year.

"Our team is coming together but our running game isn't as good as I would like it to be and we're still not executing our plays as we should," said Sharman. "The players are still learning about each other. This is a game of repetition and of habits."

The Kings lost to Phoenix Thursday night, their ninth loss in a row.

SAL cagers tough this year

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

There's no doubt about it, the San Antonio League is going to be tough this year in basketball.

Six of the eight teams in the league have a shot at the title this year, and all look impressive.

But Ganesha looks to be the popular choice to capture the SAL championship this year—returning three outstanding starters from last year's 23-6 team which reached the quarterfinals of the CIF 3-A playoffs.

Considered to give Ganesha some problems this year include Claremont, Upland, Garey, Chino and Montclair. It looks like a "down" year for the teams from Pomona and Damien.

"They're putting us in the driver's seat already," said Ganesha coach Gary Fulkerson about the other SAL coaches. "If we get in a wreck I'll know who to blame."

It's true. Even with the talent the Giants are returning, they shouldn't have an easy time in their quest for a league championship.

It may be a little early to start looking at league play, though. The season begins Saturday for a few teams and shifts into high gear next week for the rest of the valley. League play doesn't begin until early January.

Ganesha, Pomona and Montclair will be the only SAL teams in action Saturday. The Giants travel to Riverside to take on North High, while Pomona heads for Rialto to play Eisenhower and Montclair hosts West End rival Alta Loma. All games are scheduled for 8 p.m.

Six of the eight San Antonio League teams will then compete in the Upland-Montclair Tournament, which begins Tuesday.

Ganesha's three returning lettermen who have made the Giants the League favorites are All-CIF (third team) center Cleve Porter (6-5, 185), forward Broderick Hunter (6-4, 195) and guard Earl Wilson (5-9, 160).

"We're looking forward to a competitive season," stated Fulkerson. "We should be able to hold our own against most teams as long as Porter, Hunter and Wilson stay healthy and out of foul trouble. Our league will be very competitive with Claremont, Chino, Garey, Upland and Montclair all having a shot at the title. I don't think anyone will go undefeated. A 12-2 record will win the league and maybe even an 11-3 record will."

Fulkerson's fourth man will probably be guard Mike Hall (5-10, 150), but the Ganesha skipper is having trouble deciding on a fifth starter. Candidates for the fifth spot include Ralph Dudley (5-6, 130), Gary George (6-3, 165), Don Barnes (5-10, 155) and Howard Love (5-9, 140).

Claremont figures to give Ganesha the toughest time this year, returning five key players and one transfer from a team which finished last year with a 9-16 season.

The returning quintet from Claremont include guards Todd Ervin (5-9, 160), Reggie Goldsmith (6-1, 170) and Rip Sears (5-10, 165) and forwards Kent Stalwick (6-1, 160) and Joe Hillstock (6-2, 190). The transfer is Bruce Abraham (6-4, 185), who will probably jump center for the Wolfpack this year. Abraham played at Pomona High in his sophomore year, then transferred to Washington, where he played as a junior. Since then he has moved back to the valley and now plays for Claremont.

"We hope to improve on last year's record," said Claremont veteran coach Jack Smith. "This means we are hopeful of playing above .500 ball, but we have many question marks on this squad—height will be one.

Also the fact that the SAL will have some very fine teams this year will make it tough. Many of the teams have their top performers returning."

One of those teams is Chino.

The Cowboys are returning six lettermen from a team which finished with a 9-16 record—but all the lettermen are tough. Center Dirk Story (6-7, 190) and forward Tim Smith (6-7, 170) pace the returning crew. Others include forwards Mike Coppess (6-4, 155), Scott Richartz (6-3, 160) and Bob Hairston (6-3, 160) and guard Manuel Delgado (5-7, 145).

The Cowboys will be coached this year by first-year skipper Bob Elder, who is taking over for his father Frank, who retired after the basketball season last year.

"We are a young team this year," commented young Elder. "With four seniors, six juniors and a sophomore, we are rebuilding. But we have fine talent as a foundation. The tough teams in the SAL this year should be Ganesha, Garey, Claremont and Upland."

Upland has three starters returning from last year and one sub from the '72-73 team who figure to put the Highlanders in contention. The returnees include center Stu DuVall (6-5, 185) and guards Curt Oldenkamp (6-2, 172) and Orien Ogg (6-2, 175). Mike Matusewicz, who was one of Upland's top reserves last year, will probably fill in at a guard position, moving either Oldenkamp or Ogg to forward. But Upland coach Paul Trautwein is also looking for a fifth starter.

The candidates for the starting berth include Mike Monroe, Bryan Hutton and Dave Duncan.

"We finished last in the league last year," Trautwein pointed out, "so there's no place to go but up. We have pretty good speed and quickness. We're not very tall so we must rely on our speed. We'll really have to hustle on the boards."

Poly, Lions host Bronco Classic

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

POMONA — Cal Poly's Don Hogan will soon know what it is like in the big time of college basketball.

After guiding Poly junior varsity teams to back-to-back 17-3 seasons, Hogan is moving up to the varsity as the head coach tonight when Poly and the Pomona Host Lions Club co-sponsor the Bronco Classic at Kellogg Gym.

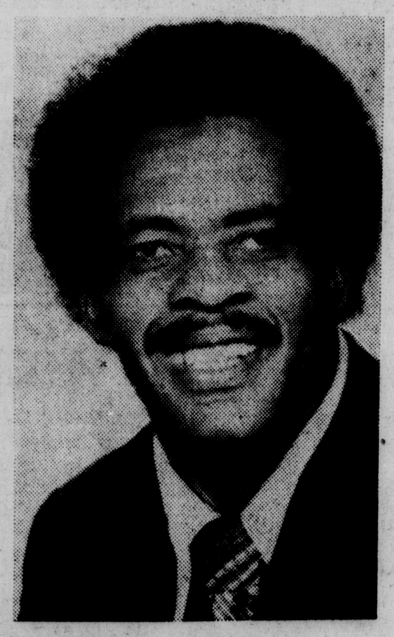
Two of the three visiting teams — Loyola and Northern Arizona — play on the major college level in basketball and the third, UC Irvine, will soon be there.

If that isn't enough, Hogan will be sending his Broncos against three teams rated in the top 20 by the wire services within the next few weeks as departed head coach Dan Anaya worked out an ambitious schedule pitting Poly against Arizona, Long Beach State and Nevada Las Vegas.

"We're ready to go to war," Hogan said on the eve of his head coaching debut. "I think the team is ready but I'm not certain if I am. This will be a big night for me."

Poly will play Northern Arizona at 9 p.m. following the 7 p.m. opener between Loyola and UC Irvine. The two winners play for the championship Saturday night after the third place contest.

Besides basketball, there will be gymnastics exhibitions both nights by the Cal Poly team and the Claremont Recreation Department.



DON HOGAN

Tickets are priced at $1.75 for adults, $1 for students and 50 cents for children. Members of the Pomona Host Lions Club are handling all of the tournament arrangements.

Hogan has a tough task ahead of him with only one starter returning off of last year's 13-10 club plus little time to do any recruiting after Ayala departed to join Jerry Tarkanian's staff at Las Vegas.

Poly will especially be hurting until Paul Newton and David Kennedy gain eligibility in January. The Broncs are also playing without sophomore Malcolm Kennedy, the former Pasadena High star out with an ankle injury.

"We should be able to move in January but it's going to be tough now," Hogan admits.

Hogan will start 6-9 Lee Roy Williams, the one returning starter at the center post. Richard Reid (6-0) and John Carrillo (6-5) will open at the forward spots while Alphonso "Wizard" Adair (5-8) and newcomer Horace Aubrey (6-0) from Compton College are the guards.

"Aubrey is a very stable player and a good defensive performer," Hogan said. "Wizard will continue to win the hearts of the fans but still needs to be more consistent."

Hogan doesn't know what to expect from Northern Arizona. After a 6-20 campaign last year, coach Herb Gregg went shopping for junior college transfers.

The Lumberjacks bring only two players — guard Nate Payne (5-10) and forward Steve Henderson (6-5) — from last year's squad.

Some of the newcomers for the Flagstaff club are: Emerson Gordon (6-2) from Northeastern Colorado; Clyde Turner (6-4) from Keokuk (Iowa); Earnest Reed (6-1) from Ellsworth (Iowa); Keith Middleton (6-6) from Keokuk; David Benning (6-5) from Central Arizona JC; and Ken Jacobs (6-6) from Phoenix College.

Both Loyola and UC Irvine are returning four starters but they share similar problems.

Loyola's new coach Dave Benaderet must replace the graduated Steve Smith and he has little height to work with. Sophomore Don Bartell (6-7) of Damien High is his tallest player.

But the Lions have exceptional talent in a pair of sophomores: Lloyd McMillian (6-5), younger brother of pro star Jim McMillian, and Luther Philyaw (6-1) former Daniel Murphy High standout.

The other Loyola starters are Brad Dean (6-6), transfer Paul Sunderland (6-5) from Oregon and Scott Kay (6-2), former prep star from San Bernardino's Pacific High.

Irvine will probably be playing without 6-8 center Dave Baker, last year's top scorer, this weekend because of a knee injury.

Coach Tim Tift will be opening with big Scott Magnuson (6-11) at center plus Jerry Maras (6-6) and Gary Eubanks (6-2) at the forward spots. Howard Hawkins (6-3) of South Hills High looks like one starter at the guard positions but the other job is still open.

All four teams should have a better idea of what to expect the rest of the season after Saturday's action.

Laidlaw named Player of Week

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Stanford running back Scott Laidlaw has been named the final Pacific Eight Player of the Week on offense for his heroics in the traditional battle with California.

Defensive honors went to lineman Monte Doris of USC, who led the defense that contained UCLA's awesome Wishbone running attack in the Trojans' 23-13 upset win over the Bruins.

Doris, a 245-pounder, made 18 tackles, sacked the quarterback once, and caused a fumble as the Bruins were held to 242 yards rushing. They were averaging 415 yards per contest coming into the game.

Sabres display a little authority

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Buffalo Sabres Coach Joe Crozier says he's not looking for any fights by his team.

But once in a while, he says, he doesn't mind if his team shows a little "authority" on the ice.

The Sabres showed some authority Thursday night that resulted in major penalties for fighting for Buffalo's Rick Dudley and Los Angeles' Terry Harper and the Sabres went on to defeat the Kings 2-1.

Dudley and Harper came to blows just before the first period ended and both had to be separated by the officials. Neither was seriously hurt but Dudley was nursing a small cut over his left eye after the game.

"I got in the mood, I guess," Dudley said. "I was a little frustrated. It gets the adrenalin going and sometimes that helps."

Dudley said fighting "helps sometimes, depending on the situation. Sometimes if things aren't going right a good scrap turns things our way."

The Sabres were ahead at the time 1-0 on a power play goal by Jim Lorentz, his fifth. Rene Robert scored what proved to be the winning goal at 4:48 of the third period on a slap shot from the blue line, putting Buffalo in front 2-0. Bob Murdoch cut the lead to 2-1 at 13:45 and ruined Buffalo goalie Roger Crozier's shutout.

Joe Crozier attributed the victory to the "authority" the Sabres showed on the ice.

"We played with more authority, we were hustling, we were coming back," he said. "I'm not looking for fights but I like to see a little authority out there."

Roger Crozier, making only his fifth start after being sidelined with a stomach ailment, said the victory might "get things rolling for us again. We're tightening up a lot over our previous few games."

The victory snapped a five-game Buffalo losing streak and put the Sabres into sole possession of fifth place in the National Hockey League East.

Sports news in brief

A FOOTBALL SHOWDOWN between top-ranked Alabama and No. 4 Notre Dame may be in jeopardy unless the Sugar Bowl makes racial concession soon.

Spokesmen for the NAACP and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) said Thursday their groups are planning disruptive actions for the New Year's Eve contest unless sponsors of the Sguar Bowl integrated their organization.

"There's a very good possibility there won't be a Sugar Bowl," Alvin O. Chambliss, NAACP attorney, said.

BOBBY BONDS, the San Francisco Giants outfielder, was arrested Thursday on charges he interfered with a policeman trying to give his older brother a traffic ticket.

Bonds was released on his own recognizance and ordered to appear in San Mateo Central District Court Dec. 11.

KERMIT JOHNSON, the record-breaking wishbone halfback for UCLA, was given the Henry R. "Red" Sanders Award Thursday night as the Most Valuable Player on the UCLA football team.

Johnson, a senior from Pasadena, rolled up 1,183 yards and scored 16 touchdowns in the Bruins' 9-2 year.

NEVADA LAS VEGAS, rated among the nation's top 20 in the UPI pre-season ratings, has lost one of its hottest prospects.

Robert "Jeep' Kelly, a High School All-American from Pittsburgh and one of the nation's most sought-after scholastic players, quit the Rebel team this week and went home Thursday.

Head coach Jerry Tarkanian said the 6-foot-1 Kelly was an "excellent prospect," who found the adjustment to college life difficult to make.

FRED APOSTOLI, the one-time San Francisco bellhop who passed up a promising baseball career and went on to become middleweight champion of the world, died Thursday of a heart attack. He was 59.

Mrs. Everett pleads case

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The attorney for Mrs. Marjorie L. Everett, a director of Hollywood Park, said Thursday he still hopes to plead her case next week at a National League meeting at Houston.

A group including Mrs. Everett has agreed to purchase the San Diego Padres from C. Arnholt Smith but it has been reported that the Everett group doesn't have enough support from club owners. Nine votes are needed to ratify the sale.

According to the Washington Post, the club owners will turn Mrs. Everett down because of her "involvement in the Gov. Otto Kerner bribery scandal in Chicago."

"I don't think they would deny her admission to the league on the ground there is anything wrong with her record," said Neil Papiano, Mrs. Everett's attorney. "It would have to be on some other basis.

"I know that Mrs. Everett has been the subject of in-depth investigations by nearly every investigative body with the exception of baseball itself and on every occasion she has come out more than clean.

"I think investigations have shown she has been most cooperative and has been an enemy of crime."

Sharks open trip tonight

WINNIPEG, Canada (UPI) — The Los Angeles Sharks open a three-game road trip tonight against Bobby Hull and the Winnipeg Jets, a team they beat for the first time Tuesday night.

The Sharks shaded the Jets 5-4 in overtime at Los Angeles. They had gone winless in nine WHA games and two exhibition contests.

The Sharks are at Chicago Saturday night and Minnesota next Tuesday night.

Fullerton, L.A. City clash

Fullerton (10-0) meets L.A. City College (9-2) at Anaheim Stadium, and San Mateo (8-2-1) hosts Fresno City (10-1) Saturday night in the semifinals of the state community college football playoffs.

Winners meet for the state football championship Saturday, Dec. 8, in the Shrine Potato Bowl at Bakersfield.

Davis Cup finals

Smith key to U.S.

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Stan Smith, the cool, confident veteran of the U.S. team, opens the defense of the Davis Cup today against an Australian tennis team which is perhaps the most formidable array ever entered by any nation in the historic series which began in 1900.

Smith, who had to win both singles a year ago and then teamed with Erik Van Dillen in doubles in order to retain the cup against the furious onslaught of the rambunctious Romanians—Ilie Nastase and Ion Tiriac—took the court here against John Newcombe, the reigning Forest Hills champion, and it was vital to American hopes that Stan win.

In this best-of-five match series, played under the old tennis rules without the tiebreaker, the burden is entirely upon the 26-year old, 6-4, 181-pounder who now calls Sea Pines, S.C., his home. According to most experts, Smith must win over Newcombe and Rod Laver, and then once again team with Van Dillen to capture the doubles.

For when one looks at that trio of Aussies, there has to be awe. Newcombe is the heir apparent to the great line of Down Under heroes who at one time practically owned the ornate, monstrous cup which Dwight Davis put up for international play at the turn of the century, and which America has held since 1968.

The 29-year old Newcombe is here with the 35-year old Laver, regarded by many as one of the greatest of all time, and with the ever-young, 39-year old Ken Rosewall, who may not be the equal of either Newcombe or Laver in singles play anymore, but who can hustle his aging limbs and sublime backhand in doubles play with undiminished skill which he first flashed in Davis Cup play 20 years ago.

Newcombe has not been impressive coming into this final round. Against Czechoslavakia two weeks ago, he was the victim of a startling upset at the hands of little-known Jiri Hrebec, leaving it up to Laver to win both his singles over Hrebec and Jan Kodes and then team with Rosewall to take the doubles.

Tom Gorman was to carry American hopes in the second match against Laver and the choice of the 27-year old from Seattle for that task was, according to non-playing American captain Dennis Ralston, "the most difficult decision I have ever had to make."

Gorman failed dismally in the final round against Romania a year ago, losing both his singles matches. Yet, Ralston says Tom's service is a big one and he has a gung-ho spirit which can help bring his game to a peak.

Gorman arrived here after playing brilliantly in the Stockholm Open, scoring over Marty Riessen, Tom Okker and Bjorn Borg enroute to the Swedish title.

It was the win over Riessen which probably played an important part in Ralston's decision to go with Gorman against the Aussies.

Riessen, who became eligible for Cup play when his contract with Lamar Hunt ran out, as have the contracts of Laver and Rosewall, had gotten the nod over Gorman in the semi-final round against Romania this year, and his victory over Tom Ovici locked up that series for the U.S.

With Gorman, whose chronic back trouble apparently has cleared up, playing so well, Ralston spent the last two weeks evaluating the two men and on Thursday morning decided to break up the pairings which had whipped the Romanians and go with Smith and Gorman. It was a tough verdict to reach. Only Gorman can now justify it.

After today's two singles, the doubles is slated for Saturday, with Smith and Van Dillen facing as yet the formally-unannounced Aussie duo. Neale Fraser, Aussie captain, said he will stay "with the book."

Mahaffey knows he can win now

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (UPI) — Young John Mahaffey, a skinny Texan in his second year on the pro golf tour, says three things helped his game.

He quit drinking beer, started running a mile and a half a day, and —most important of all —he won a tournament.

"I know I can win now," said the 25-year-old from Houston who had a two-stroke lead going into today's third round of the $150,000 Walt Disney World Golf Classic.

Mahaffey's confidence came with a late October victory in the Sahara Invitational at Las Vegas.

"Before that, I thought I could win, but you never know," he said. "It's made me a more aggressive player."

Mahaffey crafted a 68 Thursday with four birdies and no bogeys to put him at 37, seven under par at the halfway point in the last tournament of the 1973 PGA tour.

In with 139 totals after 6 holes were Oklahoma rookie Gil Morgan, a far-sighted eye doctor; Nate Starks, a black pro who regained his PGA credentials this year, Dwight Nevil, Lou Graham and Larry Nelson.

Jack Nicklaus, winner of the first two Disney tournaments, was four strokes off the pace with a second round 71 that put him in a pack at 141.

And rookie standout Ben Crenshaw missed the cut with an 80 that put him at five-overpar 149.

Crenshaw, who won the San Antonio-Texas open two months ago, met disaster on the 429-yard, par-four sixth hole of the 6,951-yard palm course. He hit into a swamp, a water trap and a bunker to take a nine.

The field was cut to 78 golfers with scores of 147 or lower for the last two rounds Friday and Saturday.

Mahaffey, who has played in a gruelling 37 tournaments this year, recently started working out and gained 15 pounds to put him at 150.

"I got on a health kick," he said. "I even quit drinking beer, and they made a big deal out of that in Las Vegas. But I think I may be allergic to some of the ingredients."

But he feels his better physical condition has helped his concentration.

Nicklaus said he missed six birdie opportunities with poor putting and said his round "wasn't too exciting."

The Golden Bear hopes to keep his $5,000 lead over Bruce Crampton in the PGA's money race and at the moment he looks safe. Crampton had a 74 Thursday to go one over par at 145.

This was the first time Morgan, a graduate of Southern College of Optometry in Memphis, Tenn., has survived the cut as a pro in a PGA tournament. But this is only his second outing.

Morgan shot a 70 with four birdies and two bogeys and said he should be wearing lenses.

"I can't see the pins and sometimes I can't see the ball landing in the fairway," he said.

Starks, who lost his PGA card in 1969 after a poor showing in 14 events, hit two birdies on his last nine holes, with no bogeys.

"I've putted the ball better the last two days than I have in a long time," he said. "I just moved the ball back in my stance a little."

Citrus and Chaffey roll on

AZUSA — Roy Hickman scored 26 points, hitting on 10 of 19 shots from the floor, Thursday night to lead Citrus to a 91-84 win over Barstow in the first round of the 4th Annual Don Edwards Memorial Basketball Tournament.

Hickman, who is averaging 23.66 points per game, helped the Owls jump out to a 17 point lead midway through the first half before head coach Neil Edwards started to empty his bench.

Citrus lacked the rhythm it was enjoying and settled for a 49-39 lead at intermission. Edwards continued to give all of his performers playing time in the second half as Barstow outscored the Owls, 45-42 in the final 20 minutes.

Guard Godfrey Carter had his best effort of the season, scoring 15 points while forward Ordale Newkirk had a season-high 12 points. Dwight Dyke came off the bench to sink five of six field goals to finish with 10 points as Citrus shot a torrid 61 per cent from the floor.

Ron Lamar and Buddy Brandon paced Barstow with 26 and 24 points, respectively.

Citrus plays North Peralta, a 57-53 winner over Santa Monica, in tonights 9 p.m. contest while Cypress, a 96-68 winner over Pasadena, and Cerritos, a 78-70 victor over East Los Angeles, square off in quarterfinal action.

East L.A.'s 6-feet-8, 225 pound center, Al Fruhwirth canned 33 points in a losing effort. His individual performance was one point short of Ev Fopma's record 34 points for Cerritos in 1970.

Chaffey College notched its second win in-a-row Thursday night on Bob Kovach's free throws with three seconds remaining in the game to give the Panthers a 58-57 win over Mesa of Arizona.

The Panthers jumped out to a 31-22 halftime lead only to watch their lead diminish to a one point deficit as Mesa ran off six straight baskets in the last three minutes.

Trailing 57-56, Kovach was fouled, went to the line and calmly sank a pair of free throws to give Chaffey its third win in four outings.

Kovach finished the night with 19 points, hitting on 9 of 15 shots. Guard Pierre Rankin chipped in 12 points while center Randy Nicholei came off the bench to contribute six points and seven rebounds.

Mesa was led by the backcourt combo of Wil Vanley and Jim Stewart. Vanley threw in 12 points while Stewart led all scorers with 21, hitting on 10 of 20 shot attempts.

The Panthers will try to make it three wins in a row tonight when they host Phoenix in an 8 p.m. tipoff.

MSAC takes to the road for a two-day trip in the Fresno area this weekend. The Mounties (1-3) visit Reedley, Friday, and Fresno City, Saturday.

The Mounties are off to a slow start so head coach Gene Victor has hinted that he will shake up the lineup on the road trip.

Only one Mountie is averaging in double figures. Gary Nash, a 6-foot-10 center, is currently averaging 26.5 points per game and 16 rebounds.

In Redlands semifinals

Stags, Azusa clash

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

REDLANDS —Based on first appearances, Claremont-Mudd will have a much better basketball team this year and Azusa Pacific will have, well, just what APC always has, a good team, maybe an excellent one.

The Stags and Cougars both won their opening round games in the Redlands Invitational Thursday afternoon. C-M took Biola to the tune of 65-56. APC demolished an outmanned Pacific Christian five 98-65.

That sets up a 7 p.m battle tonight between the two Thursday afternoon winners. The eight-team tourney is set up so that Thursday's winners play tonight at 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. while Thursday's losing teams were slated to play at 2:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. this afternoon.

In Thursday's first game, newcomers George Glonka and Norm Richards led Claremont-Mudd. Glonka, a 6-5 forward from Montclair by way of Chaffey College, was the team's leading scorer with 15 points and led the Stags in rebounding with seven.

Richards, the new playmaker, had 12 points as did Marty Habern, the former Bonita star.

The 1973-74 edition of the Stags showed a lot of promise. They had only one bad stretch. After taking a 2-0 lead, the Stags had a four-minute drought before Richards scored their second field goal 4:28 into the game.

C-M had to play catchup after the cold spell. Then the lead seesawed back and forth until Habern put the Stags out in front to stay, 25-24 with 7:25 left in the first half.

Center Kim Cheatum's free throw made it 26-24 and then Habern was fouled and connected on both free throws to open it up to 28-24 and the Stags were on their way.

"We had a few turnovers but two players (Glonka and Richards) were playing their first game for the varsity," commented coach Ted Ducey. "We got better shots in the second half. I think we will be a good shooting club."

Ducey was able to work his 6-8 freshman center Dave Willhite of Redlands into action. Willhite scored seven points and grabbed five rebounds playing part time.

In the second game Thursday, APC's Cliff Hamlow unveiled a big, quick team with lots of depth and a player with super potential.

The Cougars forced hapless Pacific Christian into 42 turnovers, 24 of them in the first half, 10 in the first 6:43 played.

Dennis Vanzant played 14 minutes and scored 10 points. But a transfer student by way of Cal Poly, SLO and San Diego City College stole the show.

Rick Reed, a 6-2 junior, hit on 14 of 22 field goal attempts and added two free throws for 30 points. One basket had everyone oohing and aahing. Driving in from the right side, Reed went into the air, floated across underneath the basket, hung, and threw up a two-handed reverse scoop shot that arched cleanly through the net.

"That was a super, super shot," a grinning Hamlow admitted later. "And he made some other good shots. I thought we had a good effort although we got a little sloppy. Claremont-Mudd is an improved team and we'll have our hands full with them."

Montclair has three returning lettermen, and they're all good ones. Mark Gosswiller will return to the center position for Montclair, standing at 6-6, 200 pounds. "If he keeps improving he could be a good college prospect," noted Cavalier coach Lanny Moore.

Gosswiller will be playing with returnees Jim Brown (6-4, 200) and Tony Esquibel (5-10, 155). Fighting for starting positions in the Cavalier lineup this season will be seniors Jerrard Bryant (5-11, 160), Reece Snapp (6-3, 175) and Bruce Hayhurst (5-8, 150).

"The season will depend upon how well we play together," added Moore, "and if we can play good tough defense. If we can do those two things, I think we could end up as one of the top four teams."

Garey lost almost everybody to graduation, but the Vikings are still considered serious threats to repeat as SAL champions. Garey finished last year with a 29-2 record—one of the best in all CIF—but return only two lettermen this year.

Don't be surprised, though, if the Vikings are among the front-runners awards the end of the season. Second-year coach Mike Wells is boasting one of the tallest teams in the league. It starts with 6-6, 215 pound forward Dave Larry, 6-6 center John Gussenhoven, forward Delbert MacDonald (6-4), guard Gary Carpenter (6-5), guard Billy Evans and guard Ashley Thomas. Evans and Thomas are the returning lettermen, and Larry is a transfer from the L.A. City area (Roosevelt High).

Pomona lost 10 players to graduation and is in the process of rebuilding this year. Steve Taylor is the lone returning starter from last year's 17-11 club, but three others join Steve on the returning lettermen list. The others are Doug Mooore (5-foot-9), Derrick Thomas (5-foot-10) and Jim Price (6-foot). Top newcomers to the team this year include John Wieman, Mike Yarborough and Jerome Holliman.

"Our team this year is quite young and inexperienced, but we are in the process of rebuilding," stated Pomona second-year coach Ed Taylor. "Potentially we can be good. It's just a matter of putting things together and getting a better concentration on the game from the players."

Damien coach Len Cesene just about has his starting lineup settled, but there is a lot of inexperience showing. Only one player out of his proposed starting roster is a returning lettermen — that being guard Bill Karr (5-5, 140).

The others include Girard Piccioni (5-10, 160), Larry Pekarcik (6-2, 175), John Pignotti (5-11, 165), Jon Kolodge (6-1, 165) and Gary Turner (6-3, 175).

"We will be a very young ball club looking for sucess in future years," said Cesene. "Our goal is to be respectable. If our kids play outstanding defense and rebound well, we hope to be in every game. Being a young, small team we must control the tempo of the game as well as playing with desire. The league is probably as tough as it has ever been. Six of the eight team could win the thing. I look for Ganesha, Claremont and Garey to be one-two-three."

Fukuyama scores TKO

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Shig Fukuyama, 127 ½, Tokyo, stopped Leoncio Meza, 129 ½, Mexico City, at 2:21 of the seventh round at the Olympic Auditorium Thursday night.

Fukuyama was battering Meza mercilessly and had his right eye almost closed when referee Richard Steele halted the scheduled 10-round bout.

The Japanese fighter improved his record to 21-7 while Meza absorbed his sixth loss in 33 bouts.

Pomona-Pitzer cage team will feature four freshmen

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

CLAREMONT — The Pomona-Pitzer basketball team that opens the 1973-74 season tonight against L.I.F.E. bears little resemblance to either the unit that began the season last year or the one that finished up last spring.

Senior Norm Carter is the only returnee and Carter has been switched from guard to forward. the other four starters are all freshman.

"I feel there is quite a bit of talent among the freshman" said coach Les Nagler. "However after returning to practice following the Thanksgiving holiday I discovered we're not as far along as I had first thought."

Of the 16 players currently listed on the varsity schedule five are frosh five are sophomores and five are juniors leaving Carter as the only senior.

Gone from last year's opening lineup are Lamotta Jackson the 6-5 jumping jack who led the Sagehens into title contention. Nagler's team never won another game after Jackson left school following the fall semester.

Missing also are forwards Mel Murrill and Gary Crossman. Murrill only a junior last year entered pre-Med school. Crossman coolest head on the squad graduated.

Biggest blow to Nagler is the loss of Keith Davis which was not expected. As a sophomore last year the 6-2 Davis was the floor leader and third highest scorer on the team with an 11.3 average.

Davis did not return to school this year along with two other of last year's sophomores. Curtis Johnson and Jeff Gottlieb likewise aren't back.

When the 'Hens take the floor tonight at Memorial Gym the front line will have the 6-2 Carter at one of the forward spots along with 6-2 Brandon Boyd of New York City.

At center will be 6-5 Geoffrey Northrup from La Jolla. The guards will be 5-8 Scott Pease from Toledo, Ohio, and 6-0 Scott Pinkston from Oakland.

Last season the Sagehens finished with a 6-6 mark in Southern California intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SCIAC) competition good enough for third place. Overall they were 10-14. But at the time Jackson bowed out they were 5-0 in conference play and 9-8 overall.

The 'Hens will also play at home Saturday night when they host Pt. Loma College. P.T.Loma was Pasadena College until it moved to the San Diego campus formerly belonging to Cal Western (which became USIU when it moved inland).

Pomona-Pitzer's schedule calls for seven games before the Cal Baptist Tournament in Riverside Dec. 19-22. That will be followed by the Christmas break and then conference play begins Jan. 5.

And the 'Hens start right out by entertaining defending champion and highly rated Whittier. The Poets have both all-conference guards Jack Smoot and Al Hardin back. Returning to anchor the front line is another all-conference first-team selection 6-6 Bernie Hoskin. He is joined by two-year letterman Ron Van Vliet and newcomer Paul Caldwell.

Van Vliet is 6-4. Caldwell is 6-5. Former Chaffey College player Fred Hicks is also back. The 6-9 Hicks reportedly has pared some weight off his 260-pound frame and has a new attitude.

Phoenix Suns give Johnson initiation

By United Press International

It didn't take Phil Johnson long to get initiated into the ways of the Kansas City-Omaha Kings.

Johnson, who was named coach of the Kings two days ago following Bob Cousy's sudden resignation, went to work Thursday night but the result was the same as the Kings' eight previous games—defeat.

The Phoenix Suns, with rookie Mike Bantom collecting a career-high 26 points, broke away in the fourth quarter to defeat the Kings 119-99, KC-Omaha's ninth straight loss.

The Suns, who led 82-80 entering the final quarter, scored the first 10 points of the period and pulled away steadily. Bantom, the Suns' No. 1 draft choice and an Olympian from St. Joseph's (Pa.), hit 10 points during the final quarter. Charlie Scott added 20, Dick Van Arsdale 17 and Clem Haskins 15.

Nate Archibald was high scorer for KC-Omaha with 24 points and Jimmy Walker had 21.

In the only other National Basketball Association game Thursday night, Rick Barry scored 22 points and the Golden State Warriors broke open a tight game with a 72-point second half to coast to a 119-89 victory over the Portland Trail Blazers.

Rookie Derrek Dickey added a career-high 17 for Golden State while Sidney Wicks of Portland had 26 points.

He heard him keeping quiet

By Oswald & James Jacoby

A certain moving-picture mogul, famous for malapropisms, is supposed to have told an assistant, "You heard me keeping quiet."

South had nothing to do with moving pictures but he had listened to West keeping quiet during the bidding. He noticed that West had followed up his bidding quietude by leading out ace, king and jack of hearts and that when South had drawn trumps with two leads, West had discarded on the second trump.

WEST ♠ 4 ♥ AKJ986 ♦ 764 ♣ 952		EAST ♠ 63 ♥ Q2 ♦ KJ953 ♣ Q1084
	SOUTH (D) ♠ AKJ72 ♥ 1075 ♦ A8 ♣ A63

Thus, West had been dealt a good six-card heart suit and only one spade, yet West had never made a peep over the spade opening. Could West hold either the king of diamonds or the queen of clubs?

South decided that he couldn't. In that case how could South make his contract? South worked it out.

He simply played the ace of clubs; a dummy to dummy's king and dummy's jack of clubs. East was in the lead with the queen.

He couldn't lead his fourth club. That would allow South to discard the eight of diamonds and ruff in dummy. So East led a low diamond and South let it ride around to dummy's queen.

Boys make fun of girl over weight

By JEAN ADAMS

HARASSED: (Q.) Just because I'm extra fat, a group of boys I know make funny mooing sounds when I walk by. Not only that — every once in a while they come to my house and throw eggs at it.

They also send taxis, plumbers, exterminators and dry cleaners to my house. It's awful. What can I do? — In Pain in Pennsylvania.

(A.) People who look different or behave in some unusual way are often subject to harassment by cruel, frightened or confused associates. This is true not only to fat people but of those who dress differently or speak differently or have unusual beliefs or ideas.

You are being taken advantage of because you have a correctible physical trait. Correct your fatness. Go to your doctor, get a diet and stay with it under the doctor's supervision.

When you slim down, unkind people will look for someone else to needle.

YEAR YOUNGER: (Q.) There is a boy who likes me who is 15. I am 16. I like him but my mother told me not to go near him. She said it would ruin my reputation with boys my age. What should I do? — Frustrated in Florida.

(A.) Tell your mother that a girl ruins her reputation by doing wrong things with boys of any age. Tell her you do not plan to do the wrong things with this boy of age 15.

The doctor comments

A proper diet needs careful planning

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D

DEAR DR. LAMB—I have only briefly tried both Dr. Atkins' diet and Dr. Stillman's Quick Loss Diet. I can readily understand how excess fats in Dr. Atkins' diet can be harmful. Having heard both doctors on the same TV talk show at the same time, I still fail to see where Dr. Atkins' diet, which does include two salads (low carbohydrate) per day leaving off all fats would be more harmful than Dr. Stillman's diet which does not contain one gram of carbohydrate.

I have not received satisfactory answers to this question from either my husband's physician or my own. We are both very much overweight and only seem to be able to lose weight on a very low carbohydrate, low fat, high protein diet. My husband has high blood pressure and many related problems.

We would very much appreciate an answer from you.

DEAR READER—There's not a dime's worth of difference in the two approaches. The first week of the Atkins' diet allows a salad for lunch and dinner, of loosely packed lettuce or other similar roughage. The amount is "less than one cup." That means the total carbohydrates for the day would be less than four grams. Dr. Atkins refers to this as "biologically zero carbohydrate." And I would agree that you can consider that to be essentially a "no-carbohydrate" diet. That doesn't mean I approve of it.

A properly planned low carbohydrate, low fat, high protein diet to lose weight is all right. Eliminating the fat, however, means it is no longer the Atkins' diet. The principle is to eliminate calories. The two main sources of calories are fats and sweets.

You can plan a diet that includes fresh vegetables, fruits, cereals, lean meats (chicken, fish, beef) that is sufficiently low in calories for safe and senxible weight control. The problem is that many high protein foods also contain a lot of fat. That is why fortified skim milk is good for such diets. It is a source of excellent protein and calcium without overloading the fat intake. Uncreamed cottage cheese is also in this category. Dr. Atkins opposes skim milk and recommends using thick cream, which is not a good source of either calcium or protein.

DEAR DR. LAMB:—We have recently moved to an area where the water is extremely hard and has a high alkali content.

So many of our neighbors, young and old, buy bottled spring water for drinking and cooking. Can you tell us if hard water is harmful in any way?

DEAR READER—As a matter of fact, it may be good for your health. Population studies have shown that people who drink "hard water" are less likely to have heart and vascular disease. The difference is slight, though so I hope no one will think this is the solution to all of his problems.

Water can also be an important cource of calcium. A person drinking a reasonable amount of "hard" water each day can get nearly one-fifth of the daily calcium needs that way. Some of the other minerals in the water may also be useful.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of the Progress-Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on losing weight, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Losing Weight" booklet.

Ex-Claremont man heads project in Iran

CLAREMONT — Richard L. Anderson, a former resident here, has been assigned by the FMC Corp. to supervise construction of a tomato paste and ketchup plant in Tehran, Iran.

Anderson, a graduate of Claremont High School and Cal Poly, will supervise construction of the plant and equipping it with food processing machinery. He will also directly assist Iran in developing its agribusiness activities.

The new plant is expected to be in operation next year, and will cost about $500,000, according to FMC officials. It will be owned and operated by an Iranian corporation.

Anderson has served as the company's sales representative in the Middle East.

He, his wife, Janet, and two children, Philip and Scott, will live in Tehran for three years.

Sketches of 2 suspects circulated

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sketches of two men, who allegedly kidnaped Karen Joyce Huber, 5, from a Silver Lake elementary school 15 days ago, were circulated by police Monday.

One of the suspects, who police said was seen walking several feet behind Karen outside the Logan Street School after classes were let out, was described as between 30 and 35 years old, about 5 feet 8 inches tall, slender and with graybrown crew-cut hair.

The other suspect, seen parked in a 1967 or 1968 Ford Mustang near Karen's house for several days before her disappearance, was described as 45 to 55 years old, about 5 feet 10 or 11 inches tall, 140 to 160 pounds and gray hair. Both were neatly dressed.

Mary Huber described her daughter as 3 feet 6 inches tall, 40 pounds with blond hair. When Karen disappeared, she was wearing orange pants, orange boots and a whiteorange-blue striped blouse.

World of animals

Acorns not favorite food, but plentiful

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: I was happy to learn that the oak trees on our new ranch will be attracting a lot of wild animals. I have been told that acorns are the favorite food of more animals than any other? — K. O.

Dear K. O.: Acorns aren't actually the favorite food of very many animals. However, because they are nutritious and abundantly available in so many areas, acorns rate at or near the top of our wildlife food list with some 96 species of animals utilizing them, particclarly during the food-scarce winter season.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I'm having a puppy shipped to me by express from a breeder. Friends say this is a bad way to buy a puppy. Are they right? I hope not because I couldn't find this breed of puppy here and it is the only one my children want. It seems to me like buying it should be safe enough because the breeder gives a lifetime guarantee with each puppy. Doesn't that sound reassuring? — V. P.

DEAR V. P.: Not necessarily. It might sound just the opposite. Just what is a "lifetime guarantee" supposed to mean? It certainly doesn't indicate how long that lifetime is. And what really are the specifics of such a piece of paper, if any?

Often the seller will agree to take back the animal at any time supposedly over a period of years if the owner is dissatisfied with it. The catch here is that anyone interested enough to buy a dog in the first place will presumably become so attached to it in a short time that he wouldn't want to return it under any circumstances.

This doesn't mean there aren't many legitimate breeders across the country who will stand squarely behind their animals and deal fairly with clients whom they may never see. It is wise, however, to check up on the breeder's reputation and to have the animal examined by the vet immediately after its arrival.

DR. DR. MILLER: A friend has a margay which isn't any bigger than our plain old alley cat. She surprised me when she said it was three years old. I didn't want to hurt her feelings, but isn't her margay stunted? — G. W.

Dear G. W.: Not unless it had unusually large parents. The margay usually varies in a size range that corresponds to the never common—but certainly more plentiful—domestic house cat.

Severe drought in Midwest predicted

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — Dr. Walter Orr Roberts, a research scientist who believes sunspots directly affect the weather on earth, says a severe drought rivaling the Dust Bowl days of the Depression may hit the Great Plains next year or by 1975.

Roberts, president of the University Corporation for Atmospheric Research, says an upcoming period of very little sunspot activity may signal an oncoming drought. He said the sunspots follow a 20 to 22 year cycle and the droughts on the Great Plains fit that same pattern.

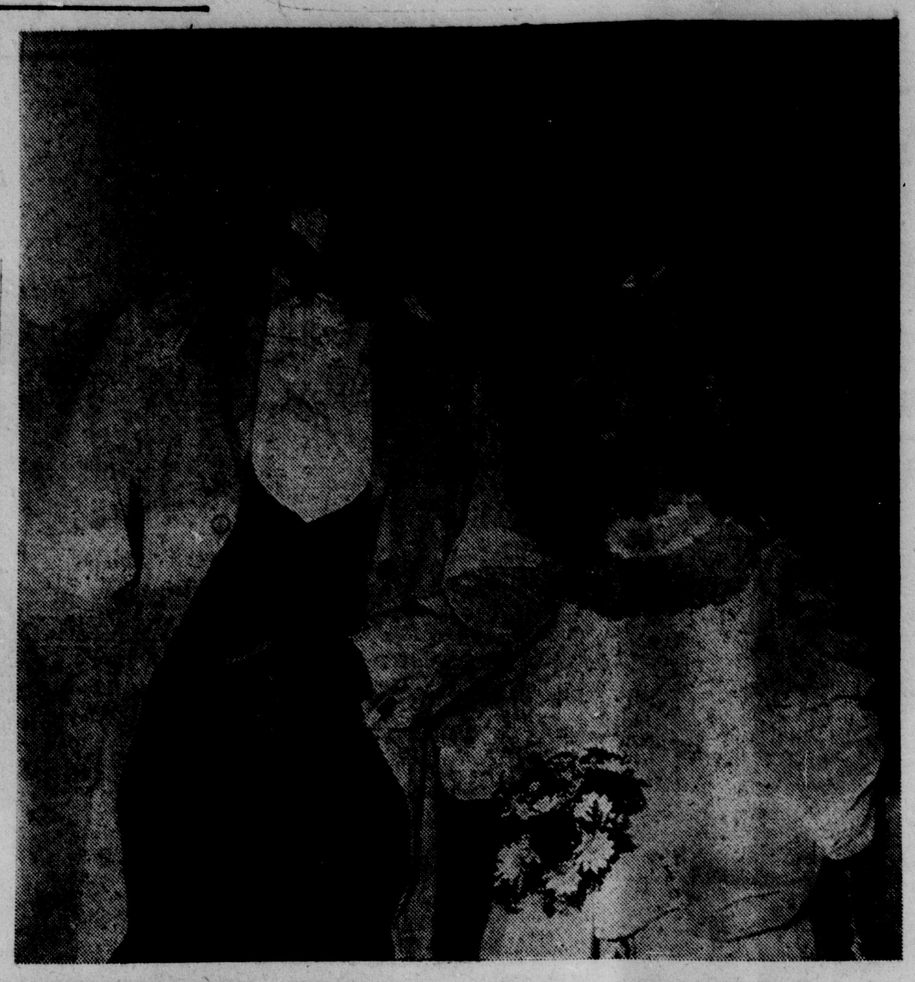
OSU delays term to conserve energy

CORVALLIS Ore. (UPI) — President Robert MacVicar of Oregon State University has postponed the start of the winter term from Jan. 3 until Jan. 7 in an energy-saving move.

MacVicar announced the changes recently after consultation with deans and student and faculty senate leaders.

The start of Christmas vacation has not been changed. Fall term ends Dec. 15.



HAPPY THE BRIDE — Bill Howard of Walnut, as Fadinard, and Andrea Curley of Temple City as Helene, make a happy couple in a scene from the Mt. San Antonio College Players production of "An Italian Straw Hat." The comedy by Eugene Labiche and Marc Michel will be presented in the Little Theater at 8 o'clock tonight and Saturday and Dec. 7 and 8. Tickets at $1.25 are on sale at the box office.

Advantages from taxpayer election financing cited

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A Stanford political scientist said that taxpayer-supported campaign financing would be "the greatest bargain California taxpayers could get."

Prof. Robert Girard, speaking for Common Cause, asked the Assembly Elections and Reapportionment Committee to enact legislation that would provide public funding of political campaigns and relieve the pressure for big-money contributions.

Girard said testimony before the Senate Watergate committee in Washington, regarding industry big-money contributions to President Nixon's campaign, shows that stiff consumer price rises resulted and that costs to the public were "far greater" than the estimated costs of public financing of campaigns.

He said laws could be enacted to divert tax money into primary and general elections.

But Assemblyman Jim Keysor, D-San Fernando, committee chairman and Assemblyman Henry Waxman, D-Los Angeles, said obtaining public funds for general campaigns is "about all we can hope for now."

Girard said Common Cause has a plan that would appropriate about $20 million a year for a general fund. He said the fund would rely on both public and private contributions, with strict limitations on how the money would be spent and handled.

Loy Dickinson, speaking for the Los Angeles County Republican Central Committee, questioned whether legislation could be passed ta make public financing work in both primary and general elections. He questioned whether such a plan would give undue advantages to incumbents.

Girard said that to weed out "frivolous" or publicity seeking candidatess, his plan would require prospective candidates to obtain pledges of voter support for qualifying for public financing.

Rationing now urged by state energy leader

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Delaying the rationing of gasoline and other energy will lead only to bigger problems, the chairman of the Assembly's subcommittee on energy warns.

Assemblyman Charles Warren, D-Los Angeles, has predicted that energy rationing and "curtailment of some energy users" would be needed for 12 to 15 months to meet short-term energy shortages.

Declaring energy rationing is inevitable, Warren said, "The longer we put it off, the more drastic the problem will become."

The lawmaker would not say which energy users he thought should be cut off, but announced his subcommittee on state energy police would meet in Sacramento to look into the problem, as well as possible long-term solutions to the energy dilemma.

Warren also announced he would push for quick action when the legislature convenes in January on a sweeping energy measure (AB1575) which is pending before the Senate Public Utilities Committee.

His bill would create a new state energy commission with authority to ration fuel, approve locations for new power plants and raise money for energy research through new taxes. A similar measure was vetoed this year by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

No Russian the mail

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

In spite of the recent amicable detente between the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and Henry Kissinger, all does not go well with our Slavic dentists. They've got problems with the mail.

Nor rain, nor sleet, nor snow nor gloomski of night shall stay these couriers on the swift completion of their appointed rounds, but the postmaster didn't say anything about glaciers, wolves and especially bureaucratic inefficiency. Hard for the postman to get through those drifts on his snowshoes.

Mail, or the lack of it, has become a serious problem with the morose Muscovites. Pravda, the Communist Party organ, reported recently that the average delivery time for a letter is 5.2 days, with many letters taking 10 to 20 days to reach their destination. This is almsot as bad as the U.S. of A., and no wonder the Commies are upset.

The party leaders mailed a lot of dummy letters, 15,000 of them, and carefully timed the drop and the pickup. Reports on the arrivals were delayed getting back to Moscow by 10 to 20 days.

One of the most distressing reports came from Riga, which is 20 feet south of the North Pole, halfway between Goltichika and Ust-Olenekskoye. Residents, 3,001 Eskimos, 12 reindeer and one polar bear, reported that mail remained in letter boxes for two or three days before postal workers collected it. The Abominable Mailman.

Naturally the Communist Party is concerned with this inefficiency. They trace a letter from a party official suspected of being loyal, to someone else suspected of not, and the spies stand around in the snow for two or three days waiting for someone to pick up the letter. By the time they turned to icicles, it is safe for the suspect to call for his mail.

Party officials also discovered that the Ministry of Communications was falsifying records to cover up the mail delays. The Ssecret Sservice Ssurvey revealed that 90 per cent of letters mailed arrived at their destination after long delays, but the Communications Ministry records showed that 90 per cent of all letters were delivered promptly. Welcome to Siberia, boys.

Things are a lot different in this country. True, mail takes five days to get across town, but it is mail you don't want—ads for new suits you can't afford, new appliances you can't use, new plants that will never grow. You could care less if it takes five to 10 days to get to you. Better it should never arrive.

The American postal service is too efficient. Promptly on the first of the month—you can set your calendar by it—comes the bill from the dentist, the mortgage payment notice, the warning from the telephone company, the bank statement announcing you are $2.85 overdrawn and would you drop in and have a talk with our Mr. Davis.

If the Russian's mail service is slow and sloppy, he should shut uppa his face, boyze moy! He never had it so good.

UP A TREE —Gunilla Hutton, star of television's Hee Haw Show, will perform in the John Wayne Theater of Knott's Berry Farm at 5, 7 and 9 p.m. Dec. 8. Miss Hutton, a native of Gothenburg, Sweden, formerly starred on TV's Petticoat Junction, and toured night clubs with Nat "King" Cole. Her first record, "Chowchilla Dust," has just been released.

Art workshop at Vista School

CLAREMONT —The Vista del Valle School will hold its second family holiday art workshop on Dec. 9 from 2 to 4 p.m. at the school.

The cost for participation is 50 cents per person or $1.50 per family. Holiday decorations, evergreen wreaths, sand candles, and holders, and puppets are among the items to be made.

Each center will be supervised by an artist and all materials will be provided. A special tiny tots center will be available with special crafts and movies for children 2 to 5.

Howard and Joan Bunte are chairmen of the event.

Chaffey College sets Christmas concert

ALTA LOMA — The Chaffey College music department will present its annual Christmas concert in the Little Theater at 8 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free.

Taking part will be the 55-voice Concert Choir, the 20-voice Concert Ensemble Singers and the Chaffey College State Band. The voices will be directed by Joyce Shannon; the band by Jack Mason.

Both vocal groups will join in singing Antonio Vivaldi's "Gloria," backed by a community orchestra assembled by Bernard Millstein of Pomona. This is an extended setting of the text of "Gloria in excelsis," a work divided into 12 sections.

Included will be solo arias, a soprano duet and choral numbers. Soloists will be soprano Linda Finley, Ontario, with "Domine Deus" and contralto Lori Powell, Alta Loma, with "Qui sedes."

Chaffey staff accompanist Steve Laitz, Ontario, will provide the harpsichord and continuo parts to complement the community orchestra of strings, winds and trumpets.

The Concert Ensemble will offer recently published modern arrangements by the American composer, Norman Dello Joio.

The arrangements are of such melodies as "God Rest Ye Merry, Gentlemen," "O Come All Ye Faithful" and "Silent Night." The ensemble will also sing such Joio originals as "Bright Star," "The Holy Infant's Lullaby" and a "Christmas Carol."

The piano duet accompaniment will be by Laitz and Edwina Chin, a freshman music major.

The Concert Choir will sing, "Christ Was Born on Christmas Day" and "Fum, Fum, Fum," arranged by Alice Parker and Robert Shaw. Incidental soloists will be Loretta Orcutt, soprano, and Michael Snyder, tenor, and Curtiss Bradford, tenor.

Mason's band and both singing groups will complete the program with a medley of carols, "At Christmastime," arranged by John Cacavas. Among the carols will be "I Heard the Bells on Christmas Day," "Deck the Hall," "We Three Kings" and "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing."

Music School plans busy two weeks

CLAREMONT — A busy two weeks is in store for the singers, dancers and musicians of the Claremont Community School of Music starting with a string orchestra concert at Griswold's Pavilion at 1 p.m. Saturday, followed by a Renaissance concert at 2 p.m. and Balkan folk dances and songs at 5 p.m.

On Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. the string orchestra will play at the Montclair Plaza, and the Balkan folk dancers will perform there at 6:30 p.m. next Friday.

From 1 to 5 p.m. Dec. 9, the school will stage "Music in the Park," a program of music, dance and theater in Memorial Park. A student recital will be held at St. Ambrose Church at 7 p.m. the following day.

The School of Music will present a woodwind orchestra at Griswold's Pavilion at 1 p.m. Dec. 15, followed by a flute ensemble of youths at the library patio at 2 p.m. and a program of carols and Balkan dances there at 5 p.m.

Candy may solve shopping for gift

NEW YORK (UPI) — Candy is dandy for holiday gifts. Last minute holiday shopping won't throw you in a panic, in fact, if you consider the candy solution.

Boxed chocolate candies in all varieties and sizes are easy to buy. There's no worry about size, color or design. The National Confectioners Association says the boxes are wrapped in holiday paper and decoration.

BANTERING BARBER — Dominic Cossa and Patricia Wise star in the New York City Opera production of Rossini's "Il Barbiere di Siviglia" in the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center at 8 p.m. Dec. 8. The New York company's seven-week engagement concludes Dec. 9 with Beverly Sills singing in "I Puritani."

New York Opera in final week

LOS ANGELES — The final week of the New York City Opera's seventh annual visit opens with Richard Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier" in the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center at 8 p.m. Monday.

The principal artists are Doris Jung, Sylvia Anderson, Rose Wildes, Michael Langdon and David Clatworthy. Charles Wendelken-Wilson conducts.

On Tuesday, Patricia Brooks will be heard in the title role of Massenet's "Manon" in French, with Giuseppe Campora, John Darrenkamp, Thomas Jamerson and Richard T. Gill, Wendelken-Wilson conducting. "Manon" repeats at the Dec. 9 matinee with the same cast, except Andre Turp will be heard, instead of Campora.

On Wednesday, Beverly Sills will be heard in Donizetti's "Maria Stuarda" in Italian, with Marisa Galvany, Enrico DiGiuseppe, Richard Fredricks and Gill, Wendelken-Wilson conducting.

The double bill of Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana," (with Miss Galvany, Margaret Yauger, Harry Theyard and Darrenkamp) and Leoncavallo's "I Pagliacci" (with Carol Bayard, Herman Malamood, William Chapman and Jamerson), both sung in Italian with Giuseppe Morelli conducting, is scheduled for the Dec. 8 matinee.

Rossini's "Il Barbiere di Siviglia" will be heard in Italian Saturday evening with Patricia Wise, Beverly Evans, William McDonald, Dominic Cossa, Robert Hale and Michael Li-Paz, Morelli conducting.

Miss Sills will close the season the evening of Dec. 9 with a performance of the Music Center Opera Association's first production staged in conjunction with Myco, Bellini's "I Puritani" in Italian.

Apathy?—or just too scared to be good samaritan?

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Two college students learned this lesson from a social experiment: Don't look for a good samaritan when you're the victim of a crime.

Judith Nielsen and Ron Patrick, both journalism students at San Francisco State University, said Thursday that victims of kidnaping, rape and brutality can expect little or no help and hardly any sympathy from their fellow citizens.

Miss Nielsen and Patrick posed as victims of crime in different sections of the city last week.

One experiment involved Miss Nielsen who was tied to a pole on a street corner. She was scantily clad and had a gag. She tried to wriggle free from her bonds as pedestrians and cars passed her.

Sixty-seven cars passed her and none stopped, she said. And a taxi stopped several feet away, hesitated and then drove off.

An auto with two women in it stopped and asked, "Are you all right?" Another 33 cars passed before two policemen showed up. The two women who had stopped apparently called headquarters.

Bound and gagged in Union Square in the downtown section, Miss Nielsen's pleas were ignored by 65 persons within 16 minutes.

One businessman said later to an interviewer: "I thought maybe she was on a 'trip' or something. I didn't ask her if she needed help because she would have had a hard time answering through the gag."

Patrick sat bound and gagged on a park bench. In 15 minutes 42 men and women walked within five feet of him but none stopped.

One man said, "You see so many crazy things in San Francisco —I was afraid that whoever tied him up might be hiding in the bushes waiting to attack me if I helped."

The findings of their experiment were reported in The Phoenix, the journalism department's weekly newspaper.

The headline over the story read: "Damned Few Good Samaritans."

4 hurt, man arrested in 5-car crash

POMONA — Five cars collided Thursday night on the San Bernardino Freeway near Kellogg Drive, sending four persons to a hospital and a fifth person to jail.

Johnny Robert Kromer, 27, of Torrance, was booked at the Pomona jail on suspicion of felony drunk driving and driving with a suspended license.

The collision resulted when Kromer, driving at a high rate of speed, swerved to miss a slower-moving vehicle and lost control of his auto, said highway patrolmen.

Kromer's auto came to a stop crossways in the two fast lanes, where it was struck by two oncoming cars. These were traveling side-by-side. These automobiles, in turn, collided with two other vehicles.

The other drivers involved are Paul Corbin, 33, 957 W. D St., Ontario; Ralph Creamer, 43, 26 Mt. Baldy Rd., Mt. Baldy; Herbert Roubidoux, 50, 2156 Anne Place, Pomona, and Alvin Morse, 29, of Omaha, Neb.

Those injured were Corbin, Roubidoux and Creamer, and Creamer's wife, Gail, 28. All were treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and released.

Laird to leave after Ford 'in'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After 21 years, Melvin R. Laird is leaving government service, confident that Vice President-designate Gerald R. Ford can do a better job than he can as President Nixon's liaison with Congress.

Laird, Secretary of Defense during the first Nixon administration, Thursday confirmed reports he will leave government for an unspecified non-government job once Ford is confirmed by Congress, which is expected to happen next week.

The former nine-term Wisconsin representative spent much of his time attempting to smooth administration relations with Congress since taking over as Nixon's chief domestic adviser after John D. Ehrlichman's Watergate-induced resignation last spring.

Laird, 51, although privately in disagreement with White House handling of some Watergate problems, has tried to stay out of the controversy himself. His few public statements on the subject have been loyal to Nixon, although he once suggested that Nixon fire Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler.

Four southern states jarred by earthquake

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — A "minor to moderate" earthquake sent a window-rattling, dish-breaking jar through homes in four states early today but there were no reports of injury or major damage.

The tremor along the Southern Appalachians at 2:50 a.m. EST measured 4.75 on the Richter scale at the University of Mississippi's seismological laboratory.

"I consider it a minor to moderate earthquake," said the lab's director, Dr. Fred Followill at Oxford, Miss. Followill said the tentative center of the quake was under the University of Tennessee in Knoxville.

The professor said any Richter reading under 5.0 was not considered strong enough to do structural damage to buildings and houses.

"It would cause such minor damage as broken windows and dishes, cracked plaster," Followill said.

The National Weather Service in Atlanta said it received reports of the tremor from Eastern Tennessee, Western North Carolina, Western South Carolina and North Georgia.

"It shook pretty good around here," said a spokesman at the Knoxville weather bureau.

Mandatory curbs proposed

Night sports face ban in L.A.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Banning of night sports in this city because of the energy crisis has become a distinct possibility.

The general manager for the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power said the city should immediately impose mandatory curbs on electricity usage.

The warning served to compound a situation wherein Southern Californians already are feeling the crunch of a gasoline shortage.

Robert V. Phillips, DWP general manager and chief engineer, was asked by the Board of Water and Power commissioners for his recommendations on electrical energy.

"I would say a mandatory curtailment ordinance," he replied.

That indicated that the city has already passed through the the first two stages—conservation and voluntary cutbacks—of a five-stage plan to cope with the energy crisis.

DWP lawyers began drawing up "phase three" ordinances to ban billboard and sign lighting, limit the hours shops, offices and factories can remain open and ban nighttime sports and exhibitions.

The California Highway Patrol and the Automobile Club of Southern California both warned that most gasoline stations would be closed from Saturday night through Monday morning.

"The possibility of finding a 24-hour station on Sunday will probably be close to nonexistent," the auto club said.

A survey of 12 counties showed that about 78 per cent of the stations plan to close. Those few that do plan to open on Sunday will mostly close early in the afternoon or evening, the auto club said. Some stations that ordinarily remain open 24 hours a day plan to reopen Monday just after midnight, the auto club said, but others will remain closed until sunup.

The California Highway Patrol suggested that motorists avoid the 247-mile stretch of Interstate 5 between Tracy and Gorman. Interstate 5 is one of the main north-south highways in California, running from the Mexican border through San Diego, Los Angeles and Sacramento to the Oregon border. There will be eight stations open, at most, on that stretch Sunday, the highway patrol said, and motorists would be better off on state highway 99.

Ontario sites proposed

Area CHP office moving

CLAREMONT — Local highway patrolmen may soon have their home base in Ontario.

Eight possible sites for a new area office have been proposed in the vicinity of the San Bernardino Freeway and Mountain Avenue.

The site sizes range from 3½ to 4 acres. These are located close to a San Bernardino County complex, which includes Municipal and Superior courts.

The new facility will be combined to house both the California Highway Patrol and the Department of Motor Vehicles, said Capt. W. C. Jones, area highway patrol commander.

At present, the patrol office is located on Indian Hill Boulevard north of the San Bernardino Freeway in Claremont.

The building lease, however, has expired and the local force has outgrown the facility. The structure was built to house 60 officers. It now has 85 patrolmen.

The new area headquarters will be designed for a 100-man force, said Jones. "We are hoping to start construction by early April, with actual construction taking about 90 days."

In addition to the new office, the area boundaries will be extended east from Rochester Avenue to Etiwanda Avenue to include Alta Loma and Cucamonga.

Representatives from the state's General Services division, the Department of Motor Vehicles and the California Highway Patrol toured the proposed sites this week.

Later, they ranked the three top sites. These recommendations will be presented to other officials in Sacramento, where the final selection will be made.

The area office was moved to Claremont in 1963 from a building near Garey and McKinley avenues in Pomona.

Valley political lineup will feature new faces

By PAUL HILL
P-B Staff Writer

As expected, there will be some new faces in the Pomona Valley's political line-up next year because of the state's latest redistricting plan.

Of the nine state and congressional legislators who now represent portions of the valley, only one — state Sen. H. L. Richardson — is assured of maintaining his district.

Two others — Congressman Charles Wiggins, R-25th Dist., and Assemblyman William Lancaster, R-49th Dist. — can retain districts in the valley if they are successful in their bids for re-election.

(All assemblymen and congressmen must seek re-election next year, while only those senators in even-numbered districts have to do so. Senators in odd-numbered districts do not have to run again until 1976.)

The rest have been shoved completely out of the area by the reapportionment, and apparently have found homes in their new districts.

Of the seven legislative districts created by the plan, it appears that at least two, and possibly a third, will be without an incumbent.

The two such districts are the 64th and 65th Assembly districts, the latter containing the majority of the valley's population.

The 35th congressional district, which consists of the entire valley except for Diamond Bar, could also be without an incumbent legislator, but there are several "if's" to be considered.

The primary consideration rests with Wiggins and his decision where to run. The 35th district is just one of three areas where the West Covina Republican could seek re-election.

Apparently, he has reached that decision since he scheduled a press conference for late this afternoon to discuss his plans.

If Wiggins does not choose to run in the 35th district, then Richardson or Rep. Victor Veysey might become candidates.

Richardson, R-19th Dist., who also is considering trying for the U.S. Senate against Alan Cranston next year, said Thursday he is "interested" in the district, but his decision "depends an awful lot on what other people do."

Veysey is a man without a district, the result of the reapportionment's authors decision to ignore the factor of incumbency. His present 43rd district was divided among three new districts, all of which have incumbent congressmen.

Briefly, here is how the political line-up may shape up (showing valley cities in each district):

ASSEMBLY

65th District: No incumbent (consists of the valley cities of Pomona, Ontario, Montclair, Upland and Chino).

62nd District: Assemblyman Lancas-

3 brothers held in slaying of 4 S. Dakota boys

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (UP) — Three brothers were arrested on murder charges today in the Nov. 17 shotgun slayings of four teen-aged boys while they were picnicking in a state park with a young girl.

Authorities said the brothers, all from the Sioux Falls area were arrested at 6 a.m. and each was charged with four counts of murder for the apparently motiveless killings at a former Indian burial ground in Gitchie Manitou State Park.

The unidentified 13-year-old girl who accompanied the youths on the picnic was spared by the killers and has been in protective custody since the slayings. It was believed that questioning of her led authorities to the suspects.

The brothers were identified as Allan Fryer, 29 of rural Hartford, S.D.; David Lyle Fryer 24, and James Ray Fryer, 21, both of Sioux Falls.

Announcement of the arrests came in a statement read by Iowa assistant Attorney General Ike Skinner. Skinner and other law officers attending a news conference declined to elaborate on details not contained in the statement.

The arrests capped a massive investigation by eight law enforcement agencies in South Dakota, as well as the Iowa Bureau of Criminal Investigation and the Lyon County sheriff's department. Civil defense auxiliary police here also took part in the investigation.

Arrest warrants were signed by Magistrate L. P. Baker in Rock Rapids, county seat of Lyon County.

It was at an abandoned farm northwest of here that officers got their first major break in the investigation.

A vehicle for which the officers had been searching was believed found at the farmstead.

The farm house was located Thursday based on a description provided by a 13-year-old girl, who was being held in protective custody by police as a witness to the murders of the four youths —Stewart Baade, 18, his brother, Dana, 14, Roger Essen, 17, and Michael Madrath, 15.

She told authorities she was with the four boys during a party at the park when three men approached and opened fire on the youths. The girl, who was not identified, said the men split up and left the park and that she was "taken" by one of the men who later dropped her off near her Sioux Falls area home.

Lyon County Sheriff Craig Vinson said a massive search had been conducted in Iowa and South Dakota Wednesday night for two farm houses believed to be within a 50 to 60 mile radius of the state park. He said the farm houses were "places where the girl was taken."

The four victims were killed by shotgun blasts, one of them in the head and the others in the body.

More letter bombs found in Tel Aviv

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Security officers today uncovered six more deadly letter bombs in Tel Aviv's central post office.

Police said the discovery of the bombs brought to 16 the number of booby-trapped letters that have arrived in Israel in the last three days. None of the bombs have exploded.

The latest packages were mailed from Italy and addressed to places in Jerusalem, Tel Aviv and Eilat, authorities said.

Terrorized L.A. in grip of hoodlum 'gang crisis'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Police Department said Thursday the city and its surrounding areas are in the grip of a "gang crisis" because of the failure of the juvenile criminal justice system.

In a two-hour briefing for police commissioners, 10 officers told how gangs terrorized citizens and how police manpower was being drained to combat youthful hoodlums.

"Hardcore hoodlums" Police Capt. Steve Downing said, are being allowed to return to the streets by a lenient justice system.

"These hoodlums," he said, "have brought about infection of youths in the communities."

Police Chief Edward M. Davis said the juvenile court system lacks an adequate staff and that "there is an extremely low regard for the rehabilitation of juveniles in Los Angeles County."

He said there are three fulltime judges to handle juvenile cases in the area.

Davis also said the juvenile justice system has deteriorated over the years, but "nobody gives a good God damn."

The five-member board was told gang activity is at its height in the southwest section of the city, but that gang activity also extends throughout the city and surrounding areas, including the San Fernando Valley.

The officers gave the commissioners a review of Negro, Mexican-American, Chinese and Anglo or "Hells Angels" type gangs, the four most prominent in the area.

Downing said the No. 1 "gang crisis" was in the southwest and central sections of the city, where blacks are killing each other in gang-related activities.

Assistant Police Chief Darryl Gates said that in the predominantly black neighborhoods of south Los Angeles, new gangs are springing up to defend themselves against activities of the "Crips" gang.

The most violent crimes were reported to have occucrred in the south central portion of the city.

Police officers said two warring factions were leading the gang activity in Chinatown. They said a "turf war" is currently being waged between the Wah Ching and You Lee gangs.

The commissioners were told that Mexican-American gangs have remained constant and that Hells Angels and similar type gangs are more organized, efficient, business oriented and tied in with organized crime.

William Norris, police commission president, said the briefing Thursday was "a beginning," and that "we can begin to make informed judgements as to what the department should be doing to deal with gangs."

Nixon: 'mistakes' by his legal staff--changes due

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's lawyers, headed by J. Fred Buzhardt, have made "some mistakes" in handling the Watergate affair and the office is being reorganized, according to White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler.

Ziegler said Buzhardt would continue on the legal team but an Illinois judge, John J. Sullivan, a Democrat who is a longtime friend of the President, has joined the group.

Ziegler indicated the President was concerned about what he considered mistakes by Buzhardt's staff in courtroom tactics before U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica. "They've been working hard and we've made some mistakes in this situation," he said.

Buzhardt said he would not disagree with Ziegler's comment that he was overworked and added "I've never pretended that I was perfect."

John J. Sullivan was expected to take an increasingly dominant role in directing the President's courtroom campaign and Ziegler added that former Treasury under secretary H. Chapman Rose of Cleveland and Philadelphia attorney Kenneth W. Gemmill have volunteered to help strengthen the President's legal team.

Asked whether Buzhardt would remain in charge of the Watergate advisers, Ziegler replied, "Yes, Fred will continue to work on Watergate matters, will continue to play a key role on Watergate matters."

Asked specifically if Nixon was satisfied with Buzhardt's handling of the case, Ziegler replied:

"I don't want to express any public dissatisfaction in relation to the work of any individual. Fred Buzhardt has worked very hard and will continue to work on the President's staff."

New faces...

ter will be the incumbent, and must face re-election next year (Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas).

64th District: No incumbent (Walnut, Diamond Bar).

SENATE

32nd District: Incumbent will be the winner of special election Dec. 18 for present 20th Senate District (Pomona, Ontario, Montclair, Upland, Chino).

25th District: Richardson will be the incumbent, but will not have to run for re-election until 1976 (Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas).

CONGRESSIONAL

35th District: No incumbent unless Wiggins decides to run here (Pomona, Ontario, Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas, Montclair, Upland, Chino, Walnut).

33rd District: Apparently there is no incumbent (Diamond Bar).

Since the court waived the one-year residency requirement in ordering the reapportionment, it is conceivable that a person from outside a district could run as a candidate if he establishes residence within the district by Jan. 28. However, it is doubtful this would happen for the reason it could be a very unpopular move on the part of a candidate.

Among those legislators who will no longer have districts in the valley are Assemblymen Joseph Montoya, D-50th Dist., John Briggs, R-35th Dist., and John Quimby, D-72nd Dist.; James Whetmore, R-35th Dist., and Congressmen Jerry Pettis, R-33rd Dist., and George Brown, D-38th Dist. All have indicated they will seek re-election in new districts outside the Pomona Valley.

Briggs, for one, was upset with the reapportionment order, particularly the part concerning Senate re-elections. He had hoped to run against Whetmore in the new 35th Senate District, but Whetmore, like Richardson, does not have to worry about re-election for three more years.

Briggs will now choose between two Assembly districts in Orange County, an aide said Thursday.

Reaction to redistricting plan by civic officials throughout the valley was generally favorable.

"Basically, we will have one congressman, one assemblyman and one senator," said Pomona Mayor Ray Lepire in reference to the boundaries of the 35th Congressional, 32nd Senate and 65th Assembly districts. "It means better representation. These officials can look at this area and see that the problems relate to the whole area and not a particular part."

Commented Ontario Mayor Howard Snider on the compact 65th district, "It only takes 10 minutes to go from one end to the other, and that at only 50 miles an hour."

Task force

Job loss in energy crisis to get study

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor Secretary Peter J. Brennan has set up a special task force in his department to assess the potential job loss from the nation's energy shortage and to develop ways to help workers who are laid off, it was learned today.

Undersecretary of Labor Richard Schubert was scheduled to announce the task force at a news conference in Philadelphia later today (2:30 p.m. EST) during a visit to the regional Labor Department office there.

Schubert told UPI the task force hopes to find ways to provide adequate unemployment pay for workers who lose their jobs because of the fuel and energy shortage, to help them find or train for new jobs, and to encourage industry to find ways to reduce the need for laying off workers.

Chairman Herbert Stein of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers said Thursday the council expects unemployment to go as high as 6 per cent at times next year if the Arabs continue to ban shipments of oil to the United States. Joblessness now is 4.5 per cent of the work force.

Some private economists have predicted unemployment could rise as high as 8 per cent because of the energy shortage. Layoffs because of the fuel shortage have already started.

The House Wednesday approved and sent to the Senate a job training bill that included a program to help ease unemployment resulting from the fuel crisis.

Schubert said the Labor Department prefers amending the present unemployment insurance program to help workers who lose their jobs as a result of fuel shortages.

He suggested Congress delay action for 90 days to give the department time for further study.

First GM car with air bag rolls off the assembly line

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Motorists unhappy with the buckle-up or don't drive safety belts in 1974 cars now have a choice—air bags as a $225 option.

For that price, GM will add two air bags and all the electronic equipment needed to work them. It will leave off the ignition interlock, and warning buzzer and flashing lights that have irritated many drivers in recent model cars.

GM produced the first of the airbag-equipped cars Thursday and rolled it off an assembly line at its Oldsmobile Division Headquarters. The car—a Cinnamon-colored Toronado Brougham—was driven off the line by Dolly Cole, wife of GM President Edward N. Cole.

The safety item is one answer to the government order to automakers to come up with a completely passive restraint system to protect drivers by the time 1976-models cars are introduced in mid-1975. another is a safety belt system that pins the front-seat occupants in when the front doors are closed.

Speaking to newsmen after viewing the air cushion system, as GM refers to it, Cole said he didn't know how many of the 50,000 air bag-equipped cars that GM will produce in the 1974-model year will be sold. GM plans to produce 100,000 air bag-equipped cars in the 1975-model year.

"We just don't know how much a person is willing to pay to be able to get in a car and not have to do anything," he said.

Kennedy boy goes home on crutches

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Edward M. Kennedy Jr., carrying a football autographed by the Washington Redskins football players, was released today from Georgetown University Hospital—13 days after amputation of his cancerous right leg.

The 12-year-old son of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., was operated on Nov. 17, four days after it was determined he was suffering from cancer of cartilege below the knee.

The youngster appeared in excellent spirits as he left the hospital, and without assistance got into the family car, with his father at the wheel. His mother, Joan Kennedy, was in the back seat.

Young Kennedy was on crutches although he was fitted with a temporary artificial leg two days after the operation. It is designed to help him learn how to walk and to maintain his balance.

A permanent artificial leg will be fitted after the leg stump fully heals.

Clifford Irving granted parole

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Clifford Irving will end the last sentence of his $765,000 literary swindle next Valentine's Day one year early.

The U.S. Parole Board Thursday approved his second request for early release and paroled him effective Feb. 14, 1974.

Irving, 42, was sentenced in June, 1972, to two years and six months for defrauding McGraw-Hill publishers with a fake biography of billionaire Howard Hughes. He began serving the sentence Aug. 28, 1973.

His wife, Edith, is currently serving a two-year sentence in a Swiss prison for her part in the hoax.

Hearing set on proposed OIA runway

By L.T. ROGERS
Asst. City Editor

ONTARIO — Residents will have four sessions to express their views regarding an environmental impact study prepared for the proposed construction of a second main runway at Ontario International Airport.

Public hearings have been scheduled for Jan. 8 and 9, from 3 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m., both days. These will be held in Chaffey High School's Gardiner Spring Auditorium.

Clifton A. Moore, general manager of the Los Angeles Department of Airports, announced these hearing dates Thursday at an airport commission hearing conducted at the Ontario airport.

Judge Herman Cameron, an attorney and Los Angeles member of the Southern California Association of Governments airport hearing board, will preside.

The session will be devoted to accepting written and oral comments on the 600-page study, prepared for the department of airports by the Northrop Corp.'s environemntal systems department.

The hearings will cover a brief review of the report by the consultant and then be opened to interested parties. The comments presented will be included in the final impact report to be sent to the Federal Aviation Administration, an agency of the federal Department of Transportation.

The $90,000 study, released last June, makes the finding that the most positive step to reduce the airport's noise impact is to construct a second runway.

While this will result in a greater number of operations by 1985, the net result will be a decrease in both noise and air pollution by accommodating the heavier and quieter aircraft, it added.

The proposed project is to build a new 10,200-foot runway parallel to the present east-west runway, but with the threshold being shifted 2,200 feet to the east. The move will allow departing aircraft to be at a higher elevation when going over populated areas, thus reducing noise and air pollution levels.

The airport commission had authorized the Northrop study in May, 1971. Completion was delayed pending acceptance by the FAA of an airport sound evaluation system.

Testimony given at the hearings will be attached to the toal report and sent to FAA officials for their review, expalined William Schoenfeld, deputy general manager of the Los Angeles Department of Airports.

"If the FAA adopts it, this then becomes its report. We are providing them the information they need to make their own report. The FAA officials will make a determination on the project and if it will affect the environment."

Following FAA review, the study and testimony will be sent to the office of the secretary for the Department of Transportation, he added.

Should approval be given, there may be a two-year period before actual construction could begin, he said. Such a time period would be needed to prepare a design, complete negotiations and award the contracts.

Airport officials, however, are seeking to coordinate the new runway construction with the U. S. Corps of Engineers' expansion of the Cucamonga Creek channel which crosses the south area of the airport. The project is scheduled for 1976.

The airport commission had taken previous action regarding the proposed second runway when it allocated $3 million from unallocated funds for its construction. The total cost, however, is expected to be greater than that amount.

Commissioners noted the importance of the second runway during a helicopter ride over the existing main runway.

"We saw where it (the runway) needs capping," reported Stephen C. Bilheimer, commission chairman. "We want to settle this once and for all."

Long underwear is answer to crisis

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — "I'll show you how you can adapt to lower temperatures," Gov. Calvin Rampton told newsmen, hiking a pantleg of his suit.

A portion of the governor's new long-handled underwear was displayed at a news conference after Rampton ordered thermostats in the state capitol lowered to 68 degrees.

The gubernatorial display Wednesday came after several employes, including a few who brought their own heaters, complained it was too cold in the capitol under the new policy.

Olympics gymnast is new Peter Pan

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Cathy Rigby, America's No. 1 gymnast at the Munich Olymics, is going on tour as Peter Pan.

NBC Entertainment Corp. Thursday announced plans for a new musical production, with Miss Rigby as Peter Pan, to tour the United States, Canada and Mexico.

It will open at San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 3.

Although she was rated as a gold medal threat at last year's Olympic Games, injuries cost her any shot at a medal. She now is married to former pro football running back Tommy Mason.

Allende's widow arrives in Canada

OTTAWA (UPI) — Mrs. Hortensia B. de Allende, widow of the late Chilean president, held a tearful meeting with Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau Thursday then appealed to Canada to help Chileans wishing to come here.

When Mrs. Allende left the prime minister's office she was crying openly. She left Trudeau's office through an adjoining room while news photographers waited at the main entrance.

The widow of Salvador Allende, who died in the military coup which toppled his government Sept. 11, met briefly with newsmen Thursday night but commented only lightly on her meeting with Trudeau.

Mrs. Allende said also she hoped Canada would cease giving credits to the junta and refuse to trade with Chile to precipitate a fall of the junta, which she frequently referred to as "fascist."

Liz will leave hospital in week

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Elizabeth Taylor will be released from the hospital in about a week, UCLA Medical Center says.

"Miss Taylor is doing very well," her doctor reported Thursday. "She is a very cooperative patient." The 41-year-old movie star was operated on Wednesday to discover the source of abdominal pains. A cyst was removed from her right ovary and an "abnormal intestinal formation" was corrected.

Undersea search leader arrested

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Christopher Delucchi, who led an ambitious attempt to salvage valuables from the sunken liner Andrea Doria, was arrested by the FBI Thursday on charges that he obtained government material for his own use while he was a Navy Aquanaut.

Delucchi, 22, was charged with fraud and embezzlement for allegedly using Navy requisitions to obtain $1,300 worth of industrial pipe equipment.

Delucchi, now vice president of Saturation Systems Inc., led a team of former Navy aquanauts that tried last summer to salvage cash, jewels and other valuables from the Andrea Doria, which lies on the bottom of the Atlantic off the East Coast of the United States. They used a "saturation diving" system, living and working out of a sunken chamber nicknamed "mother" that was attached to the wreck. They said the attempt failed because there is too much debris blocking the passages inside the liner.

Conservative will seek senate seat

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — S.M. "Sam" Cavnar announced Thursday he is a candidate for the Senate seat that will be vacated by Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev.

Bible revealed several months ago that he will not seek re-election, ending 20 years in the Senate.

Cavnar, 48, a management consultant described himself as a conservative Republican. He was chairman of "Operation Bus Stop" in Michigan, and general chairman of Project Prayer, which works for the restoration of prayers in the public schools. Cavnar said he supports President Nixon, and is in favor of meeting the energy shortage with offshore oil drilling, the Alaska pipeline and the conversion of shale oil.

CLIFFORD IRVING

Driver makes citizen arrest on freeway

MONTCLAIR — The California Highway Patrol received a helping hand Thursday night from a motorist in the arrest of a suspected drunken driver.

Michael Howard Henderson, 19, of San Dimas had noticed a car in front of him weaving back and forth while traveling on the San Bernardino Freeway east from Garey Avenue, officers reported.

At Monte Vista Avenue in Montclair, Henderson motioned the other driver to pull over to the side of the freeway where he made a citizen's arrest, they added. He then detained the motorist until a highway patrol car arrived.

Officer W. R. Anderson was on freeway patrol duty when he saw the two cars parked and stopped to investigate. He administered a breath alcohol test, then transported the suspected driver to the San Bernardino County jail in Ontario.

Michael Paul Duane, 25, of Orlando, Fla., was booked there on suspicion of drunken driving.

Henderson's action drew praise from Capt. W. C. Jones, the California Highway Patrol's area commander. "By stopping the driver, this might have saved someone's life," he said. Jones said he will send a letter of commendation to Henderson.

3 arrested with illegal weapon

ONTARIO — West End sheriff's deputies arrested three men and confiscated a Thompson submachine gun, a Winchester 1873 model 44-40 caliber rifle and an antique Civil War breechloader here Thursday night.

Sheriff's detectives Joe Henry and Don Carpenter said they received information from an unidentified person Thursday afternoon that several men were seen taking a submachine gun from the trunk of a car near Mission Boulevard and Central Avenue. The detectives said they "staked out" the area for several hours and spotted the car and the three men. The car was stopped at a small market at Fremont Avenue and Mission Boulevard in Ontario.

Carpenter said a search of the vehicle revealed a nonoperable submachine gun and a clip in the trunk. The three men identified as Mike Angel Morales, 21, of Modesto, Jimmy Garcia, 26, and his brother Reynaldo E. Garcia, 20, of 10855 Central Ave., Ontario, were arrested at the scene on suspicion of possessing an illegal weapon. The three were booked in west end jail.

Carpenter said in a search of the Garcias' apartments at 10855 Central Ave. they found the Civil War breechloader, a Winchester "73" rifle, a foreign made .38 caliber revolver, an electric motor and three motorcyles, one partially stripped. Carpenter said the weapons and motorcylces are believed to have been stolen.

Carpenter said they also recovered a small jar of suspected marijuana seeds from the apartment.

Two hurt as auto flips on freeway

DIAMOND BAR — Two persons suffered minor injuries Wednesday night when their small car overturned on the Pomona Freeway and slid on its top into the center divider fence.

Carol Epperly, 24, of La Mirada, the driver, and Johnathan Delling, 18, of La Habra, a passenger, were treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and released.

The car was going west on the freeway and went out of control when the driver swerved to avoid a slower moving vehicle, said highway patrolmen.

The sedan rolled over and slid into a divider fence near Grand Avenue. The collision damaged 33 feet of fence and four posts.

2nd suspect in Ontario knifing held

ONTARIO — West End sheriff's detectives have arrested a second man in connection with the Sunday night stabbing of a Covina man outside of the El Carousel Tavern at 4711 Mission Blvd.

Detectives said Alfonso Guzman Vera, 22, of 743 W. Grand Ave., Pomona, turned himself in at the West End sheriff's substation Wednesday afternoon after he learned he was being sought for questioning in the stabbing of James Cepeda Corona, 20, of Covina Sunday night. Vera was questioned and then placed in the West End Jail on suspicion of attempted murder.

Early Sunday morning Carmelo Orelas Barba, 20, of 951 12th St., Pomona, was arrested by a sheriff's reserve officer on special duty at the tavern. The reserve officer found Corona stabbed several times outside the building. Barba was booked for investigation of attempted murder.

Corona, who suffered stab wounds of the heart lining, diaphram, stomach and leg, remained in Montclair Doctors Hospital this morning. His condition is listed as satisfactory.

Detectives said one other person is still being sought for questioning in connection with the incident.

OHS students blame administration

Drama teacher's exit protested

ONTARIO — Some 50 Ontario High School students staged a five-hour protest Thursday claiming the administration brought pressure on a drama teacher to resign because of an alledged objectionable play given on the campus two weeks ago.

However, both Principal Alfred Dakin and the instructor, Chuck Thompson, denied the allegations and said the decision to give up the drama position at the end of the semester was Thompson's own. He will continue to teach mass media and English classes.

Thompson said he decided not to teach the drama class because "everytime we have done plays something is objected to by the community and the administration gets upset." He admitted the latest incident was not the first time his productions had been criticized by parents who saw the plays, but had been happening the past two to three years.

The present controversy arose when Dakin said he received four phone calls from parents who claimed the play contained objectionable language and connotations. The play, entitled "Communication," depict a married couple who — apparently drifting apart — discover the value of a sincere talk.

Thompson wrote the play. Dakin did not see the play, and only Thursday had seen the script for the first time.

Claremont no earthshaker in spite of its faults

CLAREMONT — Three faults cross the city of Claremont, but none has had movement in the last 25,000 years, members of the City Council, Planning Commission, and Environmental Quality Board were informed Thursday night at a joint study session at Imperial Savings.

Dr. Allen W. Hatheway, senior engineer for FUGRO Inc., Long Beach, which has completed a $5,000 seismic safety study for the city, said that it has been almost 40 years since Claremont has had a quake epicenter of more than 4 on the Richter Scale.

The City Council accepted the report pending completion of corrections of the locations of the Indian Hill and San Jose Faults on a photograph in the report.

Jack Schoustra, president of FUGRO Inc., reported that Claremont is one of the first cities in the state to work on its seismic element but that Claremont is no better or worse off earthquake-wise than any other cities on the south side of the San Gabriel foothills.

He explained that the report was not a complete seismic-safety element, but only the geo-technical data.

Planning Director Sharon Hightower reported that the report would form the appendix of the element in the city's general plan.

Hatheway explained that the Sierra Madre-Cucamonga Fault runs along the foothills and separates Claraboya from the rest of the city, that the Indian Hill Fault runs east and west north of the old Claremont High School north of Foothill Boulevard, and that the San Jose Fault enters Claremont at the San Bernardino Freeway, runs northeastward to Indian Hill Boulevard and Arrow Highway to meet the Indian Hill Fault north of Foothill Boulevard in Montclair.

Referring to the groundwater flooding in various portions of Claremont in 1938, 1967 and 1969, Hatheway explained that the problem with groundwater is not related to earthquakes.

Hatheway said the last time the city had an epicenter of 4.5 was in 1934, and a measurement of 2.5 in January, 1970.

Hatheway recommended that he would operate on a 300-foot band on either side of a fault to ask a developer for an earthquake study if he wanted to build a hospital or school in the fault zone.

Schoustra explained that the amount of the investigation should depend on the sensability of the structure.

Roger Buchanan of the county engineer's office which was asked to make a study of non-residential buildings in Claremont that are quake hazards said that the Webb School gymnasium contains "every material for a high degree of hazard."

City Manager Keith Mulrooney kept Buchanan from naming any more buildings when he said he felt it would be premature to release the addresses of the buildings, because such publicity would cause concern among owners.

Vice-Mayor Bertye Smith commented that the meeting was probably the first of many on the seismic safety element.

Stan Kawa, executive director of the Pomona Valley Municipal Water District, headed up the second half of the program and explained the district's proposed $32 million capital improvement program.

He said that the district is probably looking toward a 1974 bond election to finance the program, but the response from the member cities would decide whether the election was held in the spring or fall.

He explained that all member cities will be invited to a meeting for an exchange of ideas. "There's a fair amount of ground to cover," he said.

He said that the water treatment plant probably will be west of the Pomona Valley Protective Association property. Cost of the plant and feeder lines west on Base Line Road to other cities is estimated at $13,117,000.

He said the district which serves strictly as a water wholesaleer expects to use 100 per cent Feather River water.

A 4,500-acre-foot reservoir in the Tonner Canyon area to serve Roland Heights, Diamond Bar and Walnut will cost about $18,783,000, Kawa expalined.

"We intend to integrate both plants as much as possible," he said.

Kawa explained that he did not feel the proposed project would be "growth-producing."

He said that the project is primarily a ground-level delivery of water. He explained that by 2000 the district expects an 80 per cent dependence on imported water.

He said that Claremont presently receives 76 per cent of its water from wells, and 23.9 per cent from imported water, but by 2005 the well water supply will drop to 59.2 per cent.

He said that the proposed treatment plant would take care of 10 to 15 years of expected demand, but that the distribution system would be developed fully.

He said he didn't know whether the financing program would be by general obligation or by revenue bonds.

Dead in Japanese store fire mourned

TOKYO (UPI) — "My God, it looks like hell," a fire official said as he tramped today through the smoldering ruins of the Taiyo department store in Kumamoto.

In another part of town, robed Buddhist priests chanted prayers at the Higashi Honganji temple. Relatives inside sobbed by the coffins of 100 persons killed when fire blazed through the store Thursday during a pre-Christmas sale.

A team of fire officials began an intense search of the wreckage today in an attempt to determine the cause of the worst department store fire in Japanese history.

Most of the dead were women shoppers or sales personnel. Police said 65 of the victims were women, 32 were men and three bodies had been burned so badly their sex could not be determined.

At least 100 other Japanese shoppers and store workers were injured in the blaze itself —by fumes, lack of oxygen and the wild crush to exits at the first shout of "fire."

Hairdresser accompanies Reagan tour

SACRAMENTO, California (UPI) — At taxpayer expense, Nancy Reagan's hairdresser is accompanying Gov. Ronald Reagan and his wife on a 12-day tour of the Far East.

Julius Bentsson, a Los Angeles beautician, was invited to make the trip to style Mrs. Reagan's hair for the many appearances scheduled for the Reagan to promote U.S. exports. The governor is representing President Nixon.

"Whenever the governor and his wife have to make a number of public appearances, they take him (Bentsson) along," Clyde Walthall, Reagan's press secretary, said Wednesday. "It has the approval of the State Department."

The federal government will pay the expenses of the trip. Besides the beautician, four Reagan aides and an undisclosed number of security agents are accompanying the governor, who will return to the United States Dec. 5.

Radioactive pipe leak disclosed

RICHLAND, Wash. (UPI) — Solid radioactive waste clogged a pipe and caused a 7,000-gallon leak at the Hanford Atomic Reservation earlier this month, according to the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC).

An AEC spokesman said radioactive salts clogged the underground pipe, forcing the highly radioactive liquid waste to back up and spew out through a vertical pipe.

No one was exposed to radioactivity by the Nov. 14 leak, the spokesman said, and the contaminated soil was buried in cement containers on the sprawling atomic facility.

Both evaporators at Hanford, used to convert the liquid wastes to solid material, were closed down following the mishap.

"We're looking at the possibility of modification to the pipe," said AEC spokesman Tom Bauman. "Once this is started, we'll make some modifications and start the evaporators up again."

The program to convert liquid radioactive wastes to solids was begun after a series of leaks was discovered in aging storage tanks.

No proof yet of virus-cancer link

By AL ROSSITER JR.
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — There is increasing evidence that many forms of human cancer are caused by viruses and hope is growing that vaccines eventually will be developed to prevent some cancers, several scientists said today.

But researchers have not yet come up with conclusive proof linking human cancers with viruses and one scientist, Dr. Howard M. Temin, professor of cancer research at the University of Wisconsin, said he does not believe there is a direct connection between human cancers and viruses.

A specific virus must be found to cause a cancer before an anti-cancer vaccine can be developed. And even then, one researcher attending a national conference sponsored by the American Cancer Society and the National Cancer Institute predicted it will be five to 10 years at least before cancer vaccines can be safely used in man.

In another report, Dr. Brian E. Henderson, of the University of Southern California School of Medicine, said his studies have found no evidence supporting earlier reports that human breast cancer may be spread by viruses in mothers' milk.

Dr. Friedrich W. Dienhardt chairman of the department of microbiology at Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center in Chicago predicted in a paper prepared for the opening session that actual isolation of the first human cancer causing viruses should not be too far away.

"C-type viruses cause sarcomas (malignant tumors) and luekemias in many and probably all animal species and as it is unlikely that man differs in this respect we may expect to find similar agents in man" he said.

Dr. Werner Henle professor of virology at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine said a virus known as Epstein-Barr is a strong contender for the first proven human tumor virus because of its inferred association with Hodgkin's Disease leukemia and some other malignant diseases.

"There are now a whole slew of human viruses commonly seen by the population under natural conditions that we know have potential cancer properties in experimental systems" said Dr. Fred Rapp Chairman of the Department of microbiology at the Pennsylvania State University School of Medicine.

"These same viruses are causing cancers under natural conditions in animals. So one has to entertain the strong suspicion that they might be causing cancer under natural conditions in man" he said at a news conference before the start of the three-day meeting.

"I think probably within five years we will have some handle on whether some of these viruses do cause (human) cancer" Rapp said. But he said it may take 10 years or longer before safe cancer vaccines are available.

"Safety testing is going to be a very big headache and it's going to have to be done slowly with a lot of groundwork laid so we don't cause what amounts to a cancer epidemic" he said in an interview.

"You don't want to instill the disease in any child. So the safety precautions are going to be monumental. For that reason I don't think the vaccine is just around the corner even after we know the virus that is causing any given form of cancer."

Gas rationing would hit hardest in L.A.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gasoline rationing would be most painful for the many big U.S. cities which have grown completely oriented to the automobile and lack mass transportation systems, and among these, the hardest hit city would be Los Angeles.

Big cities that appear to be in the best shape to handle the increase in commuters rationing would bring include New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston and San Francisco.

But Los Angeles like many metropolitan centers has grown up with the private car. It has no subways no elevated trains no streetcars although it does have a bus system. There are no commuter trains to the suburbs. Instead there is a grid of 500 miles of 65 mile-an-hour freeways in the metropolitan area.

The Santa Monica freeway is the world's busiest street, handling more than 230,000 cars a day. It is not unusual for someone to drive 100 miles a day to and from work.

The Washington metropolitan area would not be much better off if gasoline rationing were ever ordered. For the past two years, for example, Jean Gunther, who lives in Bethesda, Md., has gotten up about 7 a.m., eaten breakfast and driven her car to the State Department in Washington.

With the energy crisis she may have to leave the auto home and walk a half mile to catch a bus at 7 a.m. It will add an hour or more to her day.

The bus is Jean Gunther's only practical option. Washington has plans underway for a subway system, which if the citizens are lucky, will be completed by 1980. There is nothing else except a taxi. It costs about $10 to go to Washington from her home by cab.

This is typical although not so extreme throughout much of the rest of the nation. Such places as Richmond, Va., and Atlanta also are almost totally dependent on the automobile.

Atlanta has approved plans for a subway system but as one cynical commuter commented, "God only knows when it will get started."

New York has the nation's largest subway system. The metropolitan area has the Long Island and Penn Central railroads to service the suburbs. Also, there are numerous bus lines in the area

Chicago has a subway-elevated system which runs from the northern city limits beyond the two suburbs of Evanston and Wilmette. Like the New York subway system, it has been in serious financial straits for years. Chicago also has a number of bus systems.

Philadelphia has a fleet of 1,300 buses, 437 subway trains and 380 trolley cars.

The Boston area is served by the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority which has extensive subway and bus operations but which needs a special appropriation — now pending in the state legislature —to stay in operation.

First tests on Nixon tapes to be completed in January

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — A University of Utah computer scientist appointed to a committee that will attempt to authenticate President Nixon's Watergate tapes said he expects the group officially to begin its work within 10 days.

Dr. Thomas G. Stockham Jr., professor of electrical engineering, and five other experts were named to the committee last week by Federal Judge John J. Sirica, who took custody of the tapes Tuesday.

The verification team will report its findings directly to Sirica, said Dr. Stockham, who estimated that pilot tests on the presidential tapes would be completed during January.

These initial studies will involve physical and electrical measurements as well as several sophisticated analysis of certain recorded sounds, the Utah professor said

Dr. Stockham refused to speculate on the possible outcome of the tests. "It would be premature, I know the public will understand, to make any comment until scientific measurements are made in a fair and unbiased way," he said.

Family gym an idea for personal gift

By STEVE ELLINGSON

It appears that easy living and too little exercise have created "the soft society". Flabby muscles, bulging waistlines and poor skin tone are common among all age groups today . . . even teenagers. Here's how we propose to do something about it.

Today's project is a family gym, just perfect as a "do-it-yourself" Christmas gift. This device enables the entire family to start a bodybuilding program right at home without membership dues in gymnasiums or health clubs. It's inexpensive and can be set up in your backyard, basement or recreation room—very little space is required.

The framework for this device is made entirely of water pipe and fittings. All are listed in the pattern and can be purchased at your local plumbing shop . . . assembled in less than an hour. The board is made of plywood and fits on the framework in many other ways than the one shown in the picture. The only tool needed to assemble the gym is a pipe wrench.

Using 38 pictures, the pattern shows over 20 different exercises for developing and trimming down all parts of the body. Most of the exercises done in a large gymnasium can be done equally well on this one, low-cost, healthy-building unit . . . and they only take a few minutes each day.

To obtain the family gym pattern number 287, send $1.00 by currency, check or money order to:

'Men Only' garden club opens up for women

CLAREMONT — Another "Men's Only" institution is changing with the times as the Claremont Men's Garden Club announces it is going co-ed.

Until recently, the club was affiliated with the Men's Garden Clubs of America, and was, as the name inplies, strictly for men. The club is now called the Claremont Garden Club and is inviting women to join.

"It soon became apparent," according to a club statement, "that the home gardening was not done entirely by the men and that the ladies of the house was active, ardent, and enthusiastic tillers of the soil."

Sole requirement for membership in the club is an interest in the growing of plants. "A desire to share experiences and plant material with fellow members would also contribute to the success of this organization," notes the statement.

"Our purpose will be to promote the science and art of horticulture in general and home gardening in particular. The lessons learned from our practical experiences, our successes and failures, will broaden the knowledge of gardening of our members. Many of us have found that gardening in Southern California is not the same as it was 'back home' and costly and time-consuming mistakes can be averted by discussion at the meetings."

Meetings of the group are held at 7:30 p.m. the first Wednesday of every month at the Rancho Santa Ana Botanic Garden lecture hall, 1500 N. College Ave. For information, call 622-9451 in the evenings.

The December meeting will feature Fred Boutin speaking on "Plant Exploring in Mexico." Boutin is botanist at the Huntington Botanic Gardens in San Marino. All residents of the Pomona Valley are welcome.

Give Earth a Christmas gift with live tree

A popular idea for the family today is a living Christmas Tree. The role of trees, and the contributions they make towards a quality environment, helps account for the unprecendented popularity of living trees over "cut" Christmas trees.

Other than environmental considerations, a living Christmas tree quickly becomes a member of the family. It can be grown in a tub, moved in during the Holidays, then be featured outdoors on the patio, deck or porch, the rest of the year. Or, if the tree should get too big to move around, it can be planted in the garden and lighted for the Christmas season for the pleasure of the family—and the neighborhood.

In many California communities, officials have made it possible for residents to donate living Christmas trees to the city after December 25th. The trees are ultimately planted on schoolgrounds, in parks or other municipal areas. This concept got its start in Fremont, several years ago. In metropolitan areas such as Los Angeles and San Diego, groups are now encouraging residents to enjoy a living Christmas tree, then contribute and dedicate the tree to "community service."

As a result of residents' donations, trees have beautiful un-landscaped areas; fire-devastated mountain areas have been reforested and many community areas have been transfered from eyesores into sources of beauty and pride.

Nurseries offer a wide range of living Christmas trees. The selections include the best varieties for local conditions, and your nurseryman can provide information on how to care for your living Christmas tree indoors. And, if you wish to plant the tree in the landscape, after Christmas, he can outline simple planting instructions.

If you wish to donate a living Christmas tree, a suggestion would be to check with your local parks and recreation department to see if arrangements can be made. Remember, whether your living Christmas tree is a family affair, or you desire to dedicate it to "community service," it does enhance the appearance and quality of our environment. A living Christmas tree is a gift to Earth.

Gardener's Checklist

1. Plant daphne now for bloom in late January.
2. Cool-season vegetables can be planted now. These perennial vegetables such as artichokes, asparagus and rhubarb can be planted, also.
3. Select blooming camellias this month. You can extend the camellia season from fall to spring by buying different camellias when they come into bloom in nurseries.
4. Annuals such as pansies, violas, and calendulas should be set out to brighten the winter garden.
5. Remember that rains can't reach plants growing next to the house under wide overhangs. Don't let them dry out.

Progress-Bulletin Home and Garden

Not too late to put spring bulbs in ground

Even though December is here, this is an excellent time to plant spring-flowering bulbs. Most nurseries still have a good assortment of varieties—such favorites as tulips, hyacinths, daffodils and the like—and shipments of hybrid lilies are just arriving.

In most areas of the Golden State, the soil is still easy to work. The days are cooler and shorter, less watering and maintenance are required. For those who feel it is too late to plant, the conditions are favorable, and the varieties available to plant now should clearly reflect that it isn't late at all.

You may find nurseries short in some colors of the standard varieties of hyacinths and tulips, but by massing the colors you can achieve spectacular effects in the cool season garden. Many of the large, spectacular daffodils are still available. The colors include the popular yellow and golden shades, as well as white, creams, and bicolors. All daffodils aren't trumpet-types. Shop for the singles, doubles, Poet-types and other flower forms that will add a whole new dimension to the garden.

Don't overlook the color opportunities offered by the so-called baby bulbs. Crocus, snowflakes, sparaxis, Ixia, plus Dutch Iris, grape hyacinths and scilla are included in this large category. If you're not familiar with the floral beauty produced by these, now is an excellent time to become acquainted.

131 children learn growing has rewards

UPLAND — From March through the first of this month, Pomona Valley children participated in a contest that tried their youthful patience as much as their gardening skills in a vegetable growing contest at the Mt. Fuji Garden Center, 1555 W. Foothill Blvd.

Officials at the nursery last week announced the winners and on Dec. 8 at 1 p.m. will present trophies and medals to the budding gardeners. The ceremony will take place during a free demonstration on how to make dish gardens, terraria, and instant bonsai at the nursery.

Kids from 7 to 13 participated in the contest. They were given a choice of seeds, sunflower, zuccini squash, or pumpkin, when they registered. Each child was required to care for the plants at least 50 per cent of the time, and was judged on the size of the vegetables.

In zuccini, first place grower was Stephen Sargent, 9, 592 Juniper St., Upland. His squash was 21½ inches long by 14½ inches around. Victor Calagna, 9, 1949 Academy Court, Claremont, was second with a vegetable 17¾ inches long and 13½ inches around, while third place honors went to John Collins, 9, 4324 Alamitos, Montclair, with produce measuring 17¾ inches by 10¾ inches.

Darrell Mallory, 10, 940 W. 17th St., Upland, was the sole winner listed in the pumpkin category with produce 44¼ inches in girth.

Sunflower-grower Susie Calagna, 7, 1949 Academy Court, Claremont, grew a first-prize plant of 12 inches' diameter; Steve Lewis, 11, 1741 Vallejo, Upland, was second with an 11½-inch flower; and Mary Jane Lowe, 1364 W. 11th St., Upland, nailed third place with an 11-inch flower.

Mt. Fuji spokesmen said that 131 children completed "Due to the favorable participation, we will make this an annual event at Mt. Fuji Garden Center," the firm reports.

Organic gardeners slate moon planting program

POMONA — The public is invited to attend a meeting of the Pomona Valley Organic Garden Club Tuesday, Dec. 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the City Council Chambers, 505 S. Garey.

Aarimander Singh of the 3HO Foundation will detail the theory of "Moon Planting." He writes a garden column titled, "Moon Seed."

The moon phase rules of gardening call for planting garden crops at certain times, such as in "waxing" and "waning" periods. A number of gardeners follow the system, annually attributing their success to the theory.

City will apply for federal grant

Details of nutrition plan for old revealed

POMONA — If an application for a federal grant is approved, this city will participate for one year in the national Nutrition Program for the Elderly and open in city hall a new office on senior citizens' affairs.

According to a final application approved by the City Council, total cost of the program from Feb. 1, 1974, to Jan. 31, 1975, would be $233,000, with federal funds paying for most of the costs. The city's hard cash contribtuion would be $5,700.

The proposal calls for the serving of hot meals at six city locations five days a week to eligible participants 60 and over and their spouses, regardless of age.

Asst. City Administrator Joseph Korpsak said the meals would provide the participants with at least one-third of their recommended dietary requirements as specified by the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Academy of Sciences, National Research Council.

The application cites 1970 census figures showing that there are about 1,500 senior citizens at the poverty level living in Pomona.

Part of the project involves the opening of an office that would disseminate information on programs for the elderly.

"As this proposed nutrition-meals project is not intended to be a hand-out or charity endeavor, participants shall have the opportunity to make a 50 cents or less voluntary contribution for each meal," said Korpsak.

"Collection of these contributions will be conveyed in a sealed, non-see-through envelope which when turned in will contain either coin, food stamps, or nothing at all," Korpsak expalined.

He said the contract for the preparation, delivery and serving of the project meals would be awarded on a competitive bid basis.

Once the project gets started, Korpsak continued, its success would be evaluated and reviewed on an on-going basis by a Senior Citizen Project Council to be appointed by the City Council.

Staffing for the project would include one director, one senior stenographer-clerk, six half-time community workers, two to five social services coordinators plus volunteers.

"Preference for personnel to be hired for this project will be given to persons aged 60 or over and any persons so employed who are on Social Security will not be paid more than $2,400, if they desire, in order that their allowable income will not affect their Social Security benefits," said Korpsak.

The application is being filed under the provisions of the Older Americans Act.

Aim is to spot hazardous products quickly

INJURY REPORTING SYSTEM

Mrs. Mary Morrison, left, and Mrs. Dorothy Jamison report product-related injuries from their teletype station in Pomona Valley Community Hospital's emergency department. PVCH participates in the National Electronic Injury Surveillance System, a reporting network aimed at product safety.

POMONA — A child is hurt playing with a poorly constructed toy. A man suffers an injury because of a faulty ladder. A housewife cuts herself using a defective household utensil.

Such accidents occur frequently to persons of all ages.

In an effort to reduce these accidental injuries, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission has established the National Electronic Injury Surveillance System (NEISS). Hidden hazards are its targets.

Among the 100 hospitals across the country using the national injury reporting network is the Pomona Valley Community Hospital. It is the only hospital in the area participating in the network.

PVCH was selected to take part in the network because it treats a large volume of emergency patients, close to 40,000 a year.

Every night, Mary Morrison, head clerk of the emergency department, reports all product-related injuries treated at the hospital that day using code and sending the information over teletype.

Between midnight and 3 a.m. at hours of low telephone traffic, a computer in Washington calls the terminal to collect the data and sort it for presentation to NEISS the following morning.

Cases are analyzed and if a trend is established pointing to the safety of a specific product a field investigation is launched. It can result in a product being modified or banned.

"What's hurting people — that's what we want to find out," Mrs. Morrison said. "The monitoring system is designed to keep track of what's on the market and identify products that are causing either a lot of injuries or particularly severe ones."

More specifically, here's how the system works:

A housewife cuts three fingers on an electric mixer. She is driven to the emergency department. The injury proves minimal and she is allowed to return home after treatment.

But when her injury is reported that night, it happens to match up with another woman in another city using the same brand food mixer who incurred a severe finger laceration in which a tendon was cut.

Within 24 hours the manufacturer is contacted, the mixer is examined and it is determined that the location of the on-off switch, immediately beneath the operator's thumb, made accidental startup easy when the housewife wasn't prepared for it.

If the design of the product is not at fault, it may be necessary to start an educational campaign for consumers.

Injury accidents involving only automobiles are not included in the reporting. But minibikes, motor scooters and bicycles loom large in the injury picture. Industrial accidents are not reported.

But all other product-related injuries are reported including the youngster who cuts himself on a pop bottle. At Pomona Valley, about half of all emergencies involve products, according to Mrs. Morrison.

The NEISS analyses are also provided to the manufacturers and serve as an incentive to the industry for improving product safety. The information is also used to demonstrate the need for federal regulation. Such national reporting of babies getting their heads stuck in between the bars of a crib has led to new safety standards for cribs.

As evidence of the program's value, Mrs. Morrison cites this example:

NEISS was receiving a number of reports of finger lacerations on the left hand involving a certain make of electric hedge clippers. Upon investigation, it was discovered that the clippers, which were especially light weight for easier handling, were in fact too light weight.

The overzealous gardener was able to hold them with one hand while holding back the hedge with the other. Thus the laceration of the left fingers. When this was discovered, the Product Safety Commission approached the manufacturer who now has redesigned the clippers so that it takes both hands to use them.

Ann Davis to appear in yule parade

POMONA — Ann B. Davis, the actress who plays Alice on the TV show "The Brady Bunch," will appear as a star celebrity in the 21st annual Pomona Christmas parade Dec. 8.

The parade will begin at 6 p.m. and proceed east along Holt Avenue from Hamilton Boulevard to Palomares Street.

It is coordinated by the Pomona Jaycees under the supervision of parade chairman Sam Russo. Russo has promised a short parade, high in quality and entertainment value.

Miss Davis, popular with children, began her acting career at the age of 5 when she and her twin sister earned money doing a puppet show.

She got her big break when she was cast as the secretary Shultzy on the old "Bob Cummings Show." Now, as Alice, she is in her fifth season with "The Brady Bunch."

Miss Davis has appeared on Broadway, in numerous movies and since 1958 has not missed one season of summer stock.

She likes swimming, gardening and repairing things "outside my house." She lives in a ranch house in San Fernando Valley.

Miss Davis is superstitious and so she avoids horoscopes.

Her cooking on "The Brady Bunch" is a put-on. "I can read a cookbook as well as the next person, but for some reason, strange things always seem to happen between the recipe and the finished product," she said.

City to train Cal Poly road maintenance crew

POMONA — Up to four Cal Poly employes will receive training in street and road maintenance under the direction of city street department personnel according to an agreement unanimously approved by the City Council.

Councilman Charles W. Bader said he would like to see similar programs started with other colleges in the area.

University employes will work in the city street department to receive practical experience in street and road paving and patching.

The program will permit the university employes to learn street repair work and at the same time assist the city in its street and road repair program.

The university "proposed to undertake a plan to provide for their own street and parking lot maintenance and, in order to provide for a good program, has asked the city to assist in the training of individuals they have hired for this particular program," explained Public Works Director Ronald Kranzer.

Panel on aging to mull nutrition plan

POMONA — The Pomona Valley Commission on Aging will hold a public meeting Monday at 9:30 a.m. at 300 Pomona Mall West.

Nelson Lortie will speak in the nutrition program being sponsored by the city.

PVC to spend $1 million on farm market addition

POMONA — A 100,000-square-foot farmer's market with specialty foods, produce and arts and crafts in a split-level setting is being planned at Pomona Valley Center (PVC).

The market will be situated near the center of the mall in an already enclosed structure.

The $1 million remodeling project will see extensive use of woods and landscaping and will include sit-down and take-out eating places.

Work on the market is scheduled to begin next spring, according to Craig Nelson, manager and leasing agent for the 50-acre center situated south of Holt Avenue and east of East End Avenue.

In addition, Nelson said, the center is to be renamed.

"Within a few months we will be inviting the community to participate in the selection of a new name," he said.

Pictures of the market remodeling project will be posted. Viewers will be asked to submit names for the center which will incorporate the total facility, he said.

Names suggested will be judged by members of the Pomona Valley Center's Merchant's Association. The winning name will be announced next year.

Christmas season 1974 is the target date for completion of the farmer's market. Nelson calls it Phase 1 of the total redevelopment planned for the center.

Phase 2 calls for the complete enclosure of the mall, a project announced by center officials last March.

Phase 2 is being designed by architects Burke, Kober and Nicolais of Los Angeles. Plans for the market are being developed by Bodrell, Joer'Dan Smith and Associates, Inc., Los Angeles, designer of South Coast Village in Costa Mesa.

Nelson said that as the market is completed and new merchants move in they will be required to have nonelectrical signs not only to conserve energy but also to upgrade the appearance of the center.

"Right now we're 16 per cent leased on the project," said Nelson.

Pomona Valley Center Associates, a group of businessmen from Salt Lake City, Utah, purchased PVC from John S. Griffith Co., Irvine, a year ago. Griffith had owned it since it opened in 1955.

"We have changed 10 per cent of our tenants in the past year and brought in several new merchants," said Nelson. "When remodeling is complete we will have space for 130 merchants.

"We plan to continue to make changes, to upgrade the center. We want to create a blend of conventional and nonconventional shopping facilities which will be unique and different."

Meat market staying open so patrons have no beef

I was very sorry to learn on Nov. 10 that the meat market I have been patronizing more than eight years will be forced to go out of business after the first of the year.

The reason is that the health department has made 22 demands to be met within 90 days. Most of the demands entail structural changes which would be impossible to complete in that length of time.

The market has consistently offered high quality and excellent service to many long time and well satisfied customers.

Perhaps Action Line can investigate this bureaucratic action. —Mrs. G. C., Pomona.

We wrote to and talked with Kenneth Siemens, director of environmental services of the Los Angeles County Health Department.

He said things weren't as bad as you represented them, that most of the requirements were operational rather than structural.

The meat market operator can do most of the things he is being asked to do in compliance with the new Retail Food Marketing Law, according to Siemens.

Unfortunately, the structural demands are presenting a problem because the market operator doesn't own the building. The environmental services director says the 90-day limit is flexible if there is enough evidence of planning for the corrections.

He said the market certainly was popular. Even a secretary in his office took him to task for this application of the new law.

A few days later, the market operator said he felt the problem resulted from trying to apply new construction standards to an old building.

The most difficult requirement to meet has been changed, he said, and he will be able to stay in business.

My wife has filed a Medicare claim through an insurance company.

Although the medical clinic where she was treated has repeatedly sent the company complete billings and her medical history, the company insists it cannot find any record of this correspondence. The company insists that she re-submit all the voluminous data, involving still more work for the doctor's busy staff.

We were married a year ago. It may be the name change that is confusing the comapny.

I have paid by checks to date the sum of $261 for medical services alone with still more bills in the offing.

This account dates from Jan. 23 despite the fact that we both have Medicare deductions taken from our small pensions each month. Please help us. — F. S., Pomona.

We wrote to the insurance company. You have received a check for $145, the amount Medicare approved for payment.

We have dogs in our area that bark all night. One starts and pretty soon we have a whole neighborhood of barking dogs.

Don't their owners hear them at all? People a block away can.

Is there anything that can be done about this? I don't want to call the police. —Mrs. G. B., Claremont.

Get in touch with the Humane Society of Pomona Valley, Inc., and a unit will contact the owners of the dogs.

The best procedure is to go to the office and make a written complaint. Your name will be kept quiet and so will the dogs, we hope.

Cranston aide sees value in Pomona visit

POMONA — A U.S. senator's aide said today he believed his visit here earlier in the week would prove to be beneficial to both city government and citizens.

Such visits are "always worthwhile", said Gerald Yoachum, aide to Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif.

Yoachum met Monday morning with Mayor Ray. J. Lepire and City Administrator Jerrold Gonce and in the afternoon held open house for citizens in the City Council Chambers.

Yoachum said he talked with about 13 citizens at the open house about various problems with federal agencies.

He said most of the problems brought up dealt with Social Security and Veterans Administration programs.

City attorneys' pictures sought for collection

POMONA — A collection of photographic portraits of all men who served as city attorney since the city's incorporation in 1888 is being put together by the city attorney's office for public display.

Public assistance is being sought in locating some photographs needed to make the collection complete.

Photographs needed are those of Thomas E. Guerin (1931), Walter Guerin (1939 and 1943), Turner M. Garr (1939), Charles R. Stead (1932 and 1939), and Leonard Shelton (1946).

Persons able to provide helpful information may telephone the city attorney's office at 620-2071.

PVCH blood plan serves as model

Amid all the talk about shortages we are reminded of the national shortage of blood for lifesaving transfusions. It's a problem in many communities in Southern California. Blood from voluntary donors meets only 70 per cent of the need in Los Angeles and Orange counties.

The balance comes from commercial blood. But many donors who sell their blood are often residents of skid row or are unhealthy. The State Senate Health Committee recently was told that blood from paid donors is many times more likely to carry hepatitis than blood from volunteers.

But while headlines proclaim "Southland Hospital Desperate for Blood," this community continues to benefit from a unique program at Pomona Valley Community Hospital which meets the need with blood exclusively from voluntary sources.

In medical and Red Cross circles, the so-called Pomona Plan refers to the blood replenishment program which PVCH pioneered almost 15 years ago. That hospital continues to use 100 per cent Red Cross blood obtained from voluntary donors.

The blood replenishment program operated by the Women's Auxiliary was the pilot program for the county and it has since been adopted in many comparable communities . The plan involves auxiliary volunteers, patients and their families in a program to replace all blood used in transfusions at the hospital.

Officials of the hospital and its auxiliary recently were cited by the Red Cross for 103 per cent replacement of blood used during the past fiscal year. And Pomona Valley has the longest record in the county for 100 per cent replacement.

It is welcome news that this effort in our community has been sustained and has served as a model for others.

A little less oil goes a long way

Most of us by this time have begun to realize the width of the energy crisis — the extent of shortages and threatened shortages of gasoline and diesel fuel for transportation, of heating oil and gas and of the petroleum products that literally lubricate the massive machinery of the national economy.

What many of us don't yet appreciate is the depth of the energy crisis — the second-level and third-level effects, which ultimately translate into whether or not thousands of people are going to have jobs in the future.

For instance, among the first to feel cutbacks in petroleum supplies are the petrochemical producers, who make up a third of the U.S. chemical industry.

A recent study by the Arthur B. Little research organization projected that a 15 per cent reduction in petrochemical output would result in the loss of as many as 1.6 million American jobs and a loss in domestic production value in excess of $65 billion.

An immediate ripple effect would be seen in the plastics industry, which makes up a quarter of the petrochemical industry.

Though plastics account for less than one-and-a-half per cent of total domestic oil and gas usage, the Arthur D. Little study shows that a 15 per cent cutback in petrochemical feedstocks, such as propane gas, reaching plastics producers alone would result in layoffs of more than 560,000 workers and a domestic production value loss of about $23 billion.

The ripple effect would continue through other industries which utilize plastics — building and construction, packaging, automotive and transportation, electrical and electronics, furniture, housewares and appliances, to name just some of them.

Throwing wolves to the dogs

The San Joaquin County chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW) reports that feminists in Stockton have resurrected the Roman goddess Diana in the form of an award presented to members of the community "who have made significant contributions to the quest for women's equality."

Why Diana? Because, the California feminists say, the Roman goddess of the hunt stood for many of the same principles as feminists today. Woe be it to any man who threatened harm to any of the maidens under her protection, or looked upon the goddess as nothing but a "sex object."

Myth buffs will recall what Diana did to one young man who foolishly attempted to submit her to — as they (not the Romans) used to call — "a fate worse than death." She turned him into a stag, whereupon he was torn to pieces by his own hunting dogs.

That was the first stag show, and if any of you male chauvinist pigs think that's funny, it just indicates how much you have to learn.

Maritime head passes hat for Nixon

WASHINGTON — Confidential Senate Watergate documents show that salty-tongued Federal Maritime Chairwoman Helen Bentley collected at least $20,000 in donations for the Nixon campaign from the shipping industry she is supposed to regulate.

The documents describe Mrs. Bentley's dealings with the veteran shipper, Captain Leo Berger, a partner in Avon steamships of Lake Success, Long Island. Both were interviewed by committee investigators in recent weeks.

A summary of Ms. Bentley's brief interview with committee sleuth William Mayton reports: "He asked her a few times in many different ways if she ever solicited money for the 1972 campaign and she always responded negatively."

When Berger was cross-examined, however, he confessed that he and his partner, Peter Constas, gave "$20,000 in cash to Ms. Bentley which she gave to Stans." Former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans, was President Nixon's chief fund raiser and is now under criminal indictment in the campaign contributions case of financier Robert Vesco.

The summary quotes Ms. Bentley as telling the Senate Watergate staff that "the Avon Shipping Company had no business before her" when she passed the campaign hat. "They gave her the money because they knew that she was a Republican," and they wanted the money, according to the summary of her testimony, "to go to the GOP."

The truth is that Avon, like most shipping companies, did have business before the Federal Maritime Commission. Such firms must get certification from the commission, under Ms. Bentley, that they have the financial means to pay for cleaning up any oil spills.

We reached Ms. Bentley, who explained yeastily that she had told the committee staff about the certification question herself and could not understand why it was left out of the summary of her interview.

At Avon, Captain Berger defended the chairwoman, saying there had been no solicitation. His campaign contribution, he said, "was voluntary." Then he added brusquely: "I said everything I'm going to say before the committee. Goodnight."

Despite the gruff sea captain's modesty about his contributions, our investigation backs up the Watergate committee's finding. The records of secret cash contributions to the Nixon campaign show a "Captain Leo Berger" and "Peter Constas," both listed at Avon's Lake Success address, each gave $10,000.

FOOTHOTE: In September 1970, we reported how Ms. Bentley was asked by then Vice President Spiro Agnew to pass the hat in shipping circles for an Agnew crony running for governor of Maryland. Dutifully, she contacted about 10 "top echleon shipping executives," she admitted.

INTELLIGENCE DIGEST: Despite official denials, U.S. intelligence agencies have established that the Soviets have delivered nuclear warheads to Egypt. Apparently, the warheads haven't been turned over to the Egyptians but are kept under the control of a special Soviet nuclear unit. . .Intelligence reports warn that the Kremlin has been pressuring the Arab nations to nationalize western oil holdings. The reports suggest that the Soviets may hope to start tapping the Arab oil fields for themselves, because their own oil fields in rugged Siberia are becoming increasingly difficult to develop . . . Diplomatic reports indicate that the NATO allies may be closing ranks after their initial shock over the Arab oil embargo. At first, the NATO partners began scrambling for themselves for vital oil supplies. But allied leaders, apparently, have suddenly been jolted into recognizing the danger of dividing the West. Quiet new moves have been made to restore more consultation and cooperation.

One untelligence report tells of an exchange between the cease-fire negotiators, Israel's Maj. Gen. Ahron Yariv and Egypt's Lt. Gen. Mohamed Gamasi. Yariv asked whether they should turn the negotiations over to civilians. Gamasi readily agreed. "Tomorrow," he said, "let us return in civilian clothes". . . A State Department telegram, intended for official eyes only, reveals how the United States has been aiding the nation that has cut off our oil. The United States has established a military logistical support system for Saudi Arabia.

The gallant self-employed

The 5 per cent of American workers who are not working are prominently mentioned and appropriately mourned every month. But what about the unemployed who dare to hire themselves—go to work for themselves—at immense risk to themselves?

What about the deliberately daring "self-employed?" The Meridian (Miss.) Star did a county-wide nose-count recently and discovered that 1,788 residents of that county have created their own jobs.

Many gave up jobs in which they had a good income and a reasonable degree of security and "fringe benefits" and took what they'd saved and what they could borrow and plunged in over their heads in the ice-water sea of commerce and industry.

Because of inadequate financing or insufficient know-how, many failed. Nationally, Dun and Bradstreet says 10,000 to 15,000 fold every year.

Yet enough don't so that 7.7 per cent of all America's workers are self-employed. Lauderdale County, Miss. — with 7.9 per cent self-employed—is a microcosm of that larger world of storekeepers, barbers, farmers, gas station operators, gift shop proprietors and the like.

The self-employed are gallant men and women who dare to do it themselves. Each year, despite known difficulties and unknown pitfalls, thousands more strike out on their own.

Half-a-million new businesses are born every year. And, though the hazards are so great that the odds are against any new business lasting more than three years, each new generation produces more than enough entrepreneurs who are willing and some who are able.

And the some who survive contribute to the goods, services and jobs from which we more timid weekly workers benefit. The Harveys have participated in the pioneer beginnings of a new community in Arizona.

As all moderate climates do, that one attracts a wide spectrum of outsiders electing to build a business somewhere beautiful and a generous number of restless retirees seeking to start over. Most figure any small retail shop will sustain them. But three candleshops in one block won't.

On that frontier only one in ten businesses survives five years yet the "ones" which do are now a nucleus for an increasingly stable economy and orderly growth.

Suffocating government paperwork has forced many small businesses into the arms of a conglomerate and the independent proprietor's independence is no more.

If this latter factor should eventually foreclose on the small shop owners as it has foreclosed on the operators of small farms, we may then become a nation of industrial dinosaurs. Dinosaurs are more "efficient"—but they are people-eaters.

Solar energy

Let's forget nuclear energy as a source of energy. It is potentially frightfully dangerous and one explosion or accident with it might make it unlawful to use.

Let's concentrate, instead, on using solar power to produce steam to produce energy. Several states are already experimenting with solar energy.

I believe Minnesota or Michigan, and Arizona or New Mexico are experimenting actively with these projects, and I believe that the day of oil for heating and running our cars is rapidly coming to a close.

So let's forget our love affair with fossil fuels, and instead pour our resources into developing solar energy. I foresee the day when there will be no internal combusion engines on the road, but electric cars only with stations along the freeways which will allow the long distance traveler a place to recharge his battery. If this is accomplished I hope to see the milky way return to our California skies and to be visible to the naked eye. —Anna Grace Seyler, La Verne.

Keep oil flowing

Regarding the shortage of gas, and the oil boycott. I believe it could be solved at once, if we could think of our own needs first for a change and not make the American people freeze this winter and not use gas for our cars, give up our heat and light, just because Israel wants to keep the land taken from the Arabs in two wars.

We didn't let Hitler or Japan or North Vietnam get away with it. Only Russia has been able to hold and occupy stolen land. Why can Israel do what we condemn in other nations? I believe that Israel should be guaranteed protection of the land given her for a nation, but not any ideas for a takeover to expand her territory, like Japan and Hitler did.

I was glad to see a Jewish homeland and support them, but not when I have to give up our necessities and comfort, just for needless pressure for more land. If we call for a just peace and really mean it, I am sure we will have no oil boycott and the peace of the future will be more secure if there is no smoldering hate by the Arabs over occupied land.

I say keep the oil flowing to America until we can find our own supply adequate. Otherwise, we will lose more than Israel. — H.P. St. Charles, Pomona.

Gossip for today

There's nothing like a feeling of superiority to make life really seem worth while. And so I have the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety to thank for making it possible for me to weather that dark hour of despair when a Motor Vehicle Department examiner insisted I take a second written examination before being eligible for a driver's license.

It was then that an Insurance Institute report made me realize that all was not lost and that possibly I was still not beyond redemption. In fact it convinced me I might even consider myself a superior being. —The report stated that racing car drivers have more accidents and get more speeding tickets than ordinary mortals.

INSIDE REPORT

Ebb tide at the White House

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — The sharp decline in morale and confidence during the week at the White House can be traced to the remarkable press briefing conducted by assistant press secretary Gerald Warren on Monday and what lay behind it.

Knowing that White House reporters would swoop down with hardeyed questions about the obliterated 18-minute presidential conversation on Watergate, Warren spent that morning in extreme agitation. What in the world, Warren asked his fellow aides, could he possibly tell the press?

But by the time the newsmen gathered to ask questions, all indecision by Warren had disappeared. Asked to comment on the missing 18 minutes, Warren brushed it off with the comment that "it would be unwise for me to discuss it from here because it will be thoroughly developed in open court." He later launched an inexplicable attack on special prosecutor Leon Jaworski for allegedly leaking information to the press.

Political insiders at the White House regarded these answers as agonizingly ill-advised. They also knew immediately that, though these strange comments came from the mouth of Gerry Warren, they were the words of press secretary Ron Ziegler.

"Gerry doesn't say boo without getting the sign from Ron," one senior aide told us. What makes this so ominous is the obvious source of Ziegler's inspiration: only Ziegler and chief of staff Alexander Haig have continuous and intimate access to President Nixon.

White House gloom

There is, then, a double-barrelled charge of gloom at the White House this week. The chilling news of the obliterated 18 minutes has badly undercut Mr. Nixon's "Operation Candor," the newest attempt to restore his credibility and revive the spirits of his supporters. According to one top Nixon lieutenant famed for remorseless optimism, the incident negated at least two-thirds of "Operation Candor."

Equally ominous, the Warren performance helped confirm that Mr. Nixon still runs the domestic and political operations of the U.S. government through two men. "You couldn't do that effectively, even if they were Jesus Christ and Moses," an angry aide told us. Ziegler and Haig are considerably less.

Despite all the post-Watergate propaganda about a new and open White House, many aides believe access to the President is even more constricted—by Mr. Nixon's own choice—than in the universally damned days of H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman. Some aides who were able to see Mr. Nixon by asking Haldeman now complain they only see the President when he calls them in.

The fact that an isolated Mr. Nixon relies on Ziegler as one of his two confidants is particularly unnerving to lieutenants, who have minimum high regard for Ziegler's political acumen. Ziegler is not one to rescue the President from his own prejudices, so his instructions to Warren for the daily briefing undoubtedly reflect Mr. Nixon's own views far too accurately.

Intemperate reaction

A case in point is the intemperate White House reaction to the controversial reporting of the presidential "slapping" incident at Disney World. Cooler heads on the White House staff would have insisted that Mr. Nixon let the bizarre matter die a quiet, unmourned death. But Ziegler passed the full measure of the President's fury to the outer world — to no advantage.

On Monday morning, those same cooler heads would have urged the President to instruct Warren to express presidential regret over the missing 18 minutes and the actions of his secretary, Rose Mary Woods, since he certainly will have to take a stand sooner or later. They also would have advised against an attack on Jaworski, unfair in essence anyway, that predictably angered the special prosecutor but gained nothing for the White House. Unlike Ziegler, these cooler heads had no presidential access.

Haig is vastly more admired than Ziegler by his White House colleagues for intelligence, experience and integrity. But he also is seen as politically untutored — and hence politically inept. "The trouble is," one Nixon lieutenant said, "Al doesn't know it."

Certainly, Haig must shoulder much of the blame for the debasing White House attacks on former Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson and his role in the firing of Archibald Cox. Other aides believe Haig, overburdened by Mr. Nixon's reliance on him, has unwisely allocated far too much time defending himself in the Cox-Richardson drama when he would have done better to forget the entire business.

Striving to maintain their loyalty to Mr. Nixon, his aides tend to blame Ziegler and, to a much lesser extent, Haig for political incompetence as the source of the President's endless crises. However, the harsher truth is less devious. The overburdening of a few trusted aides, self-isolation and consistently poor political judgment are the ineradicable trademarks of Richard M. Nixon. Instead of moderating these characteristics Watergate seems to have deepened them.

Public hearing coming up

Plan to shape Walnut future ready

By LANGE WINCKLER
P-B Staff Writer

WALNUT — Citizens will have a word on the future of their city next Wednesday in a public hearing on the general plan's proposed Environmental Resources Management Element (ERME).

Planning commissioners, meeting at 7:30 p.m. in city hall, will wait for public comments before taking final action on the massive document. Once they approve the ERME, as expected, it proceeds to council review for action prior to a Jan. 1 state deadline.

Four combined sections of the city's general plan are covered in the 138 pages of text, maps and tables comprising the ERME. Under its umbrella are programs designed to acquire hundreds of acres of land for parks and open space, outlines of policies which will dictate the size, location and appearance of future streets, housing developments, commercial activities, and recreation areas.

Included in the program's considerations are future needs of teen-agers, students in the Walnut Valley Unified School District, homeowners, builders, equestrians, hikers, bicyclists, county, state, and federal interests—a cross-section of every group or type of person in the community.

ERME lists data, suggested policies and action programs for its four parts—conservation, recreation, scenic highways, and open space portions of the general plan.

Although policies are the goal of ERME, its meat is contained in action programs. City officials have the right to let events remain at the status quo or implement the policies with legal regulations set up to mandate a course of action and other steps taken to acquire lands the city will need.

Charles Stapleton, a consultant with Lampman and Associates, developed the ERME draft under contract with the city. He offered sugestions to make the policies effective, including:

—Special zoning to protect designated open space areas or places of natural beuty.

—Use of the residential planned development ordinance (RPD) which has suffered constant citizen opposition in the past. Stapleton suggested the RPD zone would be most effective in areas with certain slope and soil characteristics, or with special attractive qualities, that should be kept as undeveloped open space.

—A special hillside development ordinance to regulate types of structures, grading activity, etc., on hillsides.

—A subdivision ordinance affecting types of subdivisions possible in the city.

—A grading ordinance to complement the hillside ordinance.

—Six methods to acquire property, six other methods to work out cooperative arrangements with private interests to acquire or control land uses, three state programs for obtaining open space, and four federal programs for the purchase of park lands.

—A method for new residents buying homes in the city to contribute to the purchase of 347 acres of land between 1974 and 2024, through a fee system that would raise $2,780,100. The acreage estimated was severely qualified, however, and could either rise or fall according to city actions and economic situations.

—Setting of standards of design for riding and hiking trails, and for appearances of streets, street fixtures, fences, walls, and so forth.

—Special treatment of water basins, and of "natural amenities."

Once the public is offered an opportunity to respond to the ERME draft, planners are expected to take their final action. No firm date has been yet determined for City Council action on the proposal.

Conflict of interest case goes unresolved

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — Rowland school board, unable to get a clear ruling from county counsel's office on a conflict-of-interest charge made against board president Phil Anderson, will seek an opinion from the state attorney general.

The board will channel its request through Assemblyman Joseph B. Montoya, D-50th Dist., who will be asked to contact Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger.

A "rather quick response" is expected, Anderson said.

The conflict of interest charge deals with Anderson's having sold insurance policies to district employes. He waived his rights to an executive session and asked for complete disclosure at Tuesday's public hearing on the matter.

Anderson read a statement, declaring himself to be a licensed California insurance agent. He said the charge challenges not only his freedom to earn a living but the rights of every holder of public office.

The opinion of county counsel was presented by Sanford Smith and, according to Anderson, Smith did not make a clear ruling or answer questions Anderson had asked.

"I publicly welcome the decision that the matter go to the state attorney general," said Anderson. "In fact, I urge that the county counsel's opinion and my remarks and questions be submitted to his office as rapidly as possible."

Anderson said he had been asked by the county counsel's office to refrain from writing policies on district employes and to divest himself of policies now held on district employes.

"How can I possibly comply?" he asked. He said he had five district employes insured, the superintendent, another administrator, two teachers and an office worker. "My total yearly compensation, including the administrators, is approximately $224.87 from these policies," he said.

Anderson said he had "mixed emotions" over what Smith had said at the meeting.

"For one thing, his opinion stated I can be subjected to imprisonment, penalties, fines, employment contracts voided and removal from office should a lawsuit establish that a conflict of interest does exist. Or it says I can resign. The conclusion, ridiculous as it is and without court precedent, has made me consider resignation very seriously.

"But I don't walk away or run from a fight. I will not resign."

Y appealing to residents to help in all-year paper drive

DIAMOND BAR — The Diamond Bar-Walnut YMCA is asking area residents to save old newspapers for its year-end paper drive.

Residents are asked to deliver their papers to the Y at 400 S. Brea Canyon Road in 12-to 18-inch stacks. The Y will provide twine for tying bundles.

On Saturday, the YMCA boys basketball tournaments will begin at Lorbeer Junior High School and Walnut High School.

Members of the Y's Crooked Valley Nation of Indian Guides will hold their second annual father and son bowling tournament Sunday at Pom Lanes in Pomona.

On Dec. 9, the Crooked Valley Nation will hold boat races and a family picnic at the Whittier Narrows Recreation Area in Whittier.

YMCA staff members have scheduled a number of Christmas activities. These include a Christmas Adventure Club Dec. 20-22 for boys and girls 6 to 12 and a Christmas mountain snow camp Dec. 26-28 for children 8 to 14, with college-age leaders.

The Y's Men Club will open their Christmas tree lot Dec. 7, behind Mr. Up Restaurant, across the street from the Straw Hat Pizza Restaurant.

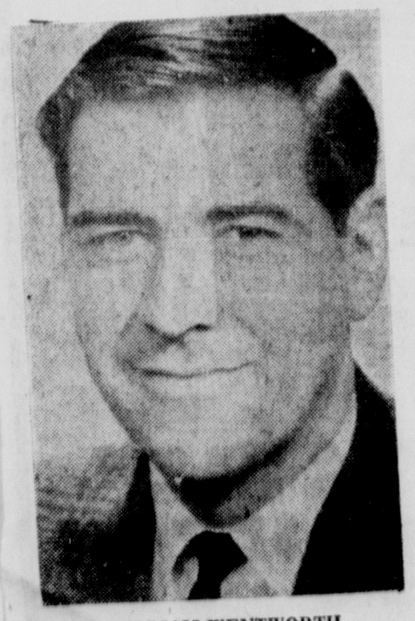
Laughter, Wentworth running again

RICHARD LAUGHTER



WILLIAM WENTWORTH

WALNUT — Mayor Richard Laughter and Councilman William Wentworth have announced they will seek re-election next year, both to their second four-year terms.

According to new state law, municipal elections will be held the first Tuesday after the first Monday in March — which in 1974 is March 5, a month earlier than past city elections were held.

All candidates for office must file nomination papers with City Clerk and Manager Andy Lazzaretto between Dec. 6 and 28.

In announcing their candidacies neither Laughter nor Wentworth was aware of any other candidates for the council posts. Three other positions will be up for re-election in March of 1976.

Laughter and Wentworth each agreed that continuity on the City Council is important to the City of Walnut. Wentworth noted that the council turned over entirely during his term in office, saying he felt that some actions facing the council in the past two years were hampered by a lack of more experienced councilmen.

During his term, said Laughter, the city has had five mayors and "five or six" new councilmen on the five-member body. "It has been a trying experience," he related. "This council has now been together for two years, and we are just now beginning to work together as an effective body for the city."

Wentworth said he did not want to look over his shoulder, however, because "more important than what has happened in the past is what is coming in the future." He cited the city's Environmental Resources Management Element (ERME) as a principal project.

Both men said measures needed to put ERME into effect are as important, or more important, than the policy alone. Its widest impact will involve acquisition or control of lands for open space and park areas, which both men agreed will be costly and difficult.

A central part of the ERME park program is the Winnett Ranch, an 80-acre spread in central Walnut under consideration as a park. City officials have been reviewing the possibility of a $700,000 — or more — bond election to purchase and upgrade the property.

Both Laughter and Wentworth expressed caution about the plan, saying they feel the city must be careful in approaching voters for the funds. Wentworth, in remarking "there are several ways to buy the place," said, "I wouldn't want to commit the city to that large an expense without going to a vote on it."

Both men also responded to queries about future housing in the city and commercial development. They indicated housing may slow down or change in character as a result of the fuel shortage, while future commercial development — industrial and shopping — must conform to city plans and needs.

Wentworth, mayor from late 1971 through early this year, served for two years on the Planning Commission before his election to the council in 1970. Not long after he was elected, a successful drive to take a residential planned development ordinance from the books brought his resignation "for personal reasons." However, leaders of that drive convinced him to stay on, he said, and since then "I think I've had a good record."

He and his wife, June, reside at 20305 Barnard St. They have three children.

Laughter, a city resident for six years, is owner-operator of the Walnut Liquorette. He has been mayor since mid-1973. He and his wife Margaret and their three sons reside at 20555 Shadow Mountain Road.

Duchess asks confiscation of periodical

PARIS (UPI)—The Duchess of Windsor asked a court today to confiscate the French-language edition December issue of The Ladies Home Journal containing excerpts of a book about her alleged romantic affairs, court officials said.

Francois Alfonsi, legal counsel for the Baltimore-born duchess, said the book, "The Woman He Loved," by Ralph G. Martin, constituted an invasion of privacy.

The book says that an Argentine diplomat, Felipe A. Espil, was the duchess" greatest love and not her second husband, the Duke of Windsor who gave up the British crown as Edward VIII to marry her.

Judge Michel Olivier, who heard the plea, is empowered to prevent temporarily sales of the magazine's December issue, due to begin in a few days, pending full hearing.

In her only public reaction so far to excerpts of the book which have appeared in the U.S. edition of the magazine, the former Wallis Warfield Simpson said, "If some readers are naive enough to believe what is printed about me, I can only feel sorry for them."

A brief word about...

Calif. traffic toll lowest in 10 years

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The highway death toll in California for the Thanksgiving weekend was the lowest on record, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Forty-five persons died in accidents between 6 p.m. last Wednesday and midnight Sunday, the patrol reported.

A spokesman said this was the lowest total since the Highway Patrol began keeping records on holiday accidents 10 years ago.

The reduced death toll was apparently the result of much heavier enforcement against drunk driving, according to a spokesman.

The spokesman said there was no evidence that reduced speed or shortages of gasoline caused by the energy crisis affected holiday traffic generally.

"Some areas reported lighter than usual traffic, but many areas reported heavier than usual traffic," a spokesman said.

Typical food basket cost declines again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With retail beef prices dropping for the first time in 13 months, the cost of a typical food "market basket" registered its second straight monthly decline in October, according to the Agriculture Department.

The report, however, also showed the 0.5 per cent October decline could have been 2.4 per cent if middlemen had passed through to consumers last month's full price drop in raw farm products.

20-30% over 55 have signs of emphysema

RENO (UPI) — Lung examinations of pre-surgery patients at Washoe Medical Center show that between 20 and 30 per cent of those age 55 or over have early signs of emphysema.

Dr. Anton Sohn, clinical pathologist at the hospital, said the program began in August as a four month pilot study designed to detect hidden lung diseases.

Arabs, Israel given bids to peace talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and Russia are inviting the Arabs and Israel to a peace conference in Geneva beginning Dec. 18.

A State Department spokesman said the first bids went out Tuesday. It was understood that those invited include Israel, Egypt, Syria and Jordan. The question of whether the Palestinians will be permitted to attend appears to have been left undecided.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said a week ago that the question of inviting representatives of the Palestinian refugees could be put off until the conference had an opportunity to decide.

School heads huddle over fuel shortages

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State Schools Superintendent Wilson C. Riles has scheduled a meeting of school officials from throughout the state to discuss what districts can do to conserve fuel during the winter.

The meeting, tentatively set for Friday morning in Sacramento, will center on how districts can insure fuel priorities from both state and federal governments.

Win Griffin, Riles' news secretary, Wednesday said the meeting would be open to discussions on both fuel for bus transportation and heating.

Death forces climb team to end venture

KATMANDU (UPI) — A seven-member British expedition has given up an attempt to conquer 25,064-foot Mt. Dhaulagiri IV after one of its members was killed, the Nepalese foreign ministry said today.

A message from the team said Alan Dewison, 26, of Bellingham, slipped on snow and fell 1,500 feet to his death Nov. 19, a ministry statement said.

Team leader Tony Johnson, Dewison, and another member of the expedition were returning to Camp 8 at 20,500 feet when the accident happened, and team members decided the following day to give up the attempt.

Pionner 10 among Jupiter moons

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (UPI) — The giant planet Jupiter is a place where lovers would have plenty to watch. Twelve moons glide about in the black, two on wobbling courses.

The Pioneer 10 spacecraft, which crossed the planet's bow shock line Monday, now speeds between the orbits of the inner and outer moons headed for a rendezvous with Jupiter next Monday.

Why the four outermost moons go backwards, nobody knows.

One guess is that they are not moons at all. In that case they could be huge asteroids or comet nuclei captured by the powerful gravity of the planet.

Maybe it is for the same reason that two wobbling so-called moons never follow exactly the same orbits on a successive revolutions.

Moving at 25,000 miles an hour, Pioneer crossed the orbit of Hades, the farthest out moon, on Nov. 8. It took until Nov. 22 and seven million miles to pass all the outer moons.

Ahead lie the inner moons, to be reached Sunday and Monday. They will be subjects of investigation as intense as the 65 pounds of equipment on Pioneer permit.

Four of them are known as the Galilean moons because they were spotted by Galileo in 1610. The fifth is tiny Amalthea, whose diameter is only 100 miles, and which swings around at a distance of 66,000 miles.

Pioneer's target, called the periapsis, is a point 81,000 miles above Jupiter's cloud tops, well outside Amalthea's orbit.

As Pioneer flies by Jupiter, it may discover why areas of the planet are hotter when in the shadows of its moons. Three moons eclipse the sun from Jupiter on every revolution.

The space agency calculated Tuesday that Pioneer has passed Jupiter's bow shock wave. This is the edge of a region in which the solar wind bounces back from Jupiter's magnetic field.

For scientists, the site of the bow shock is important because it indicates the strength of the magnetic field—and its enormously potent radiation—still in Pioneer's path.

Lots of energy

Energy released by just one pound of the sun would keep a kitchen stove going with all burners on for several hundred years.

The hardy snail

The snail, an unusually hardy animal, survives temperatures from 48 to 110 degrees Fahrenheit and can tolerate highly polluted water.

Bruin juggernaut opens

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Minus two starters from a year ago but with Bill Walton back for his senior year, UCLA's basketball juggernaut launches its season tonight against the Arkansas Razorbacks.

Walton and his talented teammates are expected to breeze in their opener at Pauley Pavilion but it could be a different story Saturday night when Maryland of the tough Atlantic Coast Conference plays here. The Terps are No. 5 in the preseason rankings.

"We know very little about Arkansas," said UCLA Coach John Wooden, "but we do know that Maryland is rated very high in all the preseason polls."

Gone from last season's 30-0 team are Larry Farmer and Larry Hollyfield but Wooden isn't going to miss them that much. Not with the 6-11 Walton, college basketball's player-of-the-year as a sophomore and junior, back.

Also returning is 6-7 senior forward Keith Wilkes, a starter for two seasons. Joining Walton and Wilkes on the Bruins' front line is 6 7 ½ junior Dave Meyers.

Tommy Curtis will be Wooden's "point" guard while either senior Greg Lee or junior Pete Trgovich are scheduled to open at the other backcourt spot.

In Arkansas, UCLA will be facing a team which finished tied for second in the Southwest Conference with a 9-5 record a year ago. The Razorbacks were 16-10 overall last season.

Coached by Lefty Driesell, Maryland is led by 6-11 Tom McMillen and 6-9 Len Elmore, both All-America candidates. They paced the Terps to a 23-7 record last season.

"We can't be intimidated by anybody," said Driesell. "We're going to try to beat their press and we're going to run with them, not slow it down.

"Most teams key on Bill Walton but we won't do that."

For Wooden, tonight will be the start of his 26th season at UCLA. His Bruins have won 75 straight games and seven consecutive NCAA titles.

Four other members of the Pacific Eight also commence firing with Stanford, the team expected to fight it out with USC for second behind the Bruins, hosting Nevada Reno.

California plays touring New South Wales and Oregon is at home to the University of the Americas. Washington battles Montana State.

The highly-rated San Francisco Dons of the West Coast Athletic Conference meet San Diego U. tonight but call on Stanford next Monday in an early test for both teams.

Pacific is at Pepperdine, Santa Clara at Hayward and San Jose State meets Montana.

The first holiday tourney is in full swing at Redlands where first round play Thursday saw Azusa batter Pacific Christian 98-65, host Redlands belt Los Angeles Baptist 81-55, Cal Baptist dispatch Southern Cal College 91-66 and Claremont outscore Biola 65-56.

Army hoping to repay Navy for '48 upset

By United Press International

Alabama can clinch the national championship, Oklahoma can finish an undefeated season and Georgia can earn a bowl bid but the team that can really do something special Saturday is Army, which would like to repay a 25-year-old debt.

The Cadets, facing the first winless season in their history, go into the traditional finale against Navy as more than two touchdown underdogs but sometime before the kickoff you can be sure Tom Cahill will remind them about a little piece of history.

The last team to go into an Army-Navy game without a win was the Middies in 1948, a year that Army ironically brought a perfect record into the season-ender. The game ended in a 21-21 tie, a monumental upset for Navy.

Now it's Army that would like to do a little upsetting of its own to salvage something from a miserable season, although the Cadets haven't really even been close in most of their nine defeats.

"For 15 years I've heard the Navy game is a whole new season for us," says Coach Tom Cahill of Army, who has a 5-2 record against Navy. "Well, now I'll get a chance to test the validity of that statement."

George Welsh of the Middies is coaching in his first game against Army but he has a little experience in the series, having quarterbacked the Navy teams in three games against Army — two of them defeats —from 1953 to 1955.

Both teams have been through brutal schedules that include two of the nation's top three undefeated and untied teams, Penn State and Notre Dame. Army also lost to Tennessee and Navy to Michigan.

The service battle at Philadelphia begins a TV doubleheader that winds up with Alabama-Auburn at Birmingham, the No. 1-ranked Crimson Tide trying to nail down their first national championship since 1964.

Alabama is undefeated and four touchdown favorites, a situation similar to last year when the Tide blew a 16-3 lead and lost to Auburn 17-16 as two blocked punts resulted in touchdowns in the closing minutes of the game.

Oklahoma, ranked No. 2 and not going anywhere because it's on probation, is a prohibitive choice over Oklahoma State, No. 4 Notre Dame is a heavy favorite over Miami in a night game at the Orange Bowl, and No. 8 LSU is favored over Tulane in a night game at New Orleans.

The rest of the nation's top 10 teams have finished their seasons.

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

LA MIRADA — Six days, 19 hours and some odd minutes ago head football coach Gary Rawls of Rowland High continued a new (hopefully) tradition, dedicated to the proposition that the Raiders are a winning team.

Last Friday night, the Raiders showed that all teams are created equal — the game ended in a 12-12 tie — fortunately, Rowland edged El Dorado, 13-12, thanks to the California Tie-Breaker System and the passing of quarterback Flavio Garcia in the first round of the CIF playoffs.

Tonight, the Raiders will gather on a new battlefield — La Mirada High (13520 Adelfa Dr., La Mirada) — to strive for victory against the No. 2 ranked CIF 2-A team — Neff High School, at 8 p.m.

The Trojans, who under head coach Stan Thomas, posted an 8-0-1 record seventh in the past nine years, with during the regular season en route to a Suburban League championship, their being a 0-0 tie with 3-A power La Mirada the only blemish on a perfect season.

To advance to the 2-A quarterfinals, Neff slipped past El Segundo, 14-13, while Rowland was edging El Dorado. The winner of tonight's game will meet the winner of the Riverside North-Indio contest next week in the semifinals.

Both Rowland and Neff try to utilize a balanced offense with most of the points scored via the pass. The Raiders are averaging 12 points per game defensively while the Trojans have allowed just 59 points on the season.

Neff is blessed with one of the best passing combinations on he CIF in quarterback Rick Costello and receiver Vince Torres. Both were All-CIF selections last year.

Costello has completed 96 of 169 passes for 1,571 yards and 20 touchdowns on the season. He didn't throw a TD pass in the win over El Segundo.

Torres' 1973 stats weren't available but he caught 56 passes for 915 yards and scored 16 touchdowns last year. Torres missed the game last week because of an injury but is expected to play tonight.

To add balance to the offensive attack, tailback Dave Kesting has rushed for 893 yards on 136 carries for a 6.6 yard average and scored eight times.

Rowland's offense looks equally impressive. Garcia has thrown 206 passes completing 93, for 1622 yards and 10 TD's. His favorite target, Gary Schwalbe, has gathered in 29 aerials for 607 yards and four TD's.

The Raider ground game is led by tailback Dave Pearce who has netted 814 yards and scored 11 times. Fullback Al Emeterio has contributed 605 yards and four scores.

With two highly-potent offenses, the game could be decided by the defenses.

Neff utilizes the Okie defense (5-2) with a rover. But the Trojans' strength lies in their pursuit led by tackle Willy James, 6-2, 205 pounds and linebacker Curt Oppedahl. Their line is quick and patient and known for being around the ball.

Rowland's defense is led by All-Montview League end Mitch Culp, all-league linebacker Greg Vaughn and Schwalbe from the secondary.

RETURNING TO THE HARDWOODS

Claremont High forward Joe Hillstock (24) will be one of many returning lettermen this year in the San Antonio League. The 1973-74 cage season opens Saturday. Hillstock is shown here in action against Garey last year.

Lakers hosting Kings tonight

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) -- After a four-day layoff, the Pacific Division-leading Los Angeles Lakers resume their NBA schedule tonight against the Kansas City-Omaha Kings.

The Lakers have won seven of their last eight games and have a 15-7 record for the season but Laker Coach Bill Sharman is worried.

"We really haven't met many tough teams," Sharman said.

He pointed out that the Lakers haven't played Boston or Golden State this year.

"Our team is coming together but our running game isn't as good as I would like it to be and we're still not executing our plays as we should," said Sharman. "The players are still learning about each other. This is a game of repetition and of habits."

The Kings lost to Phoenix Thursday night, their ninth loss in a row.

SAL cagers tough this year

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

There's no doubt about it, the San Antonio League is going to be tough this year in basketball.

Six of the eight teams in the league have a shot at the title this year, and all look impressive.

But Ganesha looks to be the popular choice to capture the SAL championship this year—returning three outstanding starters from last year's 23-6 team which reached the quarterfinals of the CIF 3-A playoffs.

Considered to give Ganesha some problems this year include Claremont, Upland, Garey, Chino and Montclair. It looks like a "down" year for the teams from Pomona and Damien.

"They're putting us in the driver's seat already," said Ganesha coach Gary Fulkerson about the other SAL coaches. "If we get in a wreck I'll know who to blame."

It's true. Even with the talent the Giants are returning, they shouldn't have an easy time in their quest for a league championship.

It may be a little early to start looking at league play, though. The season begins Saturday for a few teams and shifts into high gear next week for the rest of the valley. League play doesn't begin until early January.

Ganesha, Pomona and Montclair will be the only SAL teams in action Saturday. The Giants travel to Riverside to take on North High, while Pomona heads for Rialto to play Eisenhower and Montclair hosts West End rival Alta Loma. All games are scheduled for 8 p.m.

Six of the eight San Antonio League teams will then compete in the Upland-Montclair Tournament, which begins Tuesday.

Ganesha's three returning lettermen who have made the Giants the League favorites are All-CIF (third team) center Cleve Porter (6-5, 185), forward Broderick Hunter (6-4, 195) and guard Earl Wilson (5-9, 160).

"We're looking forward to a competitive season," stated Fulkerson. "We should be able to hold our own against most teams as long as Porter, Hunter and Wilson stay healthy and out of foul trouble. Our league will be very competitive with Claremont, Chino, Garey, Upland and Montclair all having a shot at the title. I don't think anyone will go undefeated. A 12-2 record will win the league and maybe even an 11-3 record will."

Fulkerson's fourth man will probably be guard Mike Hall (5-10, 150), but the Ganesha skipper is having trouble deciding on a fifth starter. Candidates for the fifth spot include Ralph Dudley (5-6, 130), Gary George (6-3, 165), Don Barnes (5-10, 155) and Howard Love (5-9, 140).

Claremont figures to give Ganesha the toughest time this year, returning five key players and one transfer from a team which finished last year with a 9-16 season.

The returning quintet from Claremont include guards Todd Ervin (5-9, 160), Reggie Goldsmith (6-1, 170) and Rip Sears (5-10, 165) and forwards Kent Stalwick (6-1, 160) and Joe Hillstock (6-2, 190). The transfer is Bruce Abraham (6-4, 185), who will probably jump center for the Wolfpack this year. Abraham played at Pomona High in his sophomore year, then transferred to Washington, where he played as a junior. Since then he has moved back to the valley and now plays for Claremont.

"We hope to improve on last year's record," said Claremont veteran coach Jack Smith. "This means we are hopeful of playing above .500 ball, but we have many question marks on this squad—height will be one.

Also the fact that the SAL will have some very fine teams this year will make it tough. Many of the teams have their top performers returning."

One of those teams is Chino.

The Cowboys are returning six lettermen from a team which finished with a 9-16 record—but all the lettermen are tough. Center Dirk Story (6-7, 190) and forward Tim Smith (6-7, 170) pace the returning crew. Others include forwards Mike Coppess (6-4, 155), Scott Richartz (6-3, 160) and Bob Hairston (6-3, 160) and guard Manuel Delgado (5-7, 145).

The Cowboys will be coached this year by first-year skipper Bob Elder, who is taking over for his father Frank, who retired after the basketball season last year.

"We are a young team this year," commented young Elder. "With four seniors, six juniors and a sophomore, we are rebuilding. But we have fine talent as a foundation. The tough teams in the SAL this year should be Ganesha, Garey, Claremont and Upland."

Upland has three starters returning from last year and one sub from the '72-73 team who figure to put the Highlanders in contention. The returnees include center Stu DuVall (6-5, 185) and guards Curt Oldenkamp (6-2, 172) and Orien Ogg (6-2, 175). Mike Matusewicz, who was one of Upland's top reserves last year, will probably fill in at a guard position, moving either Oldenkamp or Ogg to forward. But Upland coach Paul Trautwein is also looking for a fifth starter.

The candidates for the starting berth include Mike Monroe, Bryan Hutton and Dave Duncan.

"We finished last in the league last year," Trautwein pointed out, "so there's no place to go but up. We have pretty good speed and quickness. We're not very tall so we must rely on our speed. We'll really have to hustle on the boards."

Poly, Lions host Bronco Classic

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

POMONA — Cal Poly's Don Hogan will soon know what it is like in the big time of college basketball.

After guiding Poly junior varsity teams to back-to-back 17-3 seasons, Hogan is moving up to the varsity as the head coach tonight when Poly and the Pomona Host Lions Club co-sponsor the Bronco Classic at Kellogg Gym.

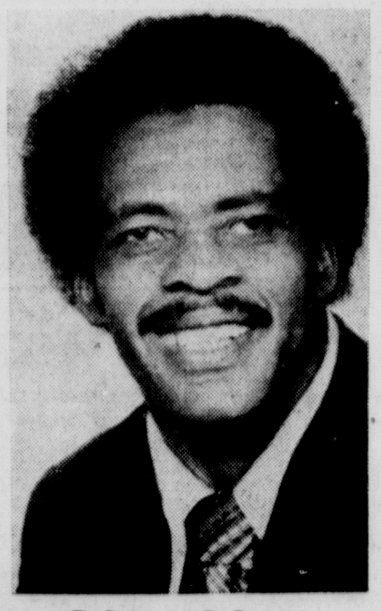
Two of the three visiting teams — Loyola and Northern Arizona — play on the major college level in basketball and the third, UC Irvine, will soon be there.

If that isn't enough, Hogan will be sending his Broncos against three teams rated in the top 20 by the wire services within the next few weeks as departed head coach Dan Anaya worked out an ambitious schedule pitting Poly against Arizona, Long Beach State and Nevada Las Vegas.

"We're ready to go to war," Hogan said on the eve of his head coaching debut. "I think the team is ready but I'm not certain if I am. This will be a big night for me."

Poly will play Northern Arizona at 9 p.m. following the 7 p.m. opener between Loyola and UC Irvine. The two winners play for the championship Saturday night after the third place contest.

Besides basketball, there will be gymnastics exhibitions both nights by the Cal Poly team and the Claremont Recreation Department.



DON HOGAN

Tickets are priced at $1.75 for adults, $1 for students and 50 cents for children. Members of the Pomona Host Lions Club are handling all of the tournament arrangements.

Hogan has a tough task ahead of him with only one starter returning off of last year's 13-10 club plus little time to do any recruiting after Ayala departed to join Jerry Tarkanian's staff at Las Vegas.

Poly will especially be hurting until Paul Newton and David Kennedy gain eligibility in January. The Broncs are also playing without sophomore Malcolm Kennedy, the former Pasadena High star out with an ankle injury.

"We should be able to move in January but it's going to be tough now," Hogan admits.

Hogan will start 6-9 Lee Roy Williams, the one returning starter at the center post. Richard Reid (6-0) and John Carrillo (6-5) will open at the forward spots while Alphonso "Wizard" Adair (5-8) and newcomer Horace Aubrey (6-0) from Compton College are the guards.

"Aubrey is a very stable player and a good defensive performer," Hogan said. "Wizard will continue to win the hearts of the fans but still needs to be more consistent."

Hogan doesn't know what to expect from Northern Arizona. After a 6-20 campaign last year, coach Herb Gregg went shopping for junior college transfers.

The Lumberjacks bring only two players — guard Nate Payne (5-10) and forward Steve Henderson (6-5) — from last year's squad.

Some of the newcomers for the Flagstaff club are: Emerson Gordon (6-2) from Northeastern Colorado; Clyde Turner (6-4) from Keokuk (Iowa); Earnest Reed (6-1) from Elsworth (Iowa); Keith Middleton (6-6) from Keokuk; David Benning (6-5) from Central Arizona JC; and Ken Jacobs (6-6) from Phoenix College.

Both Loyola and UC Irvine are returning four starters but they share similar problems.

Loyola's new coach Dave Benaderet must replace the graduated Steve Smith and he has little height to work with. Sophomore Don Bartell (6-7) of Damien High is his tallest player.

But the Lions have exceptional talent in a pair of sophomores: Lloyd McMillian (6-5), younger brother of pro star Jim McMillian, and Luther Philyaw (6-1) former Daniel Murphy High standout.

The other Loyola starters are Brad Dean (6-6), transfer Paul Sunderland (6-5) from Oregon and Scott Kay (6-2), former prep star from San Bernardino's Pacific High.

Irvine will probably be playing without 6-8 center Dave Baker, last year's top scorer, this weekend because of a knee injury.

Coach Tim Tift will be opening with big Scott Magnuson (6-11) at center plus Jerry Maras (6-6) and Gary Eubanks (6-2) at the forward spots. Howard Hawkins (6-3) of South Hills High looks like one starter at the guard positions but the other job is still open.

All four teams should have a better idea of what to expect the rest of the season after Saturday's action.

Laidlaw named Player of Week

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Stanford running back Scott Laidlaw has been named the final Pacific Eight Player of the Week on offense for his heroics in the traditional battle with California.

Defensive honors went to lineman Monte Doris of USC, who led the defense that contained UCLA's awesome Wishbone running attack in the Trojans' 23-13 upset win over the Bruins.

Doris, a 245-pounder, made 18 tackles, sacked the quarterback once, and caused a fumble as the Bruins were held to 242 yards rushing. They were averaging 415 yards per contest coming into the game.

Sabres display a little authority

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Buffalo Sabres Coach Joe Crozier says he's not looking for any fights by his team.

But once in a while, he says, he doesn't mind if his team shows a little "authority" on the ice.

The Sabres showed some authority Thursday night that resulted in major penalties for fighting for Buffalo's Rick Dudley and Los Angeles' Terry Harper and the Sabres went on to defeat the Kings 2-1.

Dudley and Harper came to blows just before the first period ended and both had to be separated by the officials. Neither was seriously hurt but Dudley was nursing a small cut over his left eye after the game.

"I got in the mood, I guess," Dudley said. "I was a little frustrated. It gets the adrenalin going and sometimes that helps."

Dudley said fighting "helps sometimes, depending on the situation. Sometimes if things aren't going right a good scrap turns things our way."

The Sabres were ahead at the time 1-0 on a power play goal by Jim Lorentz, his fifth. Rene Robert scored what proved to be the winning goal at 4:48 of the third period on a slap shot from the blue line, putting Buffalo in front 2-0. Bob Murdoch cut the lead to 2-1 at 13:45 and ruined Buffalo goalie Roger Crozier's shutout.

Joe Crozier attributed the victory to the "authority" the Sabres showed on the ice.

"We played with more authority, we were hustling, we were coming back," he said. "I'm not looking for fights but I like to see a little authority out there."

Roger Crozier, making only his fifth start after being sidelined with a stomach ailment, said the victory might "get things rolling for us again. We're tightening up a lot over our previous few games."

The victory snapped a five-game Buffalo losing streak and put the Sabres into sole possession of fifth place in the National Hockey League East.

Sports news in brief

A FOOTBALL SHOWDOWN between top-ranked Alabama and No. 4 Notre Dame may be in jeopardy unless the Sugar Bowl makes racial concession soon.

Spokesmen for the NAACP and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) said Thursday their groups are planning disruptive actions for the New Year's Eve contest unless sponsors of the Sguar Bowl integrated their organization.

"There's a very good possibility there won't be a Sugar Bowl," Alvin O. Chambliss, NAACP attorney, said.

BOBBY BONDS, the San Francisco Giants outfielder, was arrested Thursday on charges he interfered with a policeman trying to give his older brother a traffic ticket.

Bonds was released on his own recognizance and ordered to appear in San Mateo Central District Court Dec. 11.

KERMIT JOHNSON, the record-breaking wishbone halfback for UCLA, was given the Henry R. "Red" Sanders Award Thursday night as the Most Valuable Player on the UCLA football team.

Johnson, a senior from Pasadena, rolled up 1,183 yards and scored 16 touchdowns in the Bruins' 9-2 year.

NEVADA LAS VEGAS, rated among the nation's top 20 in the UPI pre-season ratings, has lost one of its hottest prospects.

Robert "Jeep" Kelly, a High School All-American from Pittsburgh and one of the nation's most sought-after scholastic players, quit the Rebel team this week and went home Thursday.

Head coach Jerry Tarkanian said the 6-foot-1 Kelly was an "excellent prospect," who found the adjustment to college life difficult to make.

FRED APOSTOLI, the one-time San Francisco bellhop who passed up a promising baseball career and went on to become middleweight champion of the world, died Thursday of a heart attack. He was 59.

Mrs. Everett pleads case

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The attorney for Mrs. Marjorie L. Everett, a director of Hollywood Park, said Thursday he still hopes to plead her case next week at a National League meeting at Houston.

A group including Mrs. Everett has agreed to purchase the San Diego Padres from C. Arnholt Smith but it has been reported that the Everett group doesn't have enough support from club owners. Nine votes are needed to ratify the sale.

According to the Washington Post, the club owners will turn Mrs. Everett down because of her "involvement in the Gov. Otto Kerner bribery scandal in Chicago."

"I don't think they would deny her admission to the league on the ground there is anything wrong with her record," said Neil Papiano, Mrs. Everett's attorney. "It would have to be on some other basis.

"I know that Mrs. Everett has been the subject of in-depth investigations by nearly every investigative body with the exception of baseball itself and on every occasion she has come out more than clean.

"I think investigations have shown she has been most cooperative and has been an enemy of crime."

Sharks open trip tonight

WINNIPEG, Canada (UPI) — The Los Angeles Sharks open a three-game road trip tonight against Bobby Hull and the Winnipeg Jets, a team they beat for the first time Tuesday night.

The Sharks shaded the Jets 5-4 in overtime at Los Angeles. They had gone winless in nine WHA games and two exhibition contests.

The Sharks are at Chicago Saturday night and Minnesota next Tuesday night.

Fullerton, L.A. City clash

Fullerton (10-0) meets L.A. City College (9-2) at Anaheim Stadium, and San Mateo (8-2-1) hosts Fresno City (10-1) Saturday night in the semifinals of the state community college football playoffs.

Winners meet for the state football championship Saturday, Dec. 8, in the Shrine Potato Bowl at Bakersfield.

Davis Cup finals

Smith key to U.S.

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Stan Smith, the cool, confident veteran of the U.S. team, opens the defense of the Davis Cup today against an Australian tennis team which is perhaps the most formidable array ever entered by any nation in the historic series which began in 1900.

Smith, who had to win both singles a year ago and then teamed with Erik Van Dillen in doubles in order to retain the cup against the furious onslaught of the rambunctious Romanians—Ilie Nastase and Ion Tiriac—took the court here against John Newcombe, the reigning Forest Hills champion, and it was vital to American hopes that Stan win.

In this best-of-five match series, played under the old tennis rules without the tiebreaker, the burden is entirely upon the 26-year old, 6-4, 181-pounder who now calls Sea Pines, S.C., his home. According to most experts, Smith must win over Newcombe and Rod Laver, and then once again team with Van Dillen to capture the doubles.

For when one looks at that trio of Aussies, there has to be awe. Newcombe is the heir apparent to the great line of Down Under heroes who at one time practically owned the ornate, monstrous cup which Dwight Davis put up for international play at the turn of the century, and which America has held since 1968.

The 29-year old Newcombe is here with the 35-year old Laver, regarded by many as one of the greatest of all time, and with the ever-young, 39-year old Ken Rosewall, who may not be the equal of either Newcombe or Laver in singles play anymore, but who can hustle his aging limbs and sublime backhand in doubles play with undiminished skill which he first flashed in Davis Cup play 20 years ago.

Newcombe has not been impressive coming into this final round. Against Czechoslavakia two weeks ago, he was the victim of a startling upset at the hands of little-known Jiri Hrebec, leaving it up to Laver to win both his singles over Hrebec and Jan Kodes and then team with Rosewall to take the doubles.

Tom Gorman was to carry American hopes in the second match against Laver and the choice of the 27-year old from Seattle for that task was, according to non-playing American captain Dennis Ralston, "the most difficult decision I have ever had to make."

Gorman failed dismally in the final round against Romania a year ago, losing both his singles matches. Yet, Ralston says Tom's service is a big one and he has a gung-ho spirit which can help bring his game to a peak.

Gorman arrived here after playing brilliantly in the Stockholm Open, scoring over Marty Riessen, Tom Okker and Bjorn Borg enroute to the Swedish title.

It was the win over Riessen which probably played an important part in Ralston's decision to go with Gorman against the Aussies.

Riessen, who became eligible for Cup play when his contract with Lamar Hunt ran out, as have the contracts of Laver and Rosewall, had gotten the nod over Gorman in the semi-final round against Romania this year, and his victory over Tom Ovici locked up that series for the U.S.

With Gorman, whose chronic back trouble apparently has cleared up, playing so well, Ralston spent the last two weeks evaluating the two men and on Thursday morning decided to break up the pairings which had whipped the Romanians and go with Smith and Gorman. It was a tough verdict to reach. Only Gorman can now justify it.

After today's two singles, the doubles is slated for Saturday, with Smith and Van Dillen facing as yet the formally-unannounced Aussie duo. Neale Fraser, Aussie captain, said he will stay "with the book."

Mahaffey knows he can win now

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (UPI) — Young John Mahaffey, a skinny Texan in his second year on the pro golf tour, says three things helped his game.

He quit drinking beer, started running a mile and a half a day, and —most important of all —he won a tournament.

"I know I can win now," said the 25-year-old from Houston who had a two-stroke lead going into today's third round of the $150,000 Walt Disney World Golf Classic.

Mahaffey's confidence came with a late October victory in the Sahara Invitational at Las Vegas.

"Before that, I thought I could win, but you never know," he said. "It's made me a more aggressive player."

Mahaffey crafted a 68 Thursday with four birdies and no bogeys to put him at 37, seven under par at the halfway point in the last tournament of the 1973 PGA tour.

In with 139 totals after 6 holes were Oklahoma rookie Gil Morgan, a far-sighted eye doctor; Nate Starks, a black pro who regained his PGA credentials this year, Dwight Nevil, Lou Graham and Larry Nelson.

Jack Nicklaus, winner of the first two Disney tournaments, was four strokes off the pace with a second round 71 that put him in a pack at 141.

And rookie standout Ben Crenshaw missed the cut with an 80 that put him at five-overpar 149.

Crenshaw, who won the San Antonio-Texas open two months ago, met disaster on the 429-yard, par-four sixth hole of the 6,951-yard palm course. He hit into a swamp, a water trap and a bunker to take a nine.

The field was cut to 78 golfers with scores of 147 or lower for the last two rounds Friday and Saturday.

Mahaffey, who has played in a gruelling 37 tournaments this year, recently started working out and gained 15 pounds to put him at 150.

"I got on a health kick," he said. "I even quit drinking beer, and they made a big deal out of that in Las Vegas. But I think I may be allergic to some of the ingredients."

But he feels his better physical condition has helped his concentration.

Nicklaus said he missed six birdie opportunities with poor putting and said his round "wasn't too exciting."

The Golden Bear hopes to keep his $5,000 lead over Bruce Crampton in the PGA's money race and at the moment he looks safe. Crampton had a 74 Thursday to go one over par at 145.

This was the first time Morgan, a graduate of Southern College of Optometry in Memphis, Tenn., has survived the cut as a pro in a PGA tournament. But this is only his second outing.

Morgan shot a 70 with four birdies and two bogeys and said he should be wearing lenses.

"I can't see the pins and sometimes I can't see the ball landing in the fairway," he said.

Starks, who lost his PGA card in 1969 after a poor showing in 14 events, hit two birdies on his last nine holes, with no bogeys.

"I've putted the ball better the last two days than I have in a long time," he said. "I just moved the ball back in my stance a little."

Mounties enjoy wrestling win

WALNUT — Mt. San Antonio College's wrestling team won its fourth dual match in three days by whipping Long Beach, 40-7, here Thursday afternoon.

The Mounties, 8-1 in dual meets, will be competing in the Southwestern Tournament at Chula Vista today and Saturday. There will be 32 junior college teams involved in the tournament.

Coach Fred Burri mentioned Andy Gusman and Randy Martinez as his top wrestlers Wednesday.

Citrus and Chaffey roll on

AZUSA — Roy Hickman scored 26 points, hitting on 10 of 19 shots from the floor, Thursday night to lead Citrus to a 91-84 win over Barstow in the first round of the 4th Annual Don Edwards Memorial Basketball Tournament.

Hickman, who is averaging 23.66 points per game, helped the Owls jump out to a 17 point lead midway through the first half before head coach Neil Edwards started to empty his bench.

Citrus lacked the rhythm it was enjoying and settled for a 49-39 lead at intermission. Edwards continued to give all of his performers playing time in the second half as Barstow outscored the Owls, 45-42 in the final 20 minutes.

Guard Godfrey Carter had his best effort of the season, scoring 15 points while forward Ordale Newkirk had a season-high 12 points. Dwight Dyke came off the bench to sink five of six field goals to finish with 10 points as Citrus shot a torrid 61 per cent from the floor.

Ron Lamar and Buddy Brandon paced Barstow with 26 and 24 points, respectively.

Citrus plays North Peralta, a 57-53 winner over Santa Monica, in tonights 9 p.m. contest while Cypress, a 96-68 winner over Pasadena, and Cerritos, a 78-70 victor over East Los Angeles, square off in quarterfinal action.

East L.A.'s 6-feet-8, 225 pound center, Al Fruhwirth canned 33 points in a losing effort. His individual performance was one point short of Ev Fopma's record 34 points for Cerritos in 1970.

Chaffey College notched its second win in-a-row Thursday night on Bob Kovach's free throws with three seconds remaining in the game to give the Panthers a 58-57 win over Mesa of Arizona.

The Panthers jumped out to a 31-22 halftime lead only to watch their lead diminish to a one point deficit as Mesa ran off six straight baskets in the last three minutes.

Trailing 57-56, Kovach was fouled, went to the line and calmly sank a pair of free throws to give Chaffey its third win in four outings.

Kovach finished the night with 19 points, hitting on 9 of 15 shots. Guard Pierre Rankin chipped in 12 points while center Randy Nicholei came off the bench to contribute six points and seven rebounds.

Mesa was led by the backcourt combo of Wil Vanley and Jim Stewart. Vanley threw in 12 points while Stewart led all scorers with 21, hitting on 10 of 20 shot attempts.

The Panthers will try to make it three wins in a row tonight when they host Phoenix in an 8 p.m. tipoff.

MSAC takes to the road for a two-day trip in the Fresno area this weekend. The Mounties (1-3) visit Reedley, Friday, and Fresno City, Saturday.

The Mounties are off to a slow start so head coach Gene Victor has hinted that he will shake up the lineup on the road trip.

Only one Mountie is averaging in double figures. Gary Nash, a 6-foot-10 center, is currently averaging 26.5 points per game and 16 rebounds.

In Redlands semifinals

Stags, Azusa clash

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

REDLANDS —Based on first appearances, Claremont-Mudd will have a much better basketball team this year and Azusa Pacific will have, well, just what APC always has, a good team, maybe an excellent one.

The Stags and Cougars both won their opening round games in the Redlands Invitational Thursday afternoon. C-M took Biola to the tune of 65-56. APC demolished an outmanned Pacific Christian five 98-65.

That sets up a 7 p.m battle tonight between the two Thursday afternoon winners. The eight-team tourney is set up so that Thursday's winners play tonight at 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. while Thursday's losing teams were slated to play at 2:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. this afternoon.

In Thursday's first game, newcomers George Glonka and Norm Richards led Claremont-Mudd. Glonka, a 6-5 forward from Montclair by way of Chaffey College, was the team's leading scorer with 15 points and led the Stags in rebounding with seven.

Richards, the new playmaker, had 12 points as did Marty Habern, the former Bonita star.

The 1973-74 edition of the Stags showed a lot of promise. They had only one bad stretch. After taking a 2-0 lead, the Stags had a four-minute drought before Richards scored their second field goal 4:28 into the game.

C-M had to play catchup after the cold spell. Then the lead seesawed back and forth until Habern put the Stags out in front to stay, 25-24 with 7:25 left in the first half.

Center Kim Cheatum's free throw made it 26-24 and then Habern was fouled and connected on both free throws to open it up to 28-24 and the Stags were on their way.

"We had a few turnovers but two players (Glonka and Richards) were playing their first game for the varsity," commented coach Ted Ducey. "We got better shots in the second half. I think we will be a good shooting club."

Ducey was able to work his 6-8 freshman center Dave Willhite of Redlands into action. Willhite scored seven points and grabbed five rebounds playing part time.

In the second game Thursday, APC's Cliff Hamlow unveiled a big, quick team with lots of depth and a player with super potential.

The Cougars forced hapless Pacific Christian into 42 turnovers, 24 of them in the first half, 10 in the first 6:43 played.

Dennis Vanzant played 14 minutes and scored 10 points. But a transfer student by way of Cal Poly, SLO and San Diego City College stole the show.

Rick Reed, a 6-2 junior, hit on 14 of 22 field goal attempts and added two free throws for 30 points. One basket had everyone oohing and aahing. Driving in from the right side, Reed went into the air, floated across underneath the basket, hung, and threw up a two-handed reverse scoop shot that arched cleanly through the net.

"That was a super, super shot," a grinning Hamlow admitted later. "And he made some other good shots. I thought we had a good effort although we got a little sloppy. Claremont-Mudd is an improved team and we'll have our hands full with them."

Montclair has three returning lettermen, and they're all good ones. Mark Gosswiller will return to the center position for Montclair, standing at 6-6, 200 pounds. "If he keeps improving he could be a good college prospect," noted Cavalier coach Lanny Moore.

Gosswiller will be playing with returnees Jim Brown (6-4, 200) and Tony Esquibel (5-10, 155). Fighting for starting positions in the Cavalier lineup this season will be seniors Jerrard Bryant (5-11, 160), Reece Snapp (6-3, 175) and Bruce Hayhurst (5-8, 150).

"The season will depend upon how well we play together," added Moore, "and if we can play good tough defense. If we can do those two things, I think we could end up as one of the top four teams."

Garey lost almost everybody to graduation, but the Vikings are still considered serious threats to repeat as SAL champions. Garey finished last year with a 29-2 record—one of the best in all CIF—but return only two lettermen this year.

Don't be surprised, though, if the Vikings are among the front-runners awards the end of the season. Second-year coach Mike Wells is boasting one of the tallest teams in the league. It starts with 6-6, 215 pound forward Dave Larry, 6-6 center John Gussenhoven, forward Delbert MacDonald (6-4), guard Gary Carpenter (6-5), guard Billy Evans and guard Ashley Thomas. Evans and Thomas are the returning lettermen, and Larry is a transfer from the L.A. City area (Roosevelt High).

Pomona lost 10 players to graduation and is in the process of rebuilding this year. Steve Taylor is the lone returning starter from last year's 17-11 club, but three others join Steve on the returning lettermen list. The others are Doug Mooore (5-foot-9), Derrick Thomas (5-foot-10) and Jim Price (6-foot). Top newcomers to the team this year include John Wieman, Mike Yarborough and Jerome Holliman.

"Our team this year is quite young and inexperienced, but we are in the process of rebuilding," stated Pomona second-year coach Ed Taylor. "Potentially we can be good. It's just a matter of putting things together and getting a better concentration on the game from the players."

Damien coach Len Cesene just about has his starting lineup settled, but there is a lot of inexperience showing. Only one player out of his proposed starting roster is a returning lettermen — that being guard Bill Karr (5-5, 140).

The others include Girard Piccioni (5-10, 160), Larry Pekarcik (6-2, 175), John Pignotti (5-11, 165), Jon Kolodge (6-1, 165) and Gary Turner (6-3, 175).

"We will be a very young ball club looking for sucess in future years," said Cesene. "Our goal is to be respectable. If our kids play outstanding defense and rebound well, we hope to be in every game. Being a young, small team we must control the tempo of the game as well as playing with desire. The league is probably as tough as it has ever been. Six of the eight team could win the thing. I look for Ganesha, Claremont and Garey to be one-two-three."

Fukuyama scores TKO

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Shig Fukuyama, 127 ½, Tokyo, stopped Leoncio Meza, 129 ½, Mexico City, at 2:21 of the seventh round at the Olympic Auditorium Thursday night.

Fukuyama was battering Meza mercilessly and had his right eye almost closed when referee Richard Steele halted the scheduled 10-round bout.

The Japanese fighter improved his record to 21-7 while Meza absorbed his sixth loss in 33 bouts.

Phoenix Suns give Johnson initiation

By United Press International

It didn't take Phil Johnson long to get initiated into the ways of the Kansas City-Omaha Kings.

Johnson, who was named coach of the Kings two days ago following Bob Cousy's sudden resignation, went to work Thursday night but the result was the same as the Kings' eight previous games—defeat.

The Phoenix Suns, with rookie Mike Bantom collecting a career-high 26 points, broke away in the fourth quarter to defeat the Kings 119-99, KC-Omaha's ninth straight loss.

The Suns, who led 82-80 entering the final quarter, scored the first 10 points of the period and pulled away steadily. Bantom, the Suns' No. 1 draft choice and an Olympian from St. Joseph's (Pa.), hit 10 points during the final quarter. Charlie Scott added 20, Dick Van Arsdale 17 and Clem Haskins 15.

Nate Archibald was high scorer for KC-Omaha with 24 points and Jimmy Walker had 21.

In the only other National Basketball Association game Thursday night, Rick Barry scored 22 points and the Golden State Warriors broke open a tight game with a 72-point second half to coast to a 119-89 victory over the Portland Trail Blazers.

Rookie Derrek Dickey added a career-high 17 for Golden State while Sidney Wicks of Portland had 26 points.

Pomona-Pitzer cage team will feature four freshmen

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

CLAREMONT — The Pomona-Pitzer basketball team that opens the 1973-74 season tonight against L.I.F.E. bears little resemblance to either the unit that began the season last year or the one that finished up last spring.

Senior Norm Carter is the only returnee and Carter has been switched from guard to forward. the other four starters are all freshman.

"I feel there is quite a bit of talent among the freshman" said coach Les Nagier. "However after returning to practice following the Thanksgiving holiday I discovered we're not as far along as I had first thought."

Of the 16 players currently listed on the varsity schedule five are frosh five are sophomores and five are juniors leaving Carter as the only senior.

Gone from last year's opening lineup are Lamotta Jackson the 6-5 jumping jack who led the Sagehens into title contention. Nagler's team never won another game after Jackson left school following the fall semester.

Missing also are forwards Mel Murrill and Gary Crossman. Murrill only a junior last year entered pre-Med school. Crossman coolest head on the squad graduated.

Biggest blow to Nagler is the loss of Keith Davis which was not expected. As a sophomore last year the 6-2 Davis was the floor leader and third highest scorer on the team with an 11.3 average.

Davis did not return to school this year along with two other of last year's sophomores. Curtis Johnson and Jeff Gottlieb likewise aren't back.

When the 'Hens take the floor tonight at Memorial Gym the front line will have the 6-2 Carter at one of the forward spots along with 6-2 Brandon Boyd of New York City.

At center will be 6-5 Geoffrey Northrup from La Jolla. The guards will be 5-8 Scott Pease from Toledo, Ohio, and 6-0 Scott Pinkston from Oakland.

Last season the Sagehens finished with a 6-6 mark in Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SCIAC) competition good enough for third place. Overall they were 10-14. But at the time Jackson bowed out they were 5-0 in conference play and 9-8 overall.

The 'Hens will also play at home Saturday night when they host Pt. Loma College. P.T.Loma was Pasadena College until it moved to the San Diego campus formerly belonging to Cal Western (which became USIU when it moved inland).

Pomona-Pitzer's schedule calls for seven games before the Cal Baptist Tournament in Riverside Dec. 19-22. That will be followed by the Christmas break and then conference play begins Jan. 5.

And the 'Hens start right out by entertaining defending champion and highly rated Whittier. The Poets have both all-conference guards Jack Smoot and Al Hardin back. Returning to anchor the front line is another all-conference first-team selection 6-6 Bernie Hoskin. He is joined by two-year letterman Ron Van Vliet and newcomer Paul Caldwell.

Van Vliet is 6-4. Caldwell is 6-5. Former Chaffey College player Fred Hicks is also back. The 6-9 Hicks reportedly has pared some weight off his 260-pound frame and has a new attitude.

He heard him keeping quiet

By Oswald & James Jacoby

A certain moving-picture mogul, famous for malapropisms, is supposed to have told an assistant, "You heard me keeping quiet."

South had nothing to do with moving pictures but he had listened to West keeping quiet during the bidding. He noticed that West had followed up his bidding quietude by leading out ace, king and jack of hearts and that when South had drawn trumps with two leads, West had discarded on the second trump.

Thus, West had been dealt a good six-card heart suit and only one spade, yet West had never made a peep over the spade opening. Could West hold either the king of diamonds or the queen of clubs?

South decided that he couldn't. In that case how could South make his contract? South worked it out.

He simply played the ace of clubs; a dummy to dummy's king and dummy's jack of clubs. East was in the lead with the queen.

He couldn't lead his fourth club. That would allow South to discard the eight of diamonds and ruff in dummy. So East led a low diamond and South let it ride around to dummy's queen.

Boys make fun of girl over weight

By JEAN ADAMS

HARASSED: (Q.) Just because I'm extra fat, a group of boys I know make funny mooing sounds when I walk by. Not only that — every once in a while they come to my house and throw eggs at it.

They also send taxis, plumbers, exterminators and dry cleaners to my house. It's awful. What can I do? — In Pain in Pennsylvania.

(A.) People who look different or behave in some unusual way are often subject to harassment by cruel, frightened or confused associates. This is true not only to fat people but of those who dress differently or speak differently or have unusual beliefs or ideas.

You are being taken advantage of because you have a correctible physical trait. Correct your fatness. Go to your doctor, get a diet and stay with it under the doctor's supervision.

When you slim down, unkind people will look for someone else to needle.

YEAR YOUNGER: (Q.) There is a boy who likes me who is 15. I am 16. I like him but my mother told me not to go near him. She said it would ruin my reputation with boys my age. What should I do? — Frustrated in Florida.

(A.) Tell your mother that a girl ruins her reputation by doing wrong things with boys of any age. Tell her you do not plan to do the wrong things with this boy of age 15.

The doctor comments

A proper diet needs careful planning

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D

DEAR DR. LAMB—I have only briefly tried both Dr. Atkins' diet and Dr. Stillman's Quick Loss Diet. I can readily understand how excess fats in Dr. Atkins' diet can be harmful. Having heard both doctors on the same TV talk show at the same time, I still fail to see where Dr. Atkins' diet, which does include two salads (low carbohydrate) per day leaving off all fats would be more harmful than Dr. Stillman's diet which does not contain one gram of carbohydrate.

I have not received satisfactory answers to this question from either my husband's physician or my own. We are both very much overweight and only seem to be able to lose weight on a very low carbohydrate, low fat, high protein diet. My husband has high blood pressure and many related problems.

We would very much appreciate an answer from you.

DEAR READER—There's not a dime's worth of difference in the two approaches. The first week of the Atkins' diet allows a salad for lunch and dinner, of loosely packed lettuce or other similar roughage. The amount is "less than one cup." That means the total carbohydrates for the day would be less than four grams. Dr. Atkins refers to this as "biologically zero carbohydrate." And I would agree that you can consider that to be essentially a "no-carbohydrate" diet. That doesn't mean I approve of it.

A properly planned low carbohydrate, low fat, high protein diet to lose weight is all right. Eliminating the fat, however, means it is no longer the Atkins' diet. The principle is to eliminate calories. The two main sources of calories are fats and sweets.

You can plan a diet that includes fresh vegetables, fruits, cereals, lean meats (chicken, fish, beef) that is sufficiently low in calories for safe and sensible weight control. The problem is that many high protein foods also contain a lot of fat. That is why fortified skim milk is good for such diets. It is a source of excellent protein and calcium without overloading the fat intake. Uncreamed cottage cheese is also in this category. Dr. Atkins opposes skim milk and recommends using thick cream, which is not a good source of either calcium or protein.

DEAR DR. LAMB:—We have recently moved to an area where the water is extremely hard and has a high alkali content.

So many of our neighbors, young and old, buy bottled spring water for drinking and cooking. Can you tell us if hard water is harmful in any way?

DEAR READER—As a matter of fact, it may be good for your health. Population studies have shown that people who drink "hard water" are less likely to have heart and vascular disease. The difference is slight, though, so I hope no one will think this is the solution to all of his problems.

Water can also be an important source of calcium. A person drinking a reasonable amount of "hard" water each day can get nearly one-fifth of the daily calcium needs that way. Some of the other minerals in the water may also be useful.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of the Progress-Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on losing weight, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Losing Weight" booklet.

4-H Club movement started in Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — The 4-H Club movement originated in Mississippi.

Back in 1907, William Hall "Corn Club' Smith was superintendent of schools in Mississippi's Holmes County.

He started what was called "corn clubs" for boys.

The movement quickly spread throughout the South—and later the nation—under the name of 4-H Clubs

Ex-Claremont man heads project in Iran

CLAREMONT — Richard L. Anderson, a former resident here, has been assigned by the FMC Corp. to supervise construction of a tomato paste and ketchup plant in Tehran, Iran.

Anderson, a graduate of Claremont High School and Cal Poly, will supervise construction of the plant and equipping it with food processing machinery. He will also directly assist Iran in developing its agribusiness activities.

The new plant is expected to be in operation next year, and will cost about $500,000, according to FMC officials. It will be owned and operated by an Iranian corporation.

Anderson has served as the company's sales representative in the Middle East.

He, his wife, Janet, and two children, Philip and Scott, will live in Tehran for three years.

Sketches of 2 suspects circulated

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sketches of two men, who allegedly kidnaped Karen Joyce Huber, 5, from a Silver Lake elementary school 15 days ago, were circulated by police Monday.

One of the suspects, who police said was seen walking several feet behind Karen outside the Logan Street School after classes were let out, was described as between 30 and 35 years old, about 5 feet 8 inches tall, slender and with graybrown crew-cut hair.

The other suspect, seen parked in a 1967 or 1968 Ford Mustang near Karen's house for several days before her disappearance, was described as 45 to 55 years old, about 5 feet 10 or 11 inches tall, 140 to 160 pounds and gray hair. Both were neatly dressed.

Mary Huber described her daughter as 3 feet 6 inches tall, 40 pounds with blond hair. When Karen disappeared, she was wearing orange pants, orange boots and a whiteorange-blue striped blouse.

Severe drought in Midwest predicted

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — Dr. Walter Orr Roberts, a research scientist who believes sunspots directly affect the weather on earth, says a severe drought rivaling the Dust Bowl days of the Depression may hit the Great Plains next year or by 1975.

Roberts, president of the University Corporation for Atmospheric Research, says an upcoming period of very little sunspot activity may signal an oncoming drought. He said the sunspots follow a 20 to 22 year cycle and the droughts on the Great Plains fit that same pattern.

World of animals

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: I was happy to learn that the oak trees on our new ranch will be attracting a lot of wild animals. I have been told that acorns are the favorite food of more animals than any other? — K. O.

Dear K. O.: Acorns aren't actually the favorite food of very many animals. However, because they are nutritious and abundantly available in so many areas, acorns rate at or near the top of our wildlife food list with some 96 species of animals utilizing them, particularly during the food-scarce winter season.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I'm having a puppy shipped to me by express from a breeder. Friends say this is a bad way to buy a puppy. Are they right? I hope not because I couldn't find this breed of puppy here and it is the only one my children want. It seems to me like buying it should be safe enough because the breeder gives a lifetime guarantee with each puppy. Doesn't that sound reassuring? — V. P.

DEAR V. P.: Not necessarily. It might sound just the opposite. Just what is a "lifetime guarantee" supposed to mean? It certainly doesn't indicate how long that lifetime is. And what really are the specifics of such a piece of paper, if any?

Often the seller will agree to take back the animal at any time supposedly over a period of years if the owner is dissatisfied with it. The catch here is that anyone interested enough to buy a dog in the first place will presumably become so attached to it in a short time that he wouldn't want to return it under any circumstances.

This doesn't mean there aren't many legitimate breeders across the country who will stand squarely behind their animals and deal fairly with clients whom they may never see. It is wise, however, to check up on the breeder's reputation and to have the animal examined by the vet immediately after its arrival.

DR. DR. MILLER: A friend has a margay which isn't any bigger than our plain old alley cat. She surprised me when she said it was three years old. I didn't want to hurt her feelings, but isn't her margay stunted? — G. W.

Dear G. W.: Not unless it had unusually large parents. The margay usually varies in a size range that corresponds to the never common—but certainly more plentiful—domestic house cat.

OSU delays term to conserve energy

CORVALLIS Ore. (UPI) — President Robert MacVicar of Oregon State University has postponed the start of the winter term from Jan. 3 until Jan. 7 in an energy-saving move.

MacVicar announced the changes recently after consultation with deans and student and faculty senate leaders.

The start of Christmas vacation has not been changed. Fall term ends Dec. 15.

HAPPY THE BRIDE — Bill Howard of Walnut, as Fadinard, and Andrea Curley of Temple City as Helene, make a happy couple in a scene from the Mt. San Antonio College Players production of "An Italian Straw Hat." The comedy by Eugene Labiche and Marc Michel will be presented in the Little Theater at 8 o'clock tonight and Saturday and Dec. 7 and 8. Tickets at $1.25 are on sale at the box office.

Advantages from taxpayer election financing cited

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A Stanford political scientist said that taxpayer-supported campaign financing would be "the greatest bargain California taxpayers could get."

Prof. Robert Girard, speaking for Common Cause, asked the Assembly Elections and Reapportionment Committee to enact legislation that would provide public funding of political campaigns and relieve the pressure for big-money contributions.

Girard said testimony before the Senate Watergate committee in Washington, regarding industry big-money contributions to President Nixon's campaign, shows that stiff consumer price rises resulted and that costs to the public were "far greater" than the estimated costs of public financing of campaigns.

He said laws could be enacted to divert tax money into primary and general elections.

But Assemblyman Jim Keysor, D-San Fernando, committee chairman and Assemblyman Henry Waxman, D-Los Angeles, said obtaining public funds for general campaigns is "about all we can hope for now."

Girard said Common Cause has a plan that would appropriate about $20 million a year for a general fund. He said the fund would rely on both public and private contributions, with strict limitations on how the money would be spent and handled.

Loy Dickinson, speaking for the Los Angeles County Republican Central Committee, questioned whether legislation could be passed ta make public financing work in both primary and general elections. He questioned whether such a plan would give undue advantages to incumbents.

Girard said that to weed out "frivolous" or publicity seeking candidatess, his plan would require prospective candidates to obtain pledges of voter support for qualifying for public financing.

Rationing now urged by state energy leader

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Delaying the rationing of gasoline and other energy will lead only to bigger problems, the chairman of the Assembly's subcommittee on energy warns.

Assemblyman Charles Warren, D-Los Angeles, has predicted that energy rationing and "curtailment of some energy users" would be needed for 12 to 15 months to meet short-term energy shortages.

Declaring energy rationing is inevitable, Warren said, "The longer we put it off, the more drastic the problem will become."

The lawmaker would not say which energy users he thought should be cut off, but announced his subcommittee on state energy police would meet in Sacramento to look into the problem, as well as possible long-term solutions to the energy dilemma.

Warren also announced he would push for quick action when the legislature convenes in January on a sweeping energy measure (AB1575) which is pending before the Senate Public Utilities Committee.

His bill would create a new state energy commission with authority to ration fuel, approve locations for new power plants and raise money for energy research through new taxes. A similar measure was vetoed this year by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

In the Little Theater

MSAC to present comedy tonight

WALNUT The Mt. San Antonio College Players will present "An Italian Straw Hat" in the Little Theater at 8 o'clock tonight and Saturday and Dec. 7 and 8. Admission is $1.25.

The Eugene Labiche and Marc Michel farce will have Bill Howard as the hero Fadinard, with Bonnie Wuebben as Anais. Her lover, Emile, will be played by Tim Ward.

Others in the cast are Bill Panzer as Nonancourt; Andrea Curley as Helene; Byron Spearman, Vizinet; Hal Earles, Bobin; Gloria Thomas, Baroness; Gil Arevalo, Beauperthuis; Ned Johnson, Tardivea; Joyce Skinner, Virginie; Ray Boggs, Felix,; Douglas Labaco, Achile; Suzie Thomas, Clara, and Donna Haines, Servant.

Members of the wedding party include Melissa Card, Mike Berry, Donna Ondatje, Scott Johnson, Harumi Tribble, Donna Hamilton, Mike Cassidy, Donna Haines and Dennis McCuneo.

Season tickets are still available through the drama department for $3 per person for all three major productions this year.

In March the Players will offer Lillian Hellman's "The Little Foxes" and in May Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet."

No Russian the mail

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

In spite of the recent amicable detente between the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and Henry Kissinger, all does not go well with our Slavic dentists. They've got problems with the mail.

Nor rain, nor sleet, nor snow nor gloomski of night shall stay these couriers on the swift completion of their appointed rounds, but the postmaster didn't say anything about glaciers, wolves and especially bureaucratic inefficiency. Hard for the postman to get through those drifts on his snowshoes.

Mail, or the lack of it, has become a serious problem with the morose Muscovites. Pravda, the Communist Party organ, reported recently that the average delivery time for a letter is 5.2 days, with many letters taking 10 to 20 days to reach their destination. This is almsot as bad as the U.S. of A., and no wonder the Commies are upset.

The party leaders mailed a lot of dummy letters, 15,000 of them, and carefully timed the drop and the pickup. Reports on the arrivals were delayed getting back to Moscow by 10 to 20 days.

One of the most distressing reports came from Riga, which is 20 feet south of the North Pole, halfway between Goltichika and Ust-Olenekskoye. Residents, 3,001 Eskimos, 12 reindeer and one polar bear, reported that mail remained in letter boxes for two or three days before postal workers collected it. The Abominable Mailman.

Naturally the Communist Party is concerned with this inefficiency. They trace a letter from a party official suspected of being loyal, to someone else suspected of not, and the spies stand around in the snow for two or three days waiting for someone to pick up the letter. By the time they turned to icicles, it is safe for the suspect to call for his mail.

Party officials also discovered that the Ministry of Communications was falsifying records to cover up the mail delays. The Ssecret Sservice Ssurvey revealed that 90 per cent of letters mailed arrived at their destination after long delays, but the Communications Ministry records showed that 90 per cent of all letters were delivered promptly. Welcome to Siberia, boys.

Things are a lot different in this country. True, mail takes five days to get across town, but it is mail you don't want—ads for new suits you can't afford, new appliances you can't use, new plants that will never grow. You could care less if it takes five to 10 days to get to you. Better it should never arrive.

The American postal service is too efficient. Promptly on the first of the month—you can set your calendar by it—comes the bill from the dentist, the mortgage payment notice, the warning from the telephone company, the bank statement announcing you are $2.85 overdrawn and would you drop in and have a talk with our Mr. Davis.

If the Russian's mail service is slow and sloppy, he should shut uppa his face, boyze moy! He never had it so good.

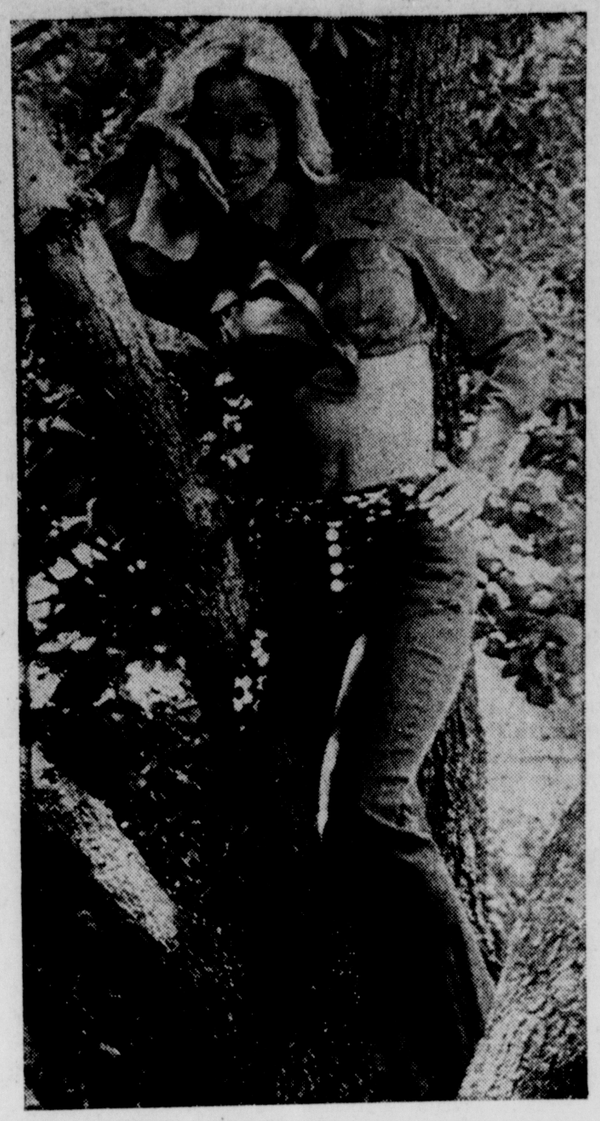
Art workshop at Vista School

CLAREMONT —The Vista del Valle School will hold its second family holiday art workshop on Dec. 9 from 2 to 4 p.m. at the school.

The cost for participation is 50 cents per person or $1.50 per family. Holiday decorations, evergreen wreaths, sand candles, and holders, and puppets are among the items to be made.

Each center will be supervised by an artist and all materials will be provided. A special tiny tots center will be available with special crafts and movies for children 2 to 5.

Howard and Joan Bunte are chairmen of the event.



UP A TREE —Gunilla Hutton, star of television's Hee Haw Show, will perform in the John Wayne Theater of Knott's Berry Farm at 5, 7 and 9 p.m. Dec. 8. Miss Hutton, a native of Gothenburg, Sweden, formerly starred on TV's Petticoat Junction, and toured night clubs with Nat "King" Cole. Her first record, "Chowchilla Dust," has just been released.

Chaffey College sets Christmas concert

ALTA LOMA — The Chaffey College music department will present its annual Christmas concert in the Little Theater at 8 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free.

Taking part will be the 55-voice Concert Choir, the 20-voice Concert Ensemble Singers and the Chaffey College State Band. The voices will be directed by Joyce Shannon; the band by Jack Mason.

Both vocal groups will join in singing Antonio Vivaldi's "Gloria," backed by a community orchestra assembled by Bernard Millstein of Pomona. This is an extended setting of the text of "Gloria in excelsis," a work divided into 12 sections.

Included will be solo arias, a soprano duet and choral numbers. Soloists will be soprano Linda Finley, Ontario, with "Domine Deus" and contralto Lori Powell, Alta Loma, with "Qui sedes."

Chaffey staff accompanist Steve Laitz, Ontario, will provide the harpsichord and continuo parts to complement the community orchestra of strings, winds and trumpets.

The Concert Ensemble will offer recently published modern arrangements by the American composer, Norman Dello Joio.

The arrangements are of such melodies as "God Rest Ye Merry, Gentlemen," "O Come All Ye Faithful" and "Silent Night." The ensemble will also sing such Joio originals as "Bright Star," "The Holy Infant's Lullaby" and a "Christmas Carol."

The piano duet accompaniment will be by Laitz and Edwina Chin, a freshman music major.

The Concert Choir will sing, "Christ Was Born on Christmas Day" and "Fum, Fum, Fum," arranged by Alice Parker and Robert Shaw. Incidental soloists will be Loretta Orcutt, soprano, and Michael Snyder, tenor, and Curtiss Bradford, tenor.

Mason's band and both singing groups will complete the program with a medley of carols, "At Christmastime," arranged by John Cacavas. Among the carols will be "I Heard the Bells on Christmas Day," "Deck the Hall," "We Three Kings" and "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing."

Music School plans busy two weeks

CLAREMONT — A busy two weeks is in store for the singers, dancers and musicians of the Claremont Community School of Music starting with a string orchestra concert at Griswold's Pavilion at 1 p.m. Saturday, followed by a Renaissance concert at 2 p.m. and Balkan folk dances and songs at 5 p.m.

On Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. the string orchestra will play at the Montclair Plaza, and the Balkan folk dancers will perform there at 6:30 p.m. next Friday.

From 1 to 5 p.m. Dec. 9, the school will stage "Music in the Park," a program of music, dance and theater in Memorial Park. A student recital will be held at St. Ambrose Church at 7 p.m. the following day.

The School of Music will present a woodwind orchestra at Griswold's Pavilion at 1 p.m. Dec. 15, followed by a flute ensemble of youths at the library patio at 2 p.m. and a program of carols and Balkan dances there at 5 p.m.

Candy may solve shopping for gift

NEW YORK (UPI) — Candy is dandy for holiday gifts. Last minute holiday shopping won't throw you in a panic, in fact, if you consider the candy solution.

Boxed chocolate candies in all varieties and sizes are easy to buy. There's no worry about size, color or design. The National Confectioners Association says the boxes are wrapped in holiday paper and decoration.

BANTERING BARBER — Dominic Cossa and Patricia Wise star in the New York City Opera production of Rossini's "Il Barbiere di Siviglia" in the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center at 8 p.m. Dec. 8. The New York company's seven-week engagement concludes Dec. 9 with Beverly Sills singing in "I Puritani."

New York Opera in final week

LOS ANGELES — The final week of the New York City Opera's seventh annual visit opens with Richard Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier" in the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center at 8 p.m. Monday.

The principal artists are Doris Jung, Sylvia Anderson, Rose Wildes, Michael Langdon and David Clatworthy. Charles Wendelken-Wilson conducts.

On Tuesday, Patricia Brooks will be heard in the title role of Massenet's "Manon" in French, with Giuseppe Campora, John Darrenkamp, Thomas Jamerson and Richard T. Gill, Wendelken-Wilson conducting. "Manon" repeats at the Dec. 9 matinee with the same cast, except Andre Turp will be heard, instead of Campora.

On Wednesday, Beverly Sills will be heard in Donizetti's "Maria Stuarda" in Italian, with Marisa Galvany, Enrico DiGiuseppe, Richard Fredricks and Gill, Wendelken-Wilson conducting.

The double bill of Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana," (with Miss Galvany, Margaret Yauger, Harry Theyard and Darrenkamp) and Leoncavallo's "I Pagliacci" (with Carol Bayard, Herman Malamood, William Chapman and Jamerson), both sung in Italian with Giuseppe Morelli conducting, is scheduled for the Dec. 8 matinee.

Rossini's "Il Barbiere di Siviglia" will be heard in Italian Saturday evening with Patricia Wise, Beverly Evans, William McDonald, Dominic Cossa, Robert Hale and Michael Li-Paz, Morelli conducting.

Miss Sills will close the season the evening of Dec. 9 with a performance of the Music Center Opera Association's first production staged in conjunction with Myco, Bellini's "I Puritani" in Italian.
